GRIP OF RED FORCES CHOKING GERMANY

WOOD IS LEADING IN SOUTH DAKOTA

But Lowden and Johnson Are Close Up — Only Scattering Vote Cast for Poindexter.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 23.—The contest between General Leonard wood, Senator Hiram Johnson, Governor Lowden, of Illinois, and Senator Poindexter for the republican presidential indorsement at the South Dakota primary election today became one of fluctuating successes tolght, so far as the first three weer concerned. Returns from 234 out of 1,740 precincts showed Wood leading Lowden by 1,323 votes, and Johnson closely pressing the Illinois governor for second place. The returns showed only scattered votes for Poindexter.

Three Candidates Bunched.

Returns from the 234 out of 1,740 state precincts in thirty-five of sixty-four counties gave: Wood, 10,364; Lowden, 9,041; Johnson, 8,843.

The returns included most of the precincts in all the leading cities of the state except Huron.

General Wood carried Sioux Falls lcty by 77 votes over Johnson. Aberdeen went to Lowden over Wood, by 24 votes. In Minnehaha county, outside of Sioux Falls, Johnson had a lead of several hundred votes. The California senator polled a tremendous vote in Lincoln county, getting 1,064 out of about 1,600 ballots.

Johnson was leading in Yankton on the face of incomplete returns.

Scattering returns for United States senator and governor showed ueads for Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMaster, repjublican candidates, indorsed by the state convention December 2.

Voting booths closed at 5 p. m., and managers for various candidates predicted that a fairly heavy vote was cast throughout the state. Fair weather prevaile d generally.

A number of candidates for national and state offices were nominated automatically. The state primary law provides for such a process when candidates have no party opposition.

Nonpartisan League.

The ticket of the national nonpartisan league—which has a party status in South Dakota—was not on the ballot. When the time limit for independent candidates to file had expired, the secretary of state had not received any additional filings from candidates for league support and the ticket indorsed at the proposal convention, December 2, was considered nominated.

Tom Ayres, of Zeona, is the league nominee for United States senator, and M. P. Bates, of Letcher, is the party's candidate for governor. The proposal convention indorsed Governor Frazier, of North Dakota, as candidate for president, but Frazier did not formally accept the indorsement.

The democrats had few contests. No ticket for state officers indorsed at the Pierre convention was contested. There were no congressional contests. In the third district, Representative Henry L. Gandy, of Rapid City, was nominated to succed himself. Interest in the democratic primary was centered upon the fight for national committeeman among James Mee, of Centerville; John A. Bowler, of Sioux Falls; Ralph E. Johnson, Sioux Falls, and J. E. Bird, Watertown, and for United States senator between P. S. G. Cherry, Sioux Falls, and Tom Taubman, of Plankinton.

James W. Gerard, of New York, and James O. Monroe, of Maywood, Ill., sought democratic indorsement for president.

There were many contests on the republican ballot. The only candidate who had a clear field was Representative Royal C. Johnson, of Aberdeen, in the second district, who sought re-election.

WIFE WHIPPER GETS MEDICINE HE GAVE WIFE

Akron, Ohio, March 23.—George Belley probably knows what his wife suffered when he beat her with a heavy leather belt.

On order of Judge Pardee, of the municipal court, a court officer today stripped Belley's back of clothing and applied a series of lashes with the buckle end of the same belt with which the wife had been beaten.

Mrs. Theresa Belley caused her husband's arrest and told the court of the beating he had given her with the belt.

The order for the flogging and its subsequent enforcement followed.

METHODISTS LIFT BAN ON THEATERS, CARDS AND DANCES

Harrisburg, Pa., March 23.—The Central Pennsylvania Methodist conference today adopted a resolution suggesting to the general conference the elimination of the church rule making members who attend theaters, dance, play cards or indulge in other "worldly" amusements liable to expulsion.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Ragnell, pastor of Grace church, Harrisburg, who offered the resolution, explained that the rule was not generally enforced. It was adopted, 77 to 68, after a heated discussion.

Angered by Sims, War Department Goes Into Action

General Tasker H. Bliss Denies Ever Recommending Brigading of United States Troops With Foreign Armies, as Sims Charged.

SIMS AND PITTMAN IN BITTER CLASHES

Senator Shakes Finger at Admiral and Latter Hotly Protests — Pittman Charges That Sims Was Entirely Subservient to British Admiralty.

Washington, March 23.—The controversy started by Admiral Sims' criticism of the navy department's conduct its war activities was broadened tonight by the entry of the war department to deny some of the admiral's statements regarding the land forces.

General Tasker H. Bliss, American representative in the supreme war council, not only denied categorically he had recommended the brigading of United States troop with foreign armies, as testified by Admiral Sims, but declared "the trtuh is exactly the reverse."

General Bliss made his general statement in a letter to Secretary Baker, who transmitted it, together with a copy of the original order assigning General Pershing to command the forces overseas, to Secretary Daniels, and he, in turn, sent both to Chairman Hale, of the senate naval subcommittee, at the same time making all the correspondence public.

Flat Denial by Bliss.

"Not only at no time did I make any recommendation for the brigading of American troops with the British army," General Bliss said, "but the truth is exactly the reverse. The only times that I ever came in contact with Admiral Sims in Europe was while I was in London with the American mission (the so-called house mission) between the 8th and 22d of November, 1917. During that entire time the idea of brigading or amalgamating American troops with foreign armies had not, as far as I know, entered the head of anyone, nor did I ever make such a suggestion, much less a recommendation."

General Bliss said he told the supreme war council that such a thing as permanent amalgamation of American units with the British or French would be "intolerable to

"Rent Hog" Fight Marked by Hisses, Cheers, Cat Calls

Struggle in New York Assembly Against Rent Profiteering Winds Up With Racket Like That at Ball Game Tied in Ninth.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—The hearing before a legislative committee, accorded New York landlords and tenants on legislation designed to curb rent profiteering wound up tonight with a racket equalled only by that heard at a world series game tied in the ninth.

Charges and counter charges, hisses and cheers, cat calls and frantic clapping of hands mingled with cries of "put him out" as opposing factions clashed in debate before the special joint legislative committee considering the proposed relief measures.

Landlords and tenants, about a hundred to a side who arrived here at noon from New York faced each other across the assembly chamber and it seemed at times as if only the fact that they could not get at one another prevented them from coming to blows.

Hot Warning to Legislators.

Fiernello La Guardia, president of the New York city board of aldermen, was selected to open the case for the tenants. He issued the following statement:

"Unless the present legislature enacts the rent measures now before it, I predict the next legislature will not spend its time discussing seating or unseating of five radicals. It will be a legislature of radicals deciding whether or not to seat five republicans and democrats. If the present situation continues, rent payers in New York not only in the Bronx but along Riverside drive, will stop paying rent next September. Then what will be done? You can't dispossess the whole city. The situation will be so universal that it will consti-

GEORGIA MURDERS LAID TO HUSBAND

Chicago Woman Tells Judge That Joseph Fox Told Her He Had Killed Three People in This State.

Chicago, Ill., March 23.—(Special.)—Joseph Fox is a playful husband, but his bride fears he will carry the joke too far, so she has laid the case before Judge Samuels Trude in the court of domestic relations, at the same time asserting that he confessed to her he had killed three people in Georgia.

"Get under that table and play you are a dog," she says Fox commanded her, accelerating her movements by prodding her with the point of a big butcher knife. "Hurry up, now, or I'll slice your block off. This coffee is punk and I feel like cutting your throat and drinking your blood."

Zetta says she obeyed his orders. She crawled under the table and barked and growled and powed the imaginary dirt and performed other dog-like stunts suggested by her playful husband.

"He's always like that," Zetta told the judge. "He never works and he said if I lost my position he would cut my heart out. He is always beating me or prodding me with a butcher knife.

"We were married in Cleveland only last December, and he told me our life would be just one long dreamy honeymoon.

"Three weeks ago he got confidential and told me that five or six years ago he had shot and killed his first wife and a man who had accompanied her to a hotel. He also told me that a little later he had killed the husband of his uncle's adopted daughter.

"It seems the uncle had bequeathed to my husband and the adopted daughter a $15,000 estate. My husband and the daughter's husband had quarreled about it and my husband had shot him. He was charged with murder, was released on bond and skipped out, he said. All of the murders were committed at Seecomb, Ga., his home town, he said."

Wife Excuses Husband For His Affinity Stunt Because He Was Gassed

San Francisco, March 23.—Mental irresponsibility, as a result of being gassed in France, was put forward in testimony by Mrs. E. V. McGinnis, of St. Louis, today, pleading for the acquittal of her husband, a former army captain, charged with brining Miss Esther Botts, his stenographer, to California in violation of the Mann act.

Salvation Army Singing Pleases At Bible Meeting

Unexpected Feature Proves One of Events of Night at Conference. Strong Program Promised for Today.

Little—and yet not so little either—but delightful surprises are continually charming the great audiences that gather daily and nightly to swell the grand total of the attendance of the Baptist Bible conferences at the Tabernacle.

Last night the surprise was contributed by people who had no expectation of giving it when they entered the house, people whom the house least expected to hear from when they took their seats for the evening service—five members of the Salvation Army sitting in the second balcony. But they rose to the occasion like the true soldiers that they are, and this is how it came about:

The song of the minute was a combination of the words to "Jesus, Lover of My Soulf" with the melody Lover of My Soul," with the melody Dr. William Evans had finished his characteristically strong and sturdy address, and Dr. G. Campbell Morgan was coming on.

Calls on Salvation Army.

Choir Leader Spooner, with the assistance of his versatile organist, Ione Gloer, was producing varied effects with the new combination,

MRS. INNES HELD; HEARING PUT OFF

After Three Years in Prison Woman in Nelms Case Appears Worn and Aged — Too Tired to Talk.

Macon, Ga., March 23.—(Special.) Mrs. Ida Mae Innes, who has just finished a three-year term at the state farm following her conviction jointly with her husband, Victor Innes, for defrauding the Nelms sisters out of their money, is a prisoner in the Bibb county jail tonight. She was unable to make the $5,000 bond assessed this afternoon by the United Sattes commissioner after she had obtained a continuance of her preliminary hearing until next Friday. Mrs. Innes eventually expects to make bond and says she will fight every feature of the indictment which charges her with using the mails to defraud.

Efforts were made to interview Mrs. Innes while she sat in the United States marshal's office waiting her turn her case was to be taken up by the commissioner but she refused to do much talking, merely answering questions propounded to her in sentences of two or three words.

"Too Tired to Talk."

"I am just too tired to talk," she said. "I am weary of publicity. It is all such sensational publicity and I don't feel like I can stand much more of it. I know you want to know about my case, but I have positively nothing to say."

With that she settled back in her chair and sighed wearily. She folded her hands, which are transparently thin, with the blue veins standing out on them. Her face looks pale and wrinkled and her black hair is streaked with gray. She wore a heavy black veil, which covered her face, and a blue straw hat.

Asked as to her health, Mrs. Innes said she was exhausted from her trip. "It is the first time I have taken any exercise and it has worn me out," she said. "I have been sick practically ever since I entered the pen and am still very weak. No, I did not have the flue. The doctors tell me I have contracted tuberculosis and I have been in bed most of the last two years and seven months.

Won't Visit Husband.

Asked if she intended to visit her husband if she goes to Atlanta, Mrs. Innes said she did not think she would. "I do not feel able to make the trip out to the convict camp," she said.

Asked if she had read the story in the newspapers several weeks

Galaxy of Stars Soon to Follow Northern Lights

Marcus Loew, June Caprice, Taylor Holmes, Ruby DeRemer, Doraldina and Others Will Arrive Thursday.

Following the first appearance of the Aurora Borealis in Atlanta for twelve years there will arrive here Thursday afternoon the greatest galaxy of stars ever seen in this city.

But the luminaries this time will be headliners in the movie world, people whose faces are familiar enough on the screen, but who have never before paid a personal visit to the Gate City of the South.

They are coming here from Nashville, Tenn., where they have been given a great reception, the first notice that they would make this trip coming last night from Marcus Loew, to Manager W. A. Finney, of Loew's Grand here.

As had been announced previously, June Caprice will appear in person at this theater at each showing of "In Walked Mary," in which she is the star. This program will be carried out, and in addition, the entire party will appear at least during Thursday.

Included in the party in addition to Mr. Loew, head of the Loew Enterprises, Inc., and Miss Caprice, are:

Doraldina, noted dancer and exponent of the Hula and Larumba, who has never appeared outside of New York and Chicago.

Jack Clifford, society dancer and husband of Evelyn Nesbit.

Ann Luther, Lillian Walker, Ruby DeRemer, Claire Whitney, all noted and well-known movie stars.

Mildred Reardon, who played Conscience in "Everywoman," and was seen in the part of Gloria Swanson's sister in "Male and Female."

Taylor Holmes, who is now appearing here in "Nothing But the Truth."

Helen Moyer, former Follies star, later newspaper woman, and at present society belle of Philadelphia.

A Loew camera man accompanies the party and will make motion pictures of the crowds that assemble to bid them welcome on their arrival here Thursday at 12:30 noon at the Union depot.

If it had been known that this party was coming to Atlanta many entertainments would have been provided, and as it is there will not be an idle moment during their stay in the Gate City of the South.

Extra $200,000,000 Added to Coal Bill; U. S. Control Gone

OPERATORS WARNED AGAINST PROFITEERING

President Says They Must Not Exact Unreasonable Prices for Coal — Wilson's Action Restores Soft Coal Situation to Status Existing Prior to Nation-Wide Strike.

Washington, March 23.—With a warning against profiteering President Wilson today ordered abandonment of government control over bituminous coal prices and asked miners and operators to negotiate a new working agreement on the basis of the majority report of the coal strike settlement commission.

The president ordered termination of price control on April 1, when the new working agreement becomes effective. This will permit at least partial absorption in coal prices of the increase in miners' wages, established at 27 per cent by the commission's majority report. The increase in wages, the commission estimated, will entail an added annual cost of $209,000,000 and includes the 14 per cent increase awarded the miners in settling the recent strike.

Miners Ready for Conference.

The date of the joint conference of operators and miners to formulate a new wage agreement had not been set tonight. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, while awaiting a conference with officials of his union on the matter, issued a statement saying that the miners were ready and willing to participate in a meeting with the operators.

The majority and minority reports of the coal commission also were made public at the white house, and both were included by the president in his letter to the operators and miners. Notwithstanding the lack of unanimity in the commission's findings, the president said it was to be assumed that the two groups would regard the majority award as binding. The minority report would be laid before them for their guidance in reaching an agreement.

The president in rescinding control over prices restored the fuel situation so far as bituminous coal is concerned to the status existing prior to November 1, when the bituminous miners went out in a nation-wide strike. The legislative order, however, does not affect the tidewater coal exchange, which was re-established February 25 and which controls export of coal.

Warning to Operators.

The operators were warned by President Wilson against violating laws against combination in restraint of trade and profiteering and also not to exact "unreasonable prices for coal."

"I am aware," said the president, "that at present, as a result of the shortage created by the coal strike and of the consequent interference with trainsportation and as a result, also, of the exceptionally unfavorable winter, the demand for coal continues active. I desire to impress upon the coal operators the extreme importance not only of their complying to the fullest extent with the laws against combinations in restraint of trade and against profiteering, but also of their exerting themselves affirmatively to prevent exacting of unreasonable prices for coal. I am sure the public fully appreciates the desirability, where practicable, of leaving commercial transactions untrammelled, but at the same time I am satisfied the public will find ways to protect itself if such liberal policy shall appear to result in unreasonably high prices."

April 1 is the date on which these agreements normally would become effective and by removing government control of prices effective that day the president paves the way for increased coal prices to absorb the average 27 per cent increase recommended in the majority report.

Early Agreements Urged.

The president wrote the operators and miners that it was "essential to the public welfare that the agreements be concluded at the earliest date practicable so that the uncertainty as to the fuel supply may be ended and that the consumers may be able to make contracts for their coal upply."

The president said he assumed that neither party would raise any

PALMER LEADERS TO MEET IN MACON

Chairman Stovall Has Called Executive Committee to Gather at the Lanier Hotel on Friday Noon — Campaign Making Progress.

Chairman Pleasant A. Stovall, of Savannah, has issued a call for a meeting of the Palmer executive committee at the Lanier hotel in Macon at noon Friday. A full attendance is expected and much enthusiasm will undoubtedly be manifested as reports from all parts of the state yesterday indicated a growth in the Palmer sentiment.

The lengths to which Senator Reed and former Senator Hardwick went in their speeches at the Auditorium Monday night in their abuse of President Wilson and the democratic administration has undoubtedly stimulated a belligerent reaction in their favor. Several of those who were at the Auditorium meeting expressed their disgust yesterday with the extreme villification of the head of the party to which they had listened the night before.

Not all of these have been in full accord with all of the policies of the president either. While differing from him in some matters of policy, however, they were amazed to hear him branded as an "imperial autocrat" and villified as a "traitor to America." One man said: "I expected to find Senator Reed a dignified and conservative senator, not a ranter."

Arrangements have been made to secure the Aditorium for Attorney General Palmer when he speaks in Atlanta on Tuesday night of April 6. Unless all signs fail the Pennsylvania man will be greeted by one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences that ever assembled to hear a political speech in Georgia.

24 HOURS NEEDED TO TRY AND HANG NEGRO IN TEXAS

San Augustine, Texas, March 23.—Previous Texas court records, involving the death penalty, probably were broken here today when John Hood Price, a negro, was hanged for the murder of John Kennedy, a farmer, less than 24 hours after his arrest.

The negro was captured yesterday at 4:30 p. m. He was quickly indicted by a special grand jury and a trial jury immediately sworn in. A night session was held in the county courthouse and the negro sentenced to death.

At 11 o'colck today, 2,000 persons viewed the hanging of Price in the public square.

Kennedy was killed at his home here March 16 by two charges from a shotgun fired through a window. Price and Kennedy had quarreled the day before.

DELAWARE HALTS ABOUT SUFFRAGE

Poll of House and Senate Shows That the Ratification of the Anthony Amendment Is Not Probable.

Philadelphia, March 23.—A dispatch to the Evening Bulletin from Dover, Delaware., where the legislature met in special session yesterday, says ratification of the suffrage amendment by Delaware seems doomed unless something unexpected develops to influence members now apparently against such action.

A poll of both houses today, the dispatch says, showed 34 members opposed to ratification and eighteen favoring it. The suffragist leaders agreed that this poll was accurate. They expressed the hope, however, that Delaware will yet come into line and become the thirty-sixth state to ratify, this making the nineteenth amendment a law and giving women of the country the right to vote.

There was jockeying among members of the legislature today on the suffrage question, the anti-suffrage leaders declaring that if the question was brought up this week it would meet certain defeat. The suffrage leaders who previously had insisted on immediate action now are seeking delay, it was said, in hope that more favorable sentiment would develop In this connection, Senator E. A. Poole, one of the suffrage advocates, admitted that the amendment's position was insecure at this time.

Dover, Del., March 23.—Senator Thomas Gormley, democrat, informed the senate he would introduce a bill tomorrow that all amendments to the federal constitution be submitted to a referendum of the people. An attempt was made to present the bill today, but was blocked by the republicans.

An effort is being made by the suffragists to have William G. McAdoo and Will H. Hays present Thursday at the hearing on ratification to make addresses favorable to the passage of the amendment.

In a letter made public here tonight by the anti-suffragists, Miss Betty Gram, natitonal organizer for the woman's party, is said to have written that suffrage could "never win here unless something extraordinary happens." She described the situation as desperate in the letter, which was an appeal for aid.

Governor Bickett Hands Off.

Raleigh, N. C. March 23.—Governor Bickett today declined the request of Miss Sue White of suffrage headquarters at Washington that he send a telegram to the governor of Deleware asking that he urge the legislature of that state to ratify the Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment.

Besides not desiring to interfere in the affairs of another state, it was explained at the governor's office, Governor Bickett felt that in view of his recent announcement that he would ask the special ses-

Wilson May Write New Peace Treaty With the Germans

Congressman Flood to Introduce Resolution Giving President Power to Negotiate New Instrument.

Richmond. Va., March 23.—Congressman Hal D. Flood, called here to participate in the West Virginia debt case, stated tonight that as soon as he returned to Washington he will offer a resolution instructing President Wilson to write a new peace treaty. Mr. Flood said that his resolution will ask the president to declare the United States at peace with all powers.

The preamble of the proposed resolution reads:

"The president be, and is hereby, requested and authorized to enter into negotiations with the government of Germany and her allies and with the powers associated with the United States in the European war with a view to conclude a settlement of all controversies between the United States and Germany and her allies, and to conclude by and with the advice and consent of the senate any and all international acts or agreements necessary to reach a definite adjustment with all the powers engaged in the European war in respect of any questions or controversies relating to the conflict."

Referring to the Knox resolution, Mr. Flood declared that it "imposed conditions Germany cannot fulfill because indemnities and reparations called for in the treaty of Versailles were available, when three of the high contracting parties had ratified the treaty. Four have now ratified. It would mean that this country would have to deal not only with Germany, but with the allied and associatedpowers in respect to these indemnities and reparations, therefore, the Knox resolution is a nullity."

"Technically," said Mr. Flood, "this country is at peace with Germany following the lifting of the embargo last July, after which trade relations were resumed."

SOVIET REGIMES HOLDING POWER IN MANY PLACES

INDUSTRIAL REGIONS CONTROLLED BY REDS

There Is Violent Fighting at Many Places, With Heavy Casualties. The Strike in Berlin Is Reported Off, But the Disorders Continue Elsewhere — Von Luettwitz Reported Under Arrest.

Berlin, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The strike committee has unanimously proclaimed the strike ended. Work will be resumed tomrrow.

London, March 23.—The Bauer government has come to terms with the extremists at the cost of sweeping concessions, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to The London Times. A purely socialist cabinet is to be formed, which will try to re-establish order and hold general elections. The Reichswehr troops will be immediately withdrawn and Berlin workmen's guards formed.

VON LUETTWITZ UNDER ARREST.

Berlin, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Major General von Luettwitz, the military commander in the Kapp revolt, has been arrested, it is officially announced. Admiral von Trotha, chief of the military, has also been arrested.

There is no definite news of Kapp's whereabouts. It is supposed he is on his estate in East Prussia.

Some of the ringleaders in the Kapp revolution, against whom proceedings have begun for high treason, have disappeared. They include Dr. Kapp, himself, Von Jagow, Major Pabst, Colonel Bauer, Dr. Shiele and ex-Attorney Brederek.

Baron von Falkenhausen, a former assistant attorney of state, and Councilor Doye, have been added to the list of those to be prosecuted.

LABOR UPRISING BEYOND POWER OF GOVERNMENT

By S. B. Conger.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Berlin, March 23.—(By Wireless.) The rising of workmen in the industrial regions of western Germany has assumed proportions that place it far beyond the government's power, with its present military resources, to check the movement and restore authority by the usual military or police measures. The government is, therefore, forced to abandon thought of using its scanty troops in aggressive measures, and has determined, instead, to resort to the tactics of propaganda or perhaps of blockade, to wear down the fighting determination of the labor

$425,000,000 CARRIED BY NAVAL MEASURE

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Washington, March 23.—The house today passed the annual naval appropriation bill without making any reduction in the $104,000,000 for the continuation of the 1916 building program. The contracts for the 16 capital ships called for in this program have already been let, according to statements made on the floor of the house, and work on many ships is already under way. The total carried by the bill is about $425,000,000.

An amendment prohibiting the practice of so-called "time and motion" study and the granting of premiums and bonuses on that basis in what is known as the Taylor system among the employees in naval construction was offered by Representative Harry E. Hull, of Iowa. It was passed by a vote of 218 to 69.

Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, one of the republican leaders of the house made two attempts to reduce the appropriation for the continuation of the naval construction program, but failed in both. He proposed that no money be spent for ships called for in the program for which no contracts had been let, then added to the amendment a provision to include ships on which no work had been begun, finally proposed that no money be given for ships contracted for under the cost plus plan.

Although the attempt to eliminate cost plus contracts from the construction of battle ships brought forth a storm of protest against this form of contract from republicans, the amendment was defeated by a vote of 81 to 29.

Representatives William R. Green, of Iowa, protested against the expenditure of $104,000,000 for the 1916 program on the grounds that the ships construction of the huge ships provided for was in a measure an experiment, and that it was possible they would be obsolete for naval warfare when completed. Representative Edward C. Little, of Kansas, made the same objection.

Referring to his amendment to prevent the construction of navy vessels under the cost plus contract system, Mr. Madden characterized the cost plus plan as "stench in the nostrils of the American people." Other republicans joined in the protest.

Members of the house naval affairs committee said that the navy department was unable to obtain contracts for the construction of battleships except on the cost plus plan.

Under the bill the navy enlisted strength would be 143,000, but that strength is not expected to be reached until the end of the year, making appropriation for more than 125,000 unnecessary.

EXTRA $200,000,000 ADDED TO COAL BILL

question and that he was sure that no question could properly be raised as to the binding character of the award by the majority of the commission notwithstanding the fact that it was not unanimous.

The executive order withdrawing government control of prices removes virtually all government control of coal, placing the fuel administration in the status that it was before its authority was restored when the miners struck last November 1.

The president said there was no provision of law for fixing new coal prices for peace-time purposes and that "unless and until some grave emergency shall arise, which in my judgment has a relation to the emergency purposes of the Lever act, I would not feel justified in fixing coal prices with reference to future conditions of production."

The majority report of the commission said the 27 per cent increase absorbed the 14 per cent increase allowed when the miners returned to work, and that in dollars it would approximate $200,000,000 a year.

30-Hour Week Refused.

In refusing the demand of the miners for a thirty-hour week, the majority of the commission said that if the work day were shortened by one hour it would be equivalent to an additional cost of more than $100,000,000.

The minority report of John P. White, the miner's representative, held out for a higher increase for all day labor and monthly men than were granted by the majority, but he concurred in the recommendation for a 24-cent per ton increase on pick and machine mining. His report was transmitted to the operators and miners by the president for their information.

The decision of the majority, Henry M. Robinson, representing the public, and Rembrandt Peale, representing the operators, is summarized as follows:

Unless otherwise ordered the terms and conditions of the Washington agreement of 1917 continue.

The 14 per cent increase in wages fixed by the fuel administration is eliminated on March 31, and replaced by this award (which is on a 27 per cent basis.)

The agreements drafted under this award are to take effect April 1, 1920 and continue until March 31, 1922 (in other words, the miners do not get their demand for termination of contracts in the fall).

The mining prices for mining mine-run coal, pick and machine, are advanced 24 cents.

All day labor and monthly men are advanced a dollar a day, except trappers and boys, who are advanced 53 cents a day.

All rates for yardage, dead work and room turning are advanced 26 per cent.

The fulfillment of all joint and district agreements are to be guaranteed by the officers of the international organization.

The six-hour day and the five-day week are not granted; the eight-hour day is retained.

The practice of car pushing stands, but with recommendations for careful consideration of ways and means for the introduction of ameliorating practices.

Commission Is Proposed.

A commission is set up for the central competitive field to handle questions of differentials in rate and certain other matters.

If the recommendations of the president's industrial conference are adopted in regard to industrial tribunals and boards of inquiry, this machinery is to be put into use in the coal industry. Otherwise a special board is to be set up.

Explosives are to be furnished miners at cost.

Other recommendations by the majority included:

That the council of national defense obtain the support of the general public for coal storage.

That the interstate commerce commission be directed to aid in the solution of the transportation problems, with particular attention to the question of seasonal freight rates, car supply and car distribution.

That state governors be asked to issue executive orders to state institutions and departments for the purchase and storage of winter coal during the summer.

That state railway and public utility commissions use their influence with the various utility commissions to induce the purchase and storage of coal by those corporations.

That the railroads be asked to cooperate in coal storage, car construction and distribution, and the reduction to a minimum of the practice of commandeering coal.

That the federal reserve board permit federal reserve banks to favor, as eligible for re-discount paper drawn against coal in storage.

That the interstate commerce commission, state railway and public utility commissions within their jurisdiction issue rules controlling car distribution among mines, to the end that no particular mine or mines may be permitted to obtain preferential car service.

That the practice whereby purchasing agents of carriers can use company control over car supply to force down the price of railway fuel be abolished.

Chief Point of Difference.

The principal point of difference between the majority and minority reports was on the matter of hours of work. Commissioner Robinson and Peale recommended retention of the present eight-hour day but Commissioner White agreed to such hours only until May 1, 1921. After that date, Mr. White held, the maximum hours for miners should not exceed eight hours under ground a day, nor more than six days a week. The miners demanded a six-hour day and a five-day week.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a formal statement expressed disappointment that the president had affirmed the majority report of the commission, but said the miners were ready and willing to respond to the suggestion that they participate in a joint wage conference.

The majority of the commission said the wage advance to tonnage workers after this award would amount to 88 per cent since 1913, while the advance to day men would average 111 per cent, and that these advances granted the miners an increase in wages larger than the percentage of increase in the cost of living submitted by their representatives.

Time to Consider Public.

"The time has come," said the majority report, "for the people of the country, of which labor constitutes a large part, to look beyond temporary wage settlements and consider the general welfare, first, of the general public itself, then, of the employees and employers.

"A wage settlement for the moment is not a correct or adequate answer to the problem. The coal indurtsy has been on an unsound basis for years, because of its seasonal character and the resulting car shortage and car service intermittencies. When the market drops in the spring and summer there are idle men, idle mines, and idle cars. From the standpoint of employers and employees, the industry has yielded a hazardous return.

to bring about eveness of produc-

"The solution of the problem is to bring about eveness of production and distribution. This can be done by the co-operation of the railroads, public utilities and steel companies as consumers, on the other side; and of the operators, the interstate commerce commission, the banks and the federal reserve system, on the other side. Some of the leading railroads have given assurances of their co-operation. Others approached have not."

Original Demands of Miners.

The principal demands of the bituminous coal miners as originally presented to the operators, were:

A 60 per cent increase in wages.

A thirty-hour week.

Time and one-half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.

Nationalization of the coal mines.

Termination of wage contracts in the fall instead of spring.

The majority report of the commission provides:

An increase of 27 per cent in wages.

Retention of the eight-hour day.

Termination of contracts on each March 31.

Establishment of a commission to handle the question of differentials in rates and other matters in the central competitive field.

March 22 Proves Day of Fatalities For Savannahans

Savannah, Ga., March 23.—(Special.)—Yesterday proved to be a day of fatalities in Savannah. Homicide, accident and suicide featured the day's events.

Jesse Harper died at a local hospital following shots the night before on the Augusta road, said to have been inflicted by a negro, who fled and has not yet been apprehended.

Israel Edgefield, an aged itinerant preacher, was accidentally killed in the Atlantic Coast Line railroad's yards, and his body discovered hours after he had met his death in an unknown manner.

James H. Lee was today buried, his death having been self-inflicted. He gave his purse and a letter to his aged mother at their home and then, in his room, fired a long-range rifle ball through his body just below the heart.

Five-year-old Juanita Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Buchanan, was seriously injured when the automobile in which she was riding with her parents hit a tree and jammed her against the front seat of the machine.

To offset this, one life was saved. The prompt response to a call for help by the fire department saved the life of Victor Grey, about 23 years old, when he was overcome by gas escaping in a bathroom. The department, with a pulmotor, revived him after life appeared entirely extinct.

Daylight Saving Will Play "Hob" With Exchanges

New York Law to Affect Business Hours and Conditions in Stock and Trade Markets Throughout Country.

New York, March 23.—Operation of the state daylight saving law, which becomes effective at 2 a. m. Sunday, through the refusal of the legislature today to repeal the bill, is expected materially to affect business hours and conditions in stock and trade markets throughout the country. Officials of the stock, cotton and other exchanges here, together with all local banks, announced they would operate under the new time schedule, which makes "official New York time" two hours ahead of Chicago, instead of one, with a corresponding increase over the standard time in other sections of the country.

New York stock and trade markets pointed out they are required by law to adopt the official state time. This will involve a rearrangement of leased wire schedules at outside points, they said. Local officials were without information as to whether the Philadelphia and Boston stock exchanges, which usually follow the lead of New York on the question of business hours and holidays, would set their clocks ahead to conform to New York time.

Some confusion is expected to result by reason of the fact that the railroad time tables will continue to be based on standard time.

Banks, courts, churches, theaters, traction companies, in fact, virtually all activities in New York, will operate on "summer time." William F. Morgan, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, representing more than six thousand business houses, stores and banks here, tonight issued an appeal to the people of the city for a general observance of the law. They are asked to submit "cheerfully to any inconvenience that the existing confusion may cause until the time schedules have been worked out."

LESLIE, GA., YOUTH SERIOUSLY HURT BY PASTOR'S CAR

Americus, Ga., March 24.—Joe Bolton, son of J. L. Bolton, a Leslie merchant, was struck by an automobile driven by the Rev. C. S. Durden, pastor of Leslie Baptist church, and sustained a fractured skull. The accident occurred in the road before the home of Edgar Bolton, a few miles from Leslie, and it is said, was unavoidable. The Bolton boy was attempting to rescue his baby cousin from danger when struck by the Durden car. The younger child escaped unhurt. The Rev. Durden, in attempting to avoid striking the younger child, failed to observe the older boy, he said, as the child ran in front of the car from the opposite side of the road.

MISTRIAL DECLARED IN SHOOTING CASE

Savannah, Ga., March 23.—(Special.)—After being out for forty-six hours, the jury in the trial of H. D. Downs, 17 years old, charged with shooting to death Clyde Smith, 50 years of age, on a flatboat in the middle of the Savannah river, failed to agree late today, and a mistrial was declared. The case attracted wide attention. Downs claimed self-defense.

MISSISSIPPI PREPARES TO FIGHT PINK WORM

Jackson, Miss., March 23.—Appropriations of $50,000 for 1920 and $100,000 for 1921 for combatting the pink boll worm in Mississippi, would be authorized in a bill introduced and given immediate consideration today in the lower house of the legislature.

The measure was framed by Representative Stone, of Washington county, one of the largest planters in the Delta section.

"Cotton in this state will not be worth 10 cents a pound if the pest gets a foothold, for it will be impossible to export the product except through Gulfport," said Representative Stone.

"PUSSYFOOTISM" ANGERS THE BRITISH

Cardiff, Wales, March 23.—Seventy thousand persons gathered at Porth, near here, yesterday, and listened to attacks by five speakers on "Pussyfootism," according to The Westminster Gazette. To the sound of the bugle, a resolution was passed, threatening direct action if the government attempted to continue war-time liquor restrictions.

One speaker, a unionist candidate for parliament, said that Lady Astor, who recently made an address in the house of commons in favor of prohibition, was a prohibition missionary.

BRAKES DEMANDED ON EXPENDITURES

Congress Leaders State Country Faces Higher Taxes and More Bond Issues Without Drastic Curtailment in Appropriations.

By Norman W. Baxter.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Washington, March 23.—Congress today demanded that the brakes be clamped down on government expenditures. In the senate and house where fights were waged for reduction in appropriation bills, leaders stated that the country is face to face with higher taxes and additional bond issues unless there is drastic curtailment.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who presented the $32,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill with a favorable report, stated that the government will have to pay between 6 and 7 per cent interest if it attempts to float a new $5,000,000,000 bond issue at par.

Senator Norris gave notice on the floor of the senate that he proposes from now on to fight for the elimination of various appropriations that ordinarily he would favor. He referred to the navy bill pending in the house as "bigger than the war bill" for that branch of the service, and said "the same is true of the army bill."

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, and Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, in speeches which followed that of the Nebraska senator, sided with him in his demand for reductions even greater than the $1,000,000,000 aggregate which congress is seeking to cut off the estimates for the new year submitted by the government departments.

"Worried Over Country."

"Never in the history of my service here," said Senator Smoot, ranking republican member of the senate appropriations committee, "have I been as worried over my country as now. There must be a change in the way the American people are living. We have got to stop this wicked waste of money or there is going to be trouble here worse than the trouble experienced in Europe. If we approved all that the departments are asking, the expenditures next year would amount to over $5,200,000,000."

Senator Norris said that "we are coming down with a dull thud" as the result of after-the-war extravagance. He asserted that higher taxes are inevitable and a new bond issue not improbable unless there is a radical change. Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, asked the speaker how he would raise the additional revenue. "In two ways" responded Senator Norris, "I would increase the already high rate on incomes, particularly the larger ones. I would adopt a progressive inheritance tax, giving an exemption sufficient to allow a family to live comfortably, and taking from 80 to 90 per cent of all inheritances running into the hundreds of millions.

Taxing to Limit.

"We are taxing many people almost to the limit of their ability to pay, and we must get new means of revenue. If we should attempt to float a new bond issue of $5,000,000,000 under present conditions with outstanding 4½ per cent government bonds selling at 89 and 90, we could not hope to float the new ones at par, unless we paid 6 or 7 per cent interest.

"That would mean that for every dollar borrowed the American people would have to dig up between $2 and $3 in the form of taxes before it was paid off."

MRS. INNES HELD; HEARING PUT OFF

ago in which a nun had reported that she had communicated with the spirit of one of the Nelms girls and that the spirit had told her that the Inneses had killed her and her sister, Mrs. Innes said she saw the story.

"I do not believe in spiritualism. I take no stock in it at all," she said.

Deputy Marshal Moseley said when he went to Milledgeville to take Mrs. Innes in custody several of the inmates of the prison broke into tears. To them Mrs. Innes had been a mother and many of them called her "mother." The deputy said the parting was one of the most pathetic things he ever witnessed.

At the Bibb county jail Mrs. Innes has been assigned to a hospital cell.

Her son was in communication with Atlanta lawyers this afternoon and it is reported Tillou Von Nunes is to represent her. Judge J. K. Hines represented her at the previous hearing and may eventually become her leading counsel.

Mrs. Innes to Fight.

The case came before Commissioner Martin on a hearing for removal to the northern district of Georgia. Mrs. Innes announced this after she would fight every feature of the indictment and her removal.

Mrs. Innes' son by a former marriage, arrived here Monday night to take his mother back to his home in Portland, Ore. He was present when she was rearrested as she stepped from the state farm.

"I wanted to see my children before I die," said Mrs. Innes.

Physicians said Mrs. Innes, because of her long confinement in prison two years at San Antonio, two years in Atlanta and three years at the state farm, had contracted tuberculosis. She says she has six children residing in Portland, the youngest 10 years of age.

Mrs. J. W. Nelms, mother of the girls who disappeared in the Innes home in San Antonio, was present in court today when Mrs. Innes was arraigned.

"RENT HOG" FIGHT PROVES TO BE BITTER

tute a menace to law and rights of property."

Municipal court justices from all parts of New York denounced "speculative landlords" who raised rent as "rent hogs" and conditions which they described were said later by James P. Holland, president of the state federation of labor, to apply with equal force to other cities such as Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse and Rochester.

First Real Fire Works.

The first real fire works, however, came after the Rev. C. C. Carenden of New York, had finished speaking in behalf of the tenants. Mrs. Harry C. Arthur, a Bronx landlay complained that Dr. H. W. Berg, a realty man, had passed an insulting remark concerning Dr. Carsenden.

This charge precipitated a scene. Roars of "throw him out," came from the rent payers side of the chamber and howls of derision greeted Dr. Berg a few minutes later when he blamed "high cost of labor" for increasing building costs and suggested that the literacy test be abolished to create competition among American workmen. But the climax was reached when he warned the committee they would hear from the 260,000 decent property owners at the next election if they passed the proposed measures."

Stewart Browne, president of the United Real Esate Owners association, said he was not in favor "even a fifteen per cent profit," and that he had "warned the landlords if they did not assist in getting legislation to improve the tense situation, they would 'get it in the neck.'"

A Frantic Moment.

There was a frantic moment when a realty man, urged encouragement of building operations the only cure. Tenants, leaning forward, waved dispossess notices before his face and charged he had given these to forty-five families because they refused to meet a raise from $32 to $65.

Edward F. Holland, president of the New York Central federated union, asserted labor was ready to co-operate in any building plans and would pull men off other jobs for this purpose if the builders were ready. Mr. Holland denounced the landlord "who is taking the working man's wages away from him as fast as he gets them."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS CONTINUE LITIGATION

Boston, March 23.—The supreme court today heard arguments on the request of Mrs. Emilie B. Hulen, of New York, for the right to intervene in the litigation to which the directors of the Christian Science church and the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing society are the principal parties.

Mrs. Hulen brought the petition as one of the first members of the church. These first members were described by Charles F. Choate, Jr., her counsel, as a body which originally had certain authority and functions that were later transferred to the directors. It was his contention that the report of the master in the suit between directors and trustees has shown that the directors had no standing, and therefore, it had become necessary to have the first members come in to protect the rights of the church. The master's report, he added, had shown that the directors have no right to deal with trust funds of which the church is the beneficiary and are without power to exercise authority under the church manual.

KANSAS GOVERNOR PROTECTS NEGRO FROM ARKANSAS

Topeka, Kan., March 23.—The extradition petition of Arkansas for the return to that state of Robert Hill, negro, alleged leader in the Elaine insurrection last fall, was refused by Governor H. J. Allen, who announced his decision this morning. The long hearing was concluded shortly after midnight last night. Hill immediately was arrested by a United States deputy marshal on a charge of impersonating a United States officer in Arkansas.

Hill's removal to Little Rock now awaits formal order of extradition from United States Judge Pollock, of the Kansas district. The federal charge against Hill involves his activities among Arkansas negroes, in which he is alleged to have represented himsel fas a "United States detective."

Little Rock, Ark., March 23.—Governor Brough, when informed by the Associated Press of the action of Governor Allen, of Kansas, in referring to grant the extradition petition for Robert Hill, declared he "felt outraged."

"In passing on an extradition case a governor is not called upon to decide the guilt or innocence of the man indicted," said Governor Brough, "but merely to decide whether he had been legally indicted."

MINERS SEARCH FOR DETECTIVES WHO BEGAN FIGHT

Middlesboro, Ky., March 23.—Harlan county, Kentucky, on the Kentucky-West Virginia border, was the scene today of much excitement. Bands of miners were searching the county for operatives of a detective agency who are alleged to have started a fight at Wallins Creek Saturday night with miners, which resulted in the killing of three persons and wounding of several others.

The clash was the outgrowth of ill feeling said to have existed in the Harlan county coal fields because of importation last week of a group of detectives by the Kentucky Steam Coal company, where a strike is on.

The dead are: Bud Taylor, miner; Deputy Sheriff John Burkes, and James Hall, detective. The names of the several wounded could not be ascertained.

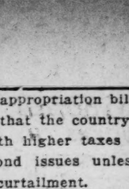

An attempt by Detective Hall to arrest a son of Bud Taylor at a Wallins Creek mining camp precipitated the battle, it was said. When Hall tried to take the boy into custody the elder Taylor interfered. In a duel following, Hall and the elder Taylor were killed. Other miners and guards rushed to the scene and a general fight ensued during which Deputy Sheriff Burkes was killed. More than a hundred shots were fired. The fighting stopped when the detectives retreated. The guards later were sent back to West Virginia by the mining company.

Miners of the county, numbering several hundred, are reported armed with rifles and pistols, and searching for any of the guardsmen remaining in the county.

Western Electric Profits.

Chicago, March 23.—Sales of the Western Electric company in 1919 amounted to $135,732,480, and net profits were $4,388,909, according to the annual report made public today. The sales were the largest for any peacetime year, being exceeded only in 1917 and 1918 when large government orders were filled. The net porfits were equivalent to $17.23 a share on the 150,000 shares of common stock, then outstanding.

LONGSHORE STRIKE MAY GO TO WILSON

New York, March 23.—The only solution of the strike of eight thousand longshoremen engaged in coastwise traffic is "a direct appeal to the white house," R. M. Squires, of the national wage adjustment commission, announced tonight. The announcement followed receipt of telegrams from the Charleston, (S. C.) Chamber of Commerce and from planters and farmers in other southern districts demanding information of steps taken to settle the strike by arbitration.

The text of the telegrams were not disclosed, but Mr. Squires said they urged that an appeal be made to President Wilson unless there was indication of a speedy adjustment of the situation by the wage commission.

Platers in the districts about Charleston, Hampton Roads, Jacksonville, Fla., and New Orleans have hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of perishable foodstuffs on seaboard and inland piers awaiting shipment to New York, according to the telegrams. Further delay of these shipments, they said, would cause " a serious situation."

These foodstuffs represent the year's work of the farmers and the spring's supply for a number of seaboard and inland cities, Mr. Squires said, and producers and consumers must depend upon coastwise steamships to move them.

Strike leaders, who are demanding that the strikers be granted wage increases and shorter hours, today asserted the Coastwise Steamship Managers' association "has persistently refused to enter into any scheme looking toward settlement with the longshoremen using the commission as an arbitration machine."

E. R. Richardson, chairman of the Steamship Managers' association, said coastwise companies have lost $50,000 daily since the strike was called ten days ago. Rather than meet the present situation through arbitration he declared "the coastwise companies will stand pat, even if forced to suspend operations altogether."

The managers maintain wage increases cannot be granted unless freight rates are raised and that even then the wage increases could not be made restroactive. The longshoremen favor increased freight rates, but demand a retroactive wage increase.

Mr. Squires announced that the national wage adjustment commission tomorrow would issue a statement outlining the position of the commission in the dispute. Incorporated in the statement, he said, will be "information regarding the position taken by the longshoremen and the Coastwise Managers' association."

Ninety-nine ships operated in coastwise trade have been made idle by the srike and a large number of men employed in the offices of the steamship companies have been thrown out of work, Mr. Richardson said.

GRIP OF RED FORCES CHOKING GERMANY

insurgents and to bring them to reason.

Government emissaries, including Herr Geisberts, leader of the Catholic labor unions, and other cabinet members possessing the confidence of labor, are being sent to the disturbed districts to preach restoration of order. Reliance is also placed on the natural tendency within the ranks of German labor to develop dissensions to break up the now united workmen in to factions that can be more easily handled.

May Try Starvation.

In case of necessity, food shipments into the individual districts, which produce almost no food and are absolutely dependent upon imports of food, can be suspended or sabotaged in order to bring the workers to terms by the unanswerable argument of hunger.

Minor officials continue to talk glibly of "reinforcements from southern Germany" and "strategic plans" for handling the revolt, but I am authoritatively informed that the military commanders are now chiefly concerned with retiring their men from the whole industrial region. Workmen of all socialist factions in that district have been so welded together by Dr. Kapp's counter revolution and so detest the thought of military interference that the sight of gray uniforms, even when worn by troops whose absolute loyalty to the republican regime is beyond question, acts like a red flag to a bull, their presence only serves to enrage the workers and provoke resistance.

"Any military suppression of the revolt," a high official said today, "is unthinkable. We simply have not the troops. The military establishment has already been reduced in accordance with peace treaty provisions, and so considerable a proportion of the remaining troops participated in the counter revolution, and therefore are regarded as unreasonable, that we have very few troops to use."

Break Up of Cabinet.

The bourgeois members of the present cabinet and even some socialists were placed in embarrassing positions by the adoption of the compromise last Saturday between the labor federation and party representatives. It seemed to have driven such breaches in the principles of the recently adopted constitution and granted to labor such extensive control rights over the government that many at first sight thought it must lead to a break-up of the present coalition cabinet. Extensive reorganization of the cabinet is in fact imperative. The retirement of Noske creates a big hole in the ministry of which Erzberger and Noske were the outstanding members. Several other members undoubtedly will go either in accordance with their own wishes or on pressure from the labor federation and the radicals.

German politicians, however, with their accustomed skill in dialectics, has discovered that the compromise can be harmonized with the constitution. It also has been ascertained that the philologians who drafted the terms of the compromise agreement did such a skilled job that the agreement can be construed in ways which will vastly surprise workmen to whom it was explained as a great victory for the proletariat. The right of the labor federation to have an authoritative word to say in formation of the cabinet and apportionment of the portfolios turns out on close examination to be limited by a condition reserving the last word to the national assembly. Interpretation of that point will therefore depend on the respective strengths of the two bodies and the skill of the respective negotiators at th critical moment of reorganizing the cabinet. Workmen may also be surprised when the time comes to reorganize the army in accordance with the terms of the compromise.

American Opinion Sought.

The foreign office was extremely anxious, to secure an expression of opinion from the American mission along the lines already published of the congratulations of the entente governments, as it was felt not only that the absence of the American representative at the joint visit of congrtulation last Friday was apt to arouse comment and conjecture, but it was also believed that an indication of American opinion would have a more sensible effect in calming public opinion and in heading off revolutionary conspiracies from the right and left than that of any of the entente powers. Ellis Dressel, the American commissioner, however, was reluctant to join the entente delegation in its formal congratulations on account of his anomolous position as representative of a power with which Germany is technically at war. In absence of formal instructions he has gone no further than to call upon Vice Chancellor Schiffer, ostensibly in quest of information, but really to let his government know, though not in so many words, that the United States was glad that the plot, to reintroduce militarism into Germany, had failed so signally. Mr. Dressel was able to notice then and upon succeeding daily calls on Under Secretary von Hanckel, a growing apprehension that the revolt by reactionaries had made possible an even more serious attempt to overthrow the constitution and establish by an uprising a soviet government. He finally determined to issue the guarded statement cabled Sunday in the hope that it might have a deterring influence upon the plans for a proletariat insurrection and halt further revolutionary disorders. Officials made no attempt to disguise from him their deep anxiety over revolutionary conditions in the capital and in the provinces.

SOVIET RULE IN RHINELAND.

Rotterdam, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The conditions in the Rhine provinces, where virtually every town is in the hands of the workmen, rapidly are approaching a duplication of the conditions prevailing in soviet Russia.

According to The Rotterdamsche Courant's correspondents in Essen and Dortmund, the first step following the proclamation of soviet republics was the opening of prisons and freeing not only political prisoners, but also common prisoners. Coming closely upon the heels of this order was an invitation to the bourgeoisie to surrender all firearms. Emphasis was laid on this by an announcement that failure to comply would entail prosecution by the revolutionary tribunal.

The correspondents say that the hardest task of a soviet government would be to maintain rationing; that afilure in this respect would not be improbable owing to the existing scarcity of foodstuffs, and that a compromise with Berlin would be necessary. They assert that only enough food is in sight for a week rations and that the supply of potatoes will last only a few days. The hope of the soviet government, they assert, is to get food in exchange for coal from Holland.

The soviet councils have taken the sharpest measures against looting, say the correspondents, but they are requisitioning provisions and other commodities without pay.

Most of the other newspapers, and a dispatch from the Wolff bureau, the semi-official German news agency, declare that the soviet towns are absolutely under soviet censorship. The sale of alcoholic drinks is prohibited and nobody is allowed on the streets between 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

These dispatches declare that the socialists have lost all influence. They are outnumbered by the communists and independents and seem to be co-operating with the bolsheviki, willing to accept a dictatorship of the proletariat.

QUIET RESTORED IN SOME TOWNS.

Berlin, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Quiet has been completely restored in Wilhelmshaven, Wismar and Rostok, and there is no further apprehension on the return of the soviets.

The situation in Saxony at Zwickau and Chemnitz, as well as in Thuringia remains undecided. Leipsic is reported to be generally quiet; the revolting forces have begun to disarm and the commanding general has issued a proclamation threatening extreme measures against further attempts at disorder.

In Berlin the situation is tranquil except a few unimportant collisions in the northwestern quarters, where the lack of provisions is badly felt. There is no indication of further trouble. Traffic was resumed on the elevated and underground roads tonight.

The national assembly will meet Thursday afternoon, and in preparation for this session all the parties are holding continuous meetings.

RED WORKMEN HOLD REGION.

Essen, Germany, March 23.—(Via Copenhagen.)—The local executive council today announced that the entire industrial region hereabouts is in the hands of the revolutionary workmen and that a red army of 80,000 men is victoriously advancing on Wesel where "the last remnants of the regular troops" are concentrated.

The Ruhr Echo announced that the left wing of the red army's front stretches from Dinslaken, 24 miles from Duesseldorf, through Holten, to Dorstan, 35 miles southwest of Muenster. Violent fighting is still proceeding on this front. Dorsten and Valsum have been taken by the reds, together with 900 prisoners, the newspaper adds, and a general advance is in progress towards Wesel.

In the vicinity of Haltern, an armored train on the way to the industrial region from Muenster was halted by blowing up a stretch of roadbed.

Quiet prevails in that section of the front between Dorsten and Dortmund.

The general military situation, it is declared, is favorable to the revolutionaries.

A second announcement by the executive council said that the revolutionary workmen on Saturday captured five cannon, six mine throwers, three thousand rifles, twenty thousand cartridges, two hundred horses and much baggage. In the taking of Dorsten, the reds captured 300 reichswehr, the announcement added.

ANOTHER BATTLE IN ESSEN REGION.

Aix-la-Chappelle, Rhenish Prussia, March 23.—Another battle is reported to be going on between Spartacans and troops of the regular army at Wesel, 22 miles northwest of Essen. The regulars, the report says, appear to have been outflanked by the Spartacans.

A detachment of Uhlans was surprised Monday between Dusseldorf and Duisberg, southwest of Essen. The officers and young soldiers of the detachment were shot as enemies of the working classes, according to a wounded Uhlan who was rescued by a Belgian post and told of the attack.

HARD FIGHTING BEFORE WESSEL.

Coblenz, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Heavy fighting has been going on since noon before Wesel, on the lower right bank of the Rhine, where the reds have attempted to wipe out the stand of the reichswehr. The reds are trying to get through communication with Holland in order to secure foodstuffs. Troop movement to surround the Essen area are in progress.

It is reported that in a Spartacan attack on the postoffice at Dortmund this morning, sixty employees and officers were killed.

In Thuringia the soviet government is said to have appointed a foreign minister and to be printing bolshevik money.

PALACE TAKEN BY INSURGENTS.

Berlin, March 23.—Insurgents have captured the palace in the town of Schleswig, capital of the province of Schleswig-Holstein, according to a dispatch received here. A number of officers of cavalry regiment No. 18 were taken prisoner. A self-styled committee of action is in control of Schleswig, the dispatch says.

President Ebert today decreed the abolition of drumhead courts-martial in Greater Berlin, expressing confidence that order would not be further disturbed.

Order has not yet been re-established at Nordhausen, Saxony, and the situation at Sonderhausen and Koburg is worse. The demand for disarmament of volunteers in those places having been rejected, the extremisas have armed themselves.

DEFEAT REPORTED FOR RED FORCES.

Koburg, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, March 23.—A heavy defeat has been inflicted on the communist forces, who lost more than one thousand killed, according to the reichswehr commander in this region. The reichswehr had 19 killed and 34 wounded, while nine are missing.

300 PERSONS KILLED IN LEIPSIC BATTLE.

Leipsic, March 23.—The deaths in the fighting in this city between communists and troops now are put at 150 on both sides.

Lieutenant Beucher, the well-krown German aviator, who was credited with forty victories in the air during the war, was shot down and killed during the fighting.

SOLIDLY HELD BY RED FORCES.

Copenhagen, March 23.—The whole western industrial district of Germany is held solidly by radicals and disaster is inevitable if the government troops try to interfere there, according to information received from Berlin this morning by telephone by The Berlingske Tidende. The Social Demokraten learns that a purely workers' government is on point of formation, without co-operation with the bourgeois parties.

A dispatch to The Berlingske Tidende from Berlin says the communist army in Westphalia aggregates fully 10,000 men who are equipped with mine throwers, armored cars and machine guns. The army is being constantly reinforced. It already holds about a dozen towns.

A Leipsic telegram received here last night says that fighting at Halle and in the neighborhood of that place continues with undiminished violence, both the troops and the workers' forces using artillery. Halle has been completely cut off from the outside world.

Work was resumed in the shop yards at Hamburg yesterday, according to dispatches received here, and a telegram from Kell says that workmen there have decided to resume their posts in the most essential public services.

MASSING TROOPS TO ATTACK REDS.

London, March 22.—Latest reports from Germany show that state and government troops are concentrating near Wesel to move against the extensive districts now occupied by communists, says a Rotterdam dispatch to The London Times. On the other hand, the communists are mobilizing after the method of the Russians with great speed, and it is impossible to prophesy the issue of the coming battle, or when it will be fought. The communists are hampered by a lack of food, one report saying they have supplies for only three days, and that when this is consumed it is anticipated they will proceed to rob the country districts.

The dispatch quotes a message from a correspondent of The Telegraaf describing the conquest of Essen by the communists. As far back as Thursday, he says, there were fights between the reds and government soldiers in the suburbs of Essen, but the city itself continued quiet and normal. The strike had been declared off, and everybody there had resumed work.

On Friday morning there were rumors of an advance by the workers' army from Bochum and Gelsenkirchen, and the government troops were drawn upon the outskirts of the town waiting for the advance. Spartacists' units, at a prearranged signal, overcame the sentinels and heavy fighting ensued, a number being killed, some estimates placing the losses at 150. One section of government troops became stricken and threw away its arms, but retreated in good order to Wesel. At 1 o'clock the red flag was hosted over the town hall. Essen is now menaced by famine, the correspondent says.

The situation in the Ruhr valley, the stronghold of the German reds, is expected in diplomatic and military circles here to remain virtually unchanged until the peace conferees in London decide whether German government troops shall be allowed in that district.

The conference had before it yesterday a protest by Czecho-Slovakia against such action. It failed to reach a decision, and put over to today the question whether the valley should be allowed to remain as it is or if the Czech protest should be overridden.

This is the only instance where the entente may take a hand in the German disorders, and then only because Germany under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles does not control that section of the country. It is declared here that the entente is still maintaining a hands-off policy, notwithstanding the recurring reports that the British mission in Berlin is attempting to dictate to the Ebert government.

This morning's official messages state that the reds in the Ruhr valley possess no effective artillery or tanks, but are plentifully supplied with rifles.

The clash between regular troops and insurgents at Henningdorf, near Spandau, yesterday, resulted in the killing of forty persons and the wounding of 63, according to an Exchange Telegraph company message from Berlin today.

The communist councils in Saxony have begun to divide large estates, it is reported.

OVER 300 PERSONS REPORTED KILLED.

Berne, March 23.—More than 300 persons have been killed in the fighting at Elberfeld, in the Ruhr region, near the occupied zone, and in the neighborhood of that city, according to today's advices from western Germany. The communists took about 500 of the reichswehr prisoner at Elberfeld and 200 additional at another point.

The dispatches bear out previous reports that nearly the entire industrial district of Westphalia is in the hands of the communists, although fighting is continuing in some places. Fresh estimates of the communists forces place them at from 70,000 to 100,000.

Famine is declared to be threatening Bochum, Dortmund, Dusseldorf and Elberfeld, because the peasants are refusing to deliver food to the communists. Encounters already have occurred between peasants and patrols of communists which were out in the country requisitioning supplies.

The hospitals at Elberfeld are full of wounded soldiers and civilians as the result of the fighting in that neighborhood.

WORKMEN FORCED NOSKE TO QUIT.

Berlin, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The retirement of Gustav Noske as minister of defense came after a stubborn attempt gy his party supporters among the coalition bloc to retain him in office in opposition to the pressure of the Berlin party and labor leaders, and the clamor of the independents. His resignation was first tendered to President Ebert on Friday at Stuttgart and was at that time not accepted.

When the Ebert-Bauer government reutrned to Berlin Sunday the futility of trying to hold Noske in power was promptly discovered, and the man who had so long been a red rag to the independents and radicals has now been cast aside.

The denunciation of Herr Noske within the ranks of his own party is only one of the numerous manifestations of impatience with the Bauer eabinet exhibited in the past few days, Noske being censured because of "obtruseness in letting himself be hoodwinked," while the reactionary elements were influencing the army administration, and his failure to have the notorious Baltic troops garrisoned elsewhere than outside of Berlin, where they were within easy marching distance of Wilhelmstrasse. He is also charged with keeping around him men who were not over-zealous in informing him of the strength of the reactionary influences within the army.

DOG GUARDS EVICTED MISTRESS

Mrs. Mary Romas, a widow, sixty-five years of age, who has been making her living by selling newspapers, recently received a dispossess from the landlord of the house where she was living and was made homeless, as no rooms could be found. She was forced to sleep all night in the street beside her piled-up furniture, with her fourteen-year-old grandson and her dog Spot, the latter keeping watch all through the night. Her belongings will be put in storage until rooms are found.

Alarming Symptoms.

(From Ideas.)

An Englishman was run down, and the doctor told him he needed a tonic, recommending a glass of stout after each meal. The patient said he had a barrel of it in his cellar, but unfortunately his wife insisted on all members of the house being teetotal during the war.

"Since your health is concerned you must find some way of overcoming her prejudices," said the doctor, and the patient departed. A few days afterwards the doctor received a visit from the man's wife.

"Doctor," she said, "I'm afraid my husband is going to have a nervous breakdown. He's developed a perfect dread of Zeppelins lately, and keeps running down and hiding in the cellar."

Misunderstood.

(From Ideas.)

On a business trip to the city a farmer decided to take home to his wife a present of a shirt blouse. Going into the store, and being directed to the blouse department, he asked the lady in charge to show him some.

"What bust?" asked she.

The farmer looked around quickly and answered, "I don't know; I didn't hear anything."

Slow and Steady Wins.

SPANISH RAILWAY MEN BEGIN GENERAL STRIKE

Madrid, March 23.—A general strike on the railroads of Spain, affecting every line in the country, went into effect at noon today. The cabinet ministers have called into service the railroad regiments, however, and with the assistance of numbers of voluntary workers from other departments, hope to be able to maintain the full schedule of mail and express trains in every direction.

King Alfonso returned to Madrid early in the forenoon, missing the strike on the line from France, by only a few hours. Up to the present no disorders have been reported.

The decision to strike was reached unanimously by representatives of the railroad employees at midnight following the failure of the managers of the railway companies to accede to the demands of the men.

Shortly before the railway men's delegates gathered to decide on their course of action, the cabinet met and urged the railway managements to grant the demands of the employees, warning the managers that in the event of failure on the part of the railroads to prevent a strike the government would take action.

The strike follows the demands of the railway men for increased wages and better working conditions. A proposition has been before the chamber of deputies for some time past to allow the railways to increase their rates thus permitting them to grant the demands of the men. No action has thus far been taken by the chamber, however, which has already refused to allow an increase in cab, street car and sleeping car rates.

Participation of U. S. In Disarming Germany Desired in France

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Paris, March 23.—A leading editorial in the semi-official Temps, "The hour is too serious for the voices accurately the foreign office, says:

"Thehour is too serious for the French to make recriminaton against their allies, but this is certain: France has the right to express her regrets. She deserves to be listened to on the present situation in Germany, even as she listened to England when it was a question of sea power.

"Germany has two and a half million armed men and more than 12,000 cannon. Whether under control of the Spartacans or of the general staff, such a force and such an arsenal constitute a peril too grave for peace.

"If the allies now consider the situation, participation of America should be invited. Whether the treaty is ratified or not, America is interested directly in maintaining peace in Europe, and peace can be assured only by disarming Gerr many."

Auguste Gauvain, the able political editor of The Journal Des Debats, closes tonight's article with, "The movement of German troops—revolutionists or regular—to the neutral zone prohibited by the treaty, may be observed only a few days more without taking counter measures."

KING GEORGE HOLDS FIRST LEVEE SINCE 1914

London, March 23.—King George's first levee at St. James' palace since 1914, held today, was a brilliant affair. John W. Davis, the United States ambassador, and his staff, all dressed in black, presented a notable contrast to the full dress uniforms of military and naval officers, and ministers and judges in their wigs and official robes. The king drove in semi-state from Buckingham palace, being escorted by household cavalry.

FINED FOR FAILING TO PRODUCE FIGHT OF LION AND BULL

Calexico, Mexico, March 23.—For failing to produce a fight between a lion and a bull after advertising such a spectacle for the Mexicali, Mexico, bull ring, the promoter of the show was arrested yesterday and fined $500 in gold by Mayor Eduardo Ramos, of Mexicali, "for violating promises to the public."

A lion was obtained from a carnival company but the animal refused to be prodded into the ring to meet the waiting bull. A boxing contest and two bull fights failed to satisfy 1,500 waiting spectators and the promoter's arrest followed.

Fight for Consumption Of Cheaper Meat Cuts Attacked in Congress

Washington, March 23.—The campaign by the department of justice to stimulate the consumption of cheaper cut sof meat drew caustic criticism from members of the house agriculture committee today during the hearing on legislation to regulate the packing industry. L. D. H. Weld, of Swift & Co., told the committee the packers were cooperating in the campaign.

"If the campaign is successful," he testified, "its effect will be the increase in prices of lower grade cuts and probably decrease the more expensive cuts."

"Then in reality the poorer families now using cheaper cuts of meat will have to pay more because of this campaign," Representative Voigt, republican, Wisconsin, commented, "while the people who use the more expensive cuts will get theirs cheaper."

Mr. Weld said such a result was possible, although some good might be done by teaching consumers the value of lower-priced cuts, adding:

"I do not consider, however, that the results of this campaign will be substantial enough to affect the prices of meat materially."

BRITISH OFFICER SHOT BY U. S. MISSIONARY

London, March 23.—An American medical missionary, L. W. B. Jackman, shot Major H. D. Cloete dead at Sadiya, Assam, British India, a northeast frontier post, according to a Calcutta dispatch to The Daily Mail dated March 15.

The full story apparently is not known but the correspondent says that the reasons for the tragedy were domestic. Jackman went to Major Cloete's bungalow with a loaded revolver and asked him to come out and when he appeared he shot him. The missionary then went to Acting Political Officer O'Callaghan and surrendered.

Major Cloete was the son of Sir Henry Cloete, formerly an Indian civil service officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackman have been working among the Abors and Miris tribesmen near Sadiya and the former has been a resident of Assam since 1904.

Boston, March 23.—Belief that a press dispatch in which Dr. L. W. B. Jackman, a missionary physician, attached to the American Baptist Foreign Mission society, was mentioned as the slayer of Major H. D. Cloete, in Assam, was garbled in transmission, was expressed in a statement from the society's headquarters here today by William Lipphard, associate home secretary.

The first report of the affair received by the society, he said, was to the effect that the British officer had killed Dr. Jackman. Secretary Lipphard has cabled to the mission treasurer in Assam asking for full reports of the affair.

Dr. Jackman was sent out by the society from New York state.

U. S. NAVY PLANNING ACROSS-OCEAN FLIGHT

New York, March 23.—Thirty enlisted men of the United States navy now stationed at the Rockaway naval air station will leave within a few days for London to study at an English dirigible school, preparatory to attempting a transatlantic flight with the R-38, sister ship of the R-34, it was announced at naval recruiting headquarters.

Commander Louis H. Maxfield, until recently in charge of the lighter-than-air work in Washington, but who now is in England, is named as the probable commander of the all-American crew of the R-38. British observers, however, will accompany the crew.

The date of the start has not been definitely set but will be some time in early summer, it is said, and expectations are that the voyage will be made under the tim set by the R-34.

The R-38 is slightly larger than the R-34, which negotiated the distance between England and America last October in 108 hours, and was purchased by the United States from Great Britain for $2,500,000.

SUPERFICIAL CANCER CURED BY THE X-RAY

New York, March 23.—Fifty consecutive cases of superficial, or surface, cancer have been cured at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and hospital by an X-ray method by Dr. William H. Meyer, it was announced at the hospital today. It was stated that Meyer now is working on a method for the treatment of deep-seated cancer.

Dr. Meyer said the fifty cases he has recorded have been under observation from two to four years since treatment and there has been no indication of a return of the disease. A number of later cases give promise of similar results, he said.

The X-ray has been used for some time in the treatment of cancer, Dr. Meyer pointed out. His only claim is to a new method of "dosage," whereby the exact amount of treatment required is computed in advance.

"The X-ray may be made destructive, stimulating or inhibitive, according to dosage," he said, "if the physician who administers it has a thorough understanding of what he is about."

PLAN NEW MECHANICAL BUILDING FOR GA. TECH

Ground will be broken soon for an addition to the mechanical building of Georgia Tech. The new building will be 42 by 214 feet, and will consist of two floors and a basement, facing on Cherry street.

The first floor is to be used for a machine shop, the second floor for a wood shop, and the basement will be a storage room for lumber and machine shop equipment.

The building will be brick with concrete and steel floors, and steel trusses, and cost about $90,000. The land cost between $8,000 and $9,000. The money for this building was appropriated by the 1919 legislature.

The present foundry, which will parallel with the new building, will be extended 40 feet. Plans of the new building were drawn by Prof. F. P. Smith, who has charge of the department of architecture at Tech.

Panama Canal Closed.

Panama, March 23.—The Panama canal has been closed for two days, all ships being affected by the order because of a landslide in the Cucaracha section of the waterway, according to an official announcement. Dredges are expected to clear away the debris and make the canal safe for ships by Thursday.

REVOLUTION STRIKE URGED BY PORTUGAL

Madrid, March 23.—Details of disturbances at Lisbon on Friday and Saturday have been received here by courier and apparently serious disturbances have been experienced in that city.

At a meeting of me nemployed in the building trades on Friday a resolution was adopted in favor of a "revolutionary general strike." Immerdiately afteward street fighting took place and 130 persons were arrested. During the melee there were shouts of "long live red Russia" but the crowd was scattered when mounted guards arrived. Soon after the guards arrived a small bomb was thrown which slightly injured several persons. Persons who disobeyed the police were fired upon.

Further collisions occurred in the course of Saturday night and there were explosions heard during the evening.

LIFT IN BERTH RATES BY PULLMAN COMPANY

Washington, March 23.—Permission has been granted the Pullman company by the interstate commerce commission to file tariffs increasing berth rates approximately 20 per cent. The company is seeking an increase on standard lower berths to a minimum of $2 and on seats to a minimum of 50 cents.

Under the commission's rules protests may be lodged against the increases within thirty days, and hearing then will be held. If no protests are made the commission may grant the increase.

Speaking of Home Enterprises—

---there are many reasons why they should be given preference over the makers of goods which come to us with a foreign stamp on them. For instance---

They employ home labor—
They contribute to the upbuilding of the home community—
They are easy of access if any adjustments are to be made—
There are no long freight hauls to get their goods—
Their goods reach you new and fresh—
They are home folks—just like you—
They make just as good products as can be made anywhere—
—And their products cost you no more

TRAGEDY AVERTED BY PROMPT ACTION OF COUNTY OFFICER

A tragedy was narrowly averted in the corridor of the courthouse Tuesday morning when W. A. Riley, a county policeman, stepped in between Lieutenant T. D. Shaw, of the city detective force, and W. L. Harris, a former special officer employed by the Georgia railroad, both of whom had drawn their pistols and were on the point of shooting when Riley intervened.

It is understood that Harris, who was convicted of violating the prohibition law before Judge W. E. Thomas, in the emergency division of the criminal court, last week, approached Shaw while the latter was standing in the corridor outside of Judge Humphries' courtroom, and asked him why he "had given him such a dirty deal" in testifying against him at the trial.

It is said that Shaw then slapped Harris across the passageway and the latter reached for his gun. Shaw drew his pistol quicker and was on the point of shooting Harris when Officer Riley jumped between the men. Bystanders disarmed both men.

The case was taken before the grand jury, which was in session at the time, and a true bill charging Harris with carrying a weapon without a license was found. Harris was taken to the police station, but was later released on bond for his appearance in the recorder's court Wednesday morning. It is said that Harris at the time of the trouble had come to the courthouse to pay a $500 fine, which Judge Thomas assessed in the liquor case against him.

Wireless Dance Truly Something New Under the Sun!

The height of the unusual in dances will be reached Saturday morning, when the 500 members of the Club de Vingt will dance on the roof of the Capital City club to strains of music which will originate nearly a mile away—and it will be wafted to the dancing floor on mysterious waves of the wireless telephone.

Co-ordination of ideas between the Club de Vingt, and Sergeant Thomas Bass, instructor in wireless at Georgia Tech, has brought about the possibility of this extraordinary dance.

The band, orchestra, or whatever is chosen to provide the music, will be stationed near the sending apparatus in the power house at Georgia Tech. A receiving set will be set up on the roof of the club, supplemented by reproducers, sounding boards and horns, for the purpose of magnifying the sound.

The music end of the dance will be looked after by Sergeant Bass, Allen D. Whittaker, another of Tech's wireless instructors, and R. R. Flowers, in co-operation with the Atlanta Radio club.

RAY JORDAN ENGAGED AS TECH Y. M. C. A. AID

Ray Jordan has been engaged as assistant secretary of the Tech Y. M. C. A. to succeed C. G. Falls, who resigned recently to go with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. Mr. Jordan is a graduate of Trinty college, class of 1917, in which class he won second honors. He was a member of "Ninety-Nineteen," an honorary organization which has since become an active chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He was also a member of Kappa Alpha fraterinty, and of "Toombs," an athletic club. On several occasions he represented his college as an alternate in intercollegiate debates. During the war he served in the army as a lieutenant of field artillery. Since his discharge last summer, Mr. Jordan has been a student at Emory University.

FAIR AND WARMER, LOCAL FORECAST, DECLARES EXPERT

That 70-degree temperature is due to arrive today. Tuesday was fair and warm, and the continuation of fair and still warmer weather is the prediction given out by C. F. von Herrmann, local official weather forecaster, for Wednesday.

Which is a rather nice way of convincing Atlanta that spring is really here, since there are still those among Atlanta's citizenry who remember more about the fickle behavior of the city's recent weather than they do about the inevitability of spring days on the calendar.

T. B. BAILEY CONVICTED ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

T. B. Bailey, one of the three white men charged with the holding up and robbing of P. C. Lumpkin, a Powell street grocer, in his place of business several weeks ago, was convicted on the charge of robbery by a jury in the criminal division of the Fulton superior court Tuesday morning and given from ten to fifteen years on the chain gang.

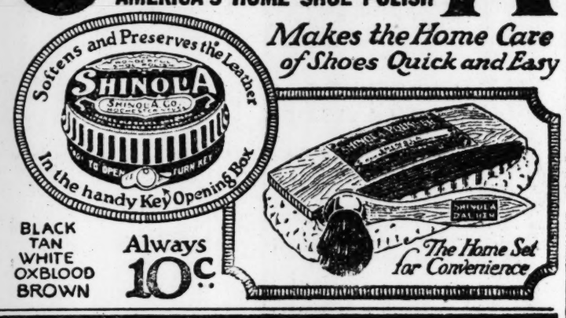

During the hold-up, Mr. Lumpkin was shot through the right shoulder. Bailey was represented by Attorney William S. Coburn and Ernest G. Bentley.

The two other men charged with complicity in the affair are now in the tower awaiting trial.

Candidate for Re-Election as Tax Receiver
Issues Card

To The People of Fulton County

To the People of Fulton County:

The democratic primary which elects the county officers occurs this year at the height of the season for tax returns and at a time when I must devote all my attention to your affairs.

For this reason I will not be able to call upon you in person in behalf of my candidacy for re-election as TAX RECEIVER. After all, it is the proper performance of duty that counts with the tax payers, and this is as it should be.

I feel that efficient and faithful service is what has persuaded you to retain me as your tax receiver for the past thirty years. You now have the benefit of my experience; you have witnessed the considerate and careful conduct of the office and you have my assurance that I shall continue to carry on the work to your satisfaction as long as you honor me with the office.

You have trusted me with one of the most important offices in the county government---the office where the foundation for the whole tax levy is laid. I have been diligent in my effort to render satisfactory service, and I believe I am justified in feeling that I have succeeded. I am deeply and profoundly grateful for the approval you have given me by continuing me in office.

My personal record as a citizen and as a Confederate veteran is known to you. I have lived the greater part of my life among you and my life is an open book.

You are likewise well acquainted with my two able associates, Messrs. Zach Castleberry and W. H. Abbott. They are both thoroughly familiar with the work of the office and have served faithfully and efficiently.

I will appreciate your vote and influence in primary of April 20.

If the urgent duties of the office prevent me from seeing you in person, I wish to take advantage of this opportunity to solicit your support and to pledge a continuance of the faithful, courteous and efficient service which has won your approval in the past.

Respectfully,

T. M. ARMISTEAD

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Southern Engraving Company is now open for business after being temporarily closed on account of a strike of the union engravers.

We are again prepared to offer our customers that superior quality and service enjoyed by them in the past.

In the future this plant will be run as an OPEN SHOP.

The strike in our plant was brought about primarily by our refusing the DEMAND of the Union that we become members of The Southeastern Association of Manufacturing Photo-Engravers. We refused this demand because that association has a contract with the Photo-Engravers Union binding all its members to charge a fixed price for their output.

The Southern Engraving Company believed this to be in restraint of trade and unfair to its customers and hence its refusal to let its employees fix the amount or method it should charge for engravings.

The contract between the Union and the employing engravers further stipulates that Union engravers shall work only for members of this association who agree to charge by the so-called standard scale. We could not submit to any such DEMAND and hence the withdrawal of Union engravers from our plant. The Union further demanded that it be granted a forty-four (44) hour week for day work, and a forty (40) hour week for night work. We did not believe this to be fair to other Unions and other workmen who recognize the forty-eight hour week to be a fair and reasonable working week.

At this time when our government requests and the public needs require increased production we did not believe it expedient or patriotic to join in any plan to curtail production and pass the cost on to an already sorely tried public.

The Southern Engraving Company will operate in the future without any contract with the Union. We will employ only the best workmen that money can procure. We are now paying far higher wages than the Union demands and we will continue to pay wages necessary to secure the best workmen the country produces.

We will continue to charge for our engraving what we believe to be a fair and reasonable price regardless of scales fixed by our competitors or our employees.

We will not contract with any Union or any workman that attempts to force us to do otherwise.

We will not join any association that stifles competition.

When that becomes necessary we will close up shop and quit business permanently, as we have just been forced to do temporarily.

We have demonstrated, however, that such a step will not be necessary, and we intend to run our own business.

We solicit the patronage and support of customers who desire quality, service and fair treatment and at reasonable prices.

We are again doing business at the same old stand we have occupied for the past twenty years, second floor Constitution building, and will be glad to serve you again.

CAN NOW EAT THREE SQUARE MEALS A DAY

Well Known Business Man Says He Has Gained Sixteen Pounds on Four Bottles of Tanlac and Feels Many Years Younger.

JOSEPH A. YORK,
Well-Known Portland, Maine, Business Man.

"I am now able to eat three square meals a day for the first time in two years," was the emphatic statement made recently by Joseph A. York, well-known business man and highly respected citizen of Portland, Maine.

"I am now sixty-nine years of age, and in all my life I have never run across a medicine that I consider in a class with Tanlac. I have just finished my fourth bottle and this medicine has benefited me even beyond my greatest hopes. Besides gaining sixteen pounds in weight, I have been built up and strengthened until I feel all of twenty years younger.

"For the past two years I have been in a miserably run-down condition, and was compelled a short time ago to give up all idea of business as I was too weak to look after anything. I was nervous, worn-out, had no appetite, and suffered most all the time with indigestion. Some days I would eat scarcely anything; in fact I was afraid to eat because I knew I would suffer afterward. Sometimes I had such severe cramping pains after eating that I would almost die. My nerves were all unstrung, and the least thing would worry me and I never could get a good night's sound sleep. In fact I just lost interest in everything and was greatly discouraged over my condition.

"The ordinary treatment failed to do me any good, and as I had read so many statements from people I know here in Portland who had been benefited by Tanlac, I decided to give it a trial. And now I know for myself what it will do, for I have simply taken a new lease on life. I am now able to look after my work as usual, and never felt better in my life. I am able to eat three hearty meals a day and everything agrees with me perfectly. I eat anything I want and never feel a touch of indigestion. I never thought there was a medicine that could do me so much good, and I am only too glad to have the facts about my case given to the public."

NEW VOTING FORM FOR SCHOOL HEAD AT THE TECH HIGH

Inaugurating a plan to instill in the minds of the students the requisites of citizenship and a knowledge of national elections, the principal and teachers of Tech High school have started a system of ballot closely resembling that of the election of the president of the United States for the selection of the president and vice president of the student body. Tuesday morning between the hours of 8:30 and 8:45 o'clock, a meeting was held and the following nominees were selected: Albert Jordan for president and T. W. Alexander for vice president, while the second convention nominated P. M. Spurlin for president and Fred Saunders for vice president.

The system of election will be the same as of the election of the national executive with the college of electors elliminated. In the conventions for the nomination of the opposing candidates, the voting by states was substituted by first period classes. Some of the delegates were instructed to vote for some specified man, while others followed their own inclination in the choice for the chief executive and vice president of the student body.

The period for campaigning is between March 19 and March 30 when the ballots will be polled. Each candidate will have his own campaign manager, who will canvass for votes and secure speakers in his cause. The time for registration was from March 8 through March 12 and eligibles for registration were bona fide students, who had paid their school dues.

On the day of the election, votes will be cast by the registrants for their candidate and the winner will be acclaimed by popular vote. This system of ballot was chosen by a committee appointed by the principal. It was the idea of the faculty of Tech High to teach a concrete lesson in citizenship and to prepare them for the anticipation of the administration of national, state and city affairs.

The object of the organization, as expressed by those who have asked that the meeting be called, is to procure organization among those who served in the A. E. F., in the army of occupation in Germany, or in any other campaign on foreign soil. Soldiers, sailors and marines who have been discharged from the service are requested to attend the meeting and to bring their discharge papers with them.

Box in Grandstand With 100 Capacity For Kiwanis Club

The Kiwanis club has engaged an entire box in the grandstand at the Ponce de Leon abseball park, with a seating capacity of 100 persons, it was announced Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the club at the Kimball house. The seating capacity is axactly twice as large as that of the box used by the club last year. The box will be for the exclusive use of Kiwanians.

Tuesday's meeting was taken up mostly with reports by various members on the trip to Athens taken last Wednesday, when a party of thirty Atlanta Kiwanians, headed by Robert S. Wessels, Kiwanis governor for the district of Georgia, visited that city for the purpose of participating in the ceremonies attendant upon the presentation of a charter to the newly-organized Kiwanis club of that city.

Another delegation of thirty members will accompany Governor Wessels to Macon next Friday, where a Kiwanis club of 150 members has just been formed by Warren Kimsey, state Kiwanis organizer. Governor Wessels will present a charter to this club at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Hotel Dempsey. The party will leave the Terminal station Friday at 12:20 o'clock p. m., and returning will leave Macon Saturday morning at 3 o'clock, on a special sleeper, arriving in Atlanta at 5:15 o'clock.

ORGANIZED LABOR GUNNING FOR FOES

Non - Partisan Political Campaign to Elect Friendly Congress Started With Great "Enthusiasm."

Washington, March 23.—Organized labor's nonpartisan political campaign has gotten under way "with tremendous enthusiasm" as a result of meetings held last night throughout the country by local unions, according to a statement from American Federation of Labor headquarters.

Directions were sent today by President Samuel Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and James O'Connell, comprising the campaign executive committee, to all locals for the cementing of the campaign organizations into an efficiently functioning machine. These directions were made public as follows:

"The meetings of March 22 have been held as suggested and our A. F. of L. nonpartisan political campaign has been put forward with tremendous enthusiasm. Our brothers all over the land have entered into this movement in a magnificent spirit of co-operation. We believe every man and woman of the labor movement will be ready to volunteer when called upon. With this object we are sending a letter to each local union in your city requesting co-operation in this work with your central body by the selection of a committee of three.

"Our central bodies and our local non-partisan political committees have a great oportunity in the primaries. Here a smashing effort can be made to nominate members of trade unions for elective office.

"Where these brothers are candidates in the primaries, our central bodies and non-partisan political committees should endeavor to give every assistance possible to aid them to victory, regardless of party. In communities where this plan cannotbe made successful, our brothers should exhaust all their resources to defeat every enemy of labor.

"This is a duty we owe to ourselves; an obligation upon us to perpetuate our liberty as working men and women and all citizens of our country.

"By all means, endeavor to secure co-operation of sympathetic farmers and farm organizations, and appeal to all other liberty-loving citizens for support.

"We urge each worker to use the ballot to advance the principles for which labor stands. Then there will be no question in future as to the power of all the people to achieve their just demands."

FAIR COMMITTEE PROPOSES FUNDS TO AID EXHIBITS

The legislative committee of the Georgia Association of Fairs met in the office of the Southeastern fair Tuesday to outline plans for presenting their wishes in the most convincing manner to the next session of the legislatura. The members were entertained at luncheon by Secretary Striplin, and later in the day visited Lakewood, where they were shown the preparations being made for the opening, April 17, and how the big fair plant is utilized to add to the revenue during a period in which most fair grounds are useless.

The following members were present: James Bishop, Jr., president of the association, Eastman; Harry Roberts and Dr. W. G. Lee, of Macon; J. Luke Burdette, Washington; J. W. Fleming, Savannah; C. D.Sheinutt, Sandersville, and R. M. Striplin, chairman of the committee.

The purpose is to ask the legislature to give what will be a comparatively small amount. It will go to the 70 or more fairs in the state to assure premiums for agriculture and live stock, which are not only sufficient to encourage the farmer to exhibit, but when applied to small fairs—still more important—assure the payment of premiums. It is especially important to the county fairs, as the larger fairs are much nearer self-sustaining, but, it is stated, it will enable the larger enterprises to materially increase premiums and bring exhibitors to the state who could not otherwise afford to come.

The following motions were acted upon at the meeting of the state fair committee:

Motion by Harry C. Roberts, seconded by Dr. Lee, that the state of Georgia be asked to appropriate $100,000 to be given supplementary to the premiums offered by the fairs that may qualify.

Motion by Dr. Lee, seconded by Mr. Burdett, that the appropriation shall be allotted to the fairs properly qualifying on an equal basis in proportion to the amount of premiums offered, exclusive of speed purses.

Motion of Mr. Roberts, seconded by President Bishop, that all regulary incorporated fair associations promoted for educational purposes, and not paying dividends to stockholders, shall participate in the appropriation, and that fairs participating shall file with the commissioner of agriculture lists of premums that they propose to pay not later than March 15 of each year.

AD MEN PROPOSE ATLANTA FOR 1921 CONVENTION CITY

The opening gun in the campaign to be waged by the Advertising Club of Atlanta for the purpose of bringing the world's convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World here in 1921, will be fired at the regular luncheon meeting of the club Thursday at 12:30 p. m., at the Kimball house breakfast room. W. R. C. Smith, aveteran of many campaigns, heads the committee selected by President D. W. Webb, and will deliver the principal address of the occasion, outlining the club's plans.

Probably no undertaking on the part of the club has ever aroused such pronounced enthusiasm and determination, and the entire membership of more than 250 advertising and selling men and women are solidly back of President Webb in his efforts.

Such a convention, it is said, would bring to Atlanta, from all parts of the world, between 8,000 and 10,000 publicity experts. In view of this and the general widespread interest manifested by numerous business men in the venture, it has been decided to exten da cordial invitation to every business house in Atlanta to have a representative at the meeting, not only for the purpose of learning about the proposed convention, but also contributing to the meeting any suggestions that might assist in putting over this big deal.

President Webb says he earnestly urges every business man who appreciates the value to Atlanta and his business of a visit from the strongest and most numerous publicity body in the world, to attend the meeting either in person or by proxy. Says he: "We are working for Atlanta—all Atlanta, individually and collectively, will reap the benefit."

WOULD INVESTIGATE HIGH GASOLINE PRICE

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Washington, March 23.—Investigation of the high cost of gasoline and other oils by the department of justice is proposed in a resolution introduced in the house today by Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of Missouri. Mr. Dyer points out in the resolution that the retail praice of gasoline has advanced four times since the middle of January and is expected to make further advances.

The resolution calls upon the attorney general to "make an immediate inquiry into the operations and accounts of the leading concerns engaged in the industry of fuel oil, kerosene, gasoline and other petroleum products and to report to the house the causes of the recent advance in the market price of these products.

The attorney general is requested to report the sources of oil supply for the United States, the profits of the business and what, if any, combinations in restraint of trade exist between those who engage in the business, and what, if any, effect the same has had on the market price of fuel oil, kerosene, gasoline and other petroleum products with reference to the price charged the ultimate consumer.

Navy Department Offers for Sale 150 Sub-Chasers

(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, March 23.—The navy department today offered for sale 150 submarine chasers which were built during the war at a cost of $67,000 a piece. They have been appraised for the sale at $20,000, but offers slightly under that amount will receive consideration.

The vessels are of the 110-foot class, 15-foot beam and 6-foot draft and are equipped with three 225-horse-power engines. The hulls are modeled along the lines of the Gloucester fishing schooners and proved extremely seaworthy in their war work. No bids will be opened for the vessels, but offers may be submitted direct to the navy department.

ALBERT HUGHES SEEKS TRACE OF HIS MOTHER

Albert Hughes, a former resident of South Carolina, who now lives in New York city, has asked The Constitution to aid him in searching for his mother, whose name was, at last reports, Mrs. Susie Anderson. Mr. Hughes states that his mother left his home in Charleston about the year 1895, and he hasn't seen her since. He believes that she came to Atlanta from Charleston. He wishes to get in touch with her, his present address being 10 East One Hundred and Thirty-first street, New York.

"BIG BUSINESS" JOINS FIGHT AGAINST "REDS"

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Washington, March 23.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today pledged the support of "big business" to the campaign against bolshevism to be launched by the Interchurch World Movement. Mr. Rockefeller, speaking for himself and a group of associates, including Charles E. Hughes, Cleveland H. Dodge and Alfred E. Marling, called at the headquarters of the Interchurch organization here and assured the directors of a "backing without stint in the big undertaking." The church movement expects to deal with radicalism by unity of action among thirty distinct church denominations, embracing a membership of more than 25,000,000 persons.

According to an announcement authorized tonight by the director of the organization, Mr. Rockefeller said that the movement appealed to him "as a businesslike effort to obtain efficiency for the great work of the churches."

Mr. Rockefeller gave the impression that business men were frankly alarmed at the partial failure of the government agencies to cope with the "red" evil and are prepared to see that no cheese-paring policy is followed in dealing with the situation.

Interchurch officials also announced that Mr. Rockefeller has accepted active membership on the national executive committee of the Interchurch World Movement, and will give a large part of his time to perfecting the world program. He is said to have expressed preference, however, for activity in the realm of domestic problems, particularly as they relate to industrial and labor unrest. Following Mr. Rockefeller's lead, other prominent figures in the financial and business world are expected to accept membership on educational campaign committee with the view of bettering conditions in various localities more or less disturbed by radical outbursts.

TELLS OF PROGRESS OF SOUTHERN NEGROES

Rev. A. J. Carey, of Chicago, Ill., who was born and educated in Atlanta, delivered a very interesting address to the ministers of the A. M. E. union Tuesday morning on the subject, "What the A. M. E. Church Has Done for the Elevation of the Race."

"The negroes have made greater progress in the south than in any section of the country," he said, "and wherever you find the southern negro he is leading in all Christian movements and has established schools and churches in isolated districts in all sections of the church."

He paid a high tribute to the splendid work being done in the state under the leadership of Bishop J. S. Flipper in organizing the university system and the extension of missions in the state.

1,500 HEAR SEN. REED IN SPEECH AT MACON

Missourian Given Ovation During Address on League of Nations Covenant.

Macon, Ga., March 23.—(Special.) With about 1,500 persons in attendance, mostly men, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, spoke at the city auditorium here tonight on the league of nations. He was given an ovation and was warmly applauded at several points during his address, which occupied about an hour and a half.

Senator Reed arrived in Macon at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon from Atlanta, accompanied by former Senator Thomas W. Hardwick. They were met at the terminal by a delegation composed of former Congressman C. L. Bartlett, Judge John H. Ross, Roland Ellis, Wallace Miller and T. J. Simmons. The party went to the Hotel Lanier, where a dinner party was arranged, after which they adjourned to the auditorium.

The Missourian was introduced by Judge Bartlett, who reviewed Senator Reed's record, describing him as being in "forefront and fore-rank of the senate."

"In this, one of our country's crucial periods, he sands in the right," said Judge Bartlett.

NO ILLITERATES LEFT IN SPALDING, BOLTON REPORTS

There is not an adult illiterate left in Spalding county. This splendid central Georgia county has won the distinction of being the first in the state to go over the top in the illiteracy campaign now being waged in Georgia, according to a telegram to Superintendent M. L. Brittain, from W. H. Bolton, the county superintendent, yesterday. The telegram says:

"Every adult illiterate white and black in Spalding county has been found enrolled in a class and taught enough to put him out of the illiterate class. We expect to continue these lessons until all complete the text and to teach all that come to out county in the future."

Mr. Brittain expressed himself as very much gratified over the work done in Spalding. Three other counties, he said, which have been very active in the illiteracy campaign, have written him that they expect to go over the top in so far as their white illiterates are concerned very soon. They are Crawford, Evans and Harris.

The illiteracy work in Fulton also is progressing in a most satisfictory manner. One hundred and fifty have been enrolled in the white, and 250 in the negro classes in Atlanta, Mr. Brittain said.

Smith Not Decided On Entering Race For White House

Senator Hoke Smith announced Tuesday at his headquarters in the Piedmont hotel, where he is stopping for several days, that he had not yet made up his mind as to whether he would enter the presidential primary for the Georgia delegation at San Francisco.

He said: "When my decision is made it will be with a view to doing what I think will most promote the success of the democratic party in the coming campaign, regardless of what personal effect it may have upon me or my political future."

In a public statement which he gave out he declared that he was giving "deepest consideration to the telegram sent him by Hall county democrats."

Senator Smith announced that he had accepted an invitation to speak in Savannah on Thursday night made by Mayor Murray Stuart and other prominent citizens of that town.

ATLANTAN PROMOTED IN MERCHANT MARINE

That the merchant marine is an interesting occupation and offers advantages for promotion is attested by the statement of J. P. Locks, Atlanta recruiting agent of the United States shipping board, sea training bureau, who reports that I. N. Hailey, an Atlanta boy who was among the first six men to leave for training in this service, has returned to Atlanta and announces that he is pleased with the service.

In two months time, Mr. Hailey was promoted to the rank of water tender, which places him in charge of the engine room, next in command to the officer. On his last cruise, he visited Colon, Panama and Buenos Aires.

The squad which composes the weekly group to leave Atlanta for enlistment in the merchant marine includes R. D. Galloway, J. C. Clayton and J. S. Maier, of Atlanta; W. E. Olie, of Thomasville; W. S. Whitman, of Riverdale; H. I. Grizzard, of Saginaw, Mich.; and A. Schaleney, of Montgomery, Ala. They will take a training course at Camp Stuart, Va., prior to the six weeks cruise.

ROBBING MAIL BOXES CONFESSED BY YOUTH

Heber Wilson, aged 14, charged with stealing from mail boxes on Peachtree road, pled guilty Tuesday morning before United States Commissioner W. Colquitt Carter, and was bound over to the federal grand jury in default of bond for $200.

The lad was arrested Saturday by County Policeman W. C. Chappelear, who appeared against him at the preliminary hearing. Officer Chappelear testified that the boy has confessed to the theft of jewelry valued at $350 from a house in his neighborhood. A written confession of embezzlement from the mail boxes was given by Wilson to Commissioner Carter. If convicted, the boy will probably be sent to the federal boys' reformatory at Washington.

EXHIBIT BY ARMY MEN AT LAKEWOOD NEXT SATURDAY

Colonel B. M. Bailey, in charge of the army recruiting station in this city, has planned an instructive and interesting exhibition of army work to be staged at Lakewood park next Saturday afternoon and evening. Veterans and expert riflemen from Camp Benning, near Columbus, will display their skill in throwing hand grenades and in projecting rifle grenades, as well as in shooting Browning heavy and light machine guns and the Lewis machine gun.

Artillerymen will also be on hand to demonstrate the power of the Stokes mortar, and will fire about 600 rounds of ammunition from French 75 mm. and 37 mm. guns. The ammunition to be used in the small guns alone will cost the government more than $500, while the shells for the artillery are estimated at $13 apiece.

There will be a dance in the evening for civilians as well as soldiers, and the hours after dark will be enlivened by a costly display of fireworks. All of this entertainment will be free to the public, and Manager Stripling, of the fair grounds, is arranging to provide light lunches at a moderate cost, for those who care to see both afternoon and evening performances.

Fourteen Georgia boys in the first year of their enlistment have just returned from Camp Upton, where they have been atttending the elementary school. These young men were illiterate when they entered the army, and now that they have acquired the foundation of an education they are being given a two-weeks' furlough before being sent back to Camp Upton to finish the higher grades of their schooling.

The Georgia recruiting station has received 325 illiterate rookies since last October, all of whom are now receiving the best educations that the war department can provide.

The conditions of Lizzie Putnam and Sallie Cain, the two negro women who were badly injured from jumping from a second-story window of the burning building, were reported still serious.

COLBY TAKES OATH AND ASKS PUBLICITY

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

Washington, March 23.—Bainbridge Colby, confirmed yesterday by the senate as secretary of state, was sworn in this morning and plunged immediately into the affairs of the diplomatic department.

Probably the first official act of Mr. Colby was to address a letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge asking him to make public the testimony before the foreign relations committee which held up the confirmation of Mr. Colby for more than a month.

"Will you permit me to express to you my appreciation of the very courteous reception I had from you and the members of your committee on the occasion of my recent appearance before the committee?" said Mr. Colby in his letter.

"I am hopeful that a way may be found to lift the secrecy which surrounds the evidence taken by the committee on the subject of my confirmation. While reluctant to make a request that may in any degree conflict with the usual practice of the committee, or anticipate its action, it would be very much appreciated by me if the whole record were given complete publicity."

Senator Lodge, after receiving the communication from the new secretary of state, said that as ten members of the committee were either sick or out of the city, it would be impossible to take any action on the matter for more than a week.

Mr. Colby was sworn in by Miles D. Shands, appointed clerk of the state department, in the presence of Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state, and a number of government officials. In a conference immediately afterwards, Mr. Colby said that he had nothing to say on his "jolicies" as secretary of state, but that he hoped soon to acquaint himself thoroughly with the situations that confronted this government in foreign matters. He also spoke of the pleasure of finding Mr. Polk, an old friend, in office, and that he believed the under-secretary of state just the man to help him get a grip on things. Mr. Colby said that he contemplated no changes in the administration or personnel of the department.

The hundreds of passports which have been piling up while there was no secretary of state to sign them will now be issued more quickly than had been hoped as the result of prearrangements made by Charles B. Welsh, of the passport control division. Foreseeing the jam, Mr. Welsh obtained Secretary Colby's signature and had hundreds of passports prepared with the facsimile signature ready to be issued the moment the new secretary took office. Consequently, the mass of accumulated passports began to move promptly today, and it is expected there will be a minimum of inconvenience and delay to business men and tourists.

PRAISE FOR SERVICE OF DR. JOHN PURSER

Resoltions expressing gratitude for the faithful and efficient service of Dr. John F. Purser, as pastor of the West End Baptist church, were adopted at a recent meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of that church.

Dr. Purser has resigned his post as pastor of the West End church to accept the position of executive secretary of the Atlanta Baptist association, and the resolutions incorporated regret at the departure of both Dr. and Mrs. Purser, as well as gratitude for the services they have rendered during their association with the congregation.

JUDGE ELLIS URGES CARE IN ISSUING WEDDING LICENSES

Judge W. D. Ellis, who is presiding in the divorce court this week, Tuesday took occasion to make a strong appeal to ordinaries, ministers and officials to be more careful in issuing licenses and in performing marriage ceremonies. He declared that the failure of such care and investigation furnished "fine soil for the divorce crop."

Judge Ellis' remarks were brought about by the hearing of a petition of Mrs. Kathleen C. Hunnicutt, who was only 16 years old when she married, for annulment. The petitioner declared that she was married to W. A. Hunnicutt when he threatened her. According to the young woman, when Hunnicutt proposed he told her it would be a marriage or murder. She stated that after the ceremony she returned to her home and never lived with her husband. The jury annulled the marriage.

REED, OR HIS "HAND-PICK."

Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, one of the handful of democratic senators who, from the beginning of the war, habitually and persistently slurred, criticised, attacked and condemned the administration and its policies—so much so as to win the contempt of his own party and of the country—now comes to Georgia and makes the bold declaration that all citizens who favored or now favor the peace treaty are traitors!

This is the same "Jim" Reed who went into Oklahoma and was rotten-egged even before he had a chance to speak—rotten-egged because the very record of the man was such as to evoke the violent indignation of the people, who resented the idea of his advising them what to do.

But the hurling of rotten eggs is no argument.

We are glad that Senator Reed was given a respectful hearing in Georgia, for this state stands for free speech and the free interchange of ideas.

But what must the ministers of practically every denomination in Georgia; the hundreds of thousands of Georgia church-goers; the many chambers of commerce, boards of trade, and the many other civic, commercial and industrial organizations in this state—what must they think to be so challenged by a man who dares not do in his own state that which he boldly essays to do in Georgia: That is, either to himself ask for the presidential vote of the state or else to "hand-pick" a candidate to run as his substitute!

What must they think, that this man from Missouri—the bellwether of the war obstructionists—should throw into their teeth the charge of being traitors!

If all those Georgians who favored the peace treaty are traitors, and if all those who, two years ago at the polls, supported the administration by the biggest majority ever recorded in a Georgia election, in which election the issue of loyalty to country and to the administration was uppermost—if they are traitors, and are willing to come under the whip-lash of this man whose very allegiance to the flag was questioned when the war was under way—this man who, to say the least of it, was ever on the job of rendering encouragement, comfort and cheer to the enemy—then, God help the state!

What must the thousands of Georgia boys who offered their very lives as a sacrifice, if necessary, to defend their country's flag—what must they, their families, their friends, think when the man who was pulling back the strong right arm of Uncle Sam as it reached out to support and strengthen them, now comes to Georgia to challenge the loyalty of the state.

What must all loyal Georgians think at this man's asking either directly for the state's delegation to the San Francisco convention for himself, or at arrogating to himself the right to "hand-pick" a candidate around whom to rally his forces?

It is not now a question as to Reed himself, but rather as to whether or not Reed is to be permitted to dominate the situation in this state.

That is the question that confronts the good people of Georgia.

They may be ready to stultify themselves, and they have the right to do so if they so will—but The Constitution is not prepared to believe that the voters of Georgia are ready to make any such response to the effort of the malcontents to steal the state either openly or by subterfuge!

Reed may be smart enough to know that he cannot accomplish his purpose by the direct route of offering his own name.

Can he "hand-pick" some one who will serve the same end?

THE NEWBERRY CASE.

There seems to be little evidence in the notorious Newberry case to convince the public that the recent campaign of Michigan's junior senator was, as characterized by its manager, Paul H. King, in a formal statement made subsequent to his own, the senator's and fourteen lieutenants' conviction of criminal conspiracy to corrupt the franchise, "the cleanest ever conducted."

Conversely, the facts adduced at the trial seem to justify the conclusion that no more corrupt campaign was ever conducted, so far as illegal expenditure of money can make a political campaign infamous.

The law under which Newberry and his co-defendants were tried limits to $3,750 the amount of money that any man may spend, or permit to be spent, in behalf of his candidacy for a United States senatorship.

The evidence in this case goes to prove that many times that amount was spent to elect Newberry to the senate in 1918; in fact, Campaign Manager King himself testified that in the beginning of the contest he had warned the candidate that the campaign proposed would cost "at least $50,000," and the records show that it did cost that amount and considerably more.

It was a "barrel campaign," pure and simple; money flowed like water, and was spent right and left.

The result is that Newberry, his brother, and fifteen of his friends and politicial lieutenants, are disgraced, convicted of crime, under sentence of the law!

If Newberry's conviction is sustained by the supreme court, to which appeal is to be taken, he will, of course, be deprived of his seat in the senate—and justly so.

But suppose a similar fate were meted out to every member of that body to bring about whose election campaign funds in excess of $3,750 had been spent; how many of the present membership would be eligible to retain their seats?

If the senate as a whole were put through the same course of sprouts as that now being undergone by Newberry, and the commission taken away from every member whose election cost him or his friends more than $3,750, there would not be left in the senate members enough to hold a committee meeting—to say nothing of constituting a quorum!

Yet they are there, apparently secure in their places for the full lengths of their terms; respected by their fellows and by society; nobody bothering them, or questioning their right to hold office. And Newberry is the goat.

Will the others turn him out? Not on your life!

Many a man, good, capable, popular, honest, ambitious, who would like to serve his fellow-citizens as a senator, has refrained from submitting his name simply because his talents had not been directed toward money-making and he "couldn't afford to make the race" against a rich opponent!

This does not make for good, clean, democratic government; and it is bad for the country.

Ebert is having a rough road to travel because his harness isn't on straight.

The shortage of congressional garden seed may make it possible for the home-gardeners to produce something this year.

It is said that Mme. Tetrazzini's income tax amounts to something over $100,000. These operatic singers come high, but the income tax must have 'em.

Bits of New York Life By O. O. McIntyre

New York, March 23.—

It was in a great cafe.

Dim lit and Babylonish.

With soft perfumes.

And jeweled women came..

With resplendent escorts.

And far off behind palms.

Of a hidden orchestra.

Mingling with the soft ripple.

Of a lighted fountain.

And I looked about.

And through the plush curtains.

Of the entrance I saw her.

A wild, wondrous flower.

Wafted from Elysian fields.

Her hair tinged with gold.

And lips of sullen red.

Like a flame-swept city.

And her lily-white hands.

Were heavy with gems.

And my soup got cold.

While I sat and watched.

And finally.

She made her way.

With a majestic tread.

To a table near mine.

Casting a Circean spell.

Upon all about her.

Then there came a sullen man.

Who scowled at the waiter.

And then scowled at me.

And I returned to my soup.

But now and then I'd slyly.

Take a look at them.

And they didn't speak.

For a long, long time.

And at last she said.

Something I couldn't hear.

And I moved my chair.

Over a little closer.

And the man scowled.

And I moved back again.

As I didn't notice him.

And went on eating.

And forgot all about thtm.

Until I heard her say:

"Henry, stop that!"

And I looked and he was.

Saucering his coffee.

And he looked over at me.

And I kinda smiled.

And then he smiled.

Because he knew I knew.

His terrible secret.

He was a married man.

And got bawled out.

Just like the rest of us.

LOST MOTION.

Anger is lost motion. It is effort out of place and time. Walk away from it. It is always—lost motion.

Another place where lost motion hovers is about those whose self-expression differs from yours. Don't tamper with it. Recognize it. Applaud it. Shake hands with it. Smile in its face!

Two people with the finest originality in the world may come together only to disagree so that the power of each is lost. That's a good deal the trouble with the interests of Capital and Labor. Their ideals are much the same, but each thinks the other is trying to get something on the other. So there is trouble.

There are many great concerns in the world that never have any strikes. Simply because the employer and employee understand each other and work together.

There is a universal spirit always at work, and when two differing interests find it, there is always concord and agreement—and no lost motion.

You who are all the time imagining that someone else is after your job or your opportunity or your prize—be it what it may—stop for a moment and look the proposition squarely in the face. No one sees or understands as you do; therefore, no one can be after what you are able to get.

Lost motion follows him who wanders from his own bench.

That is a pretty good phrase—watch your step;! We all either overstep or understep. And every man has a limit as to steps. The one made wrong is motion lost.

Let us try to conserve—losing nothing that rightfully belongs to us, or unjustly interfering with what belongs to another.

Let us try for harmony and efficiency.

Was the President Ahead of the People?

Editor Constitution: The president's letter to Senator Hitchcock was the product of a clear brain and brave heart—a fitting climax to his noble work for humanity at Versailles.

Short-sighted senators have defeated the covenant of peace for the present, but they cannot deprive its author of the honors that history will accord him.

The ballots in November will show whether the leader went too far ahead of his people. But whether or not they lag behind at this crisis, he has pointed out the way they must finally go if we are ever to realize the hope of forestalling the terrible sacrifices and sufferings of international wars.

Augusta, Ga., March 21, 1920.

Palmer-Reed—Hoke and Hoover

"HOKE AND HOOVER."
(From Lawrenceville News-Herald.)

Some of the Gainesville contingent of Hooverites have sent a long telegram to Hoke Smith asking him to allow his name entered upon the Georgia primary ballot as a presidential candidate, so that, being denied the privilege to vote for Hoover direct they may do so indirectly in his name.

His Highness pretends to be "considering" the request, but he hasn't the remotest idea of granting it.

The first intention of Smith, Hardwick and Watson was to support Jim Reed, the Missouri renegade who refused to comply with the request of the democratic members of the legislature of that state to resign, because of his treachery to the party, but the aforesaid Jeems, who has no standing with the democratic party at home, hasn't the remotest idea of becoming a real candidate for the presidency, and don't want to made a goat of by that sweet smelling aggregation, so will keep out of the race.

Knowledge of this fact has caused the Hooverites and other malcontents in Georgia to have him become a candidate, with no expectation of being nominated by the San Francisco convention, in any event, under the delusion that he could just "sweep Georgia," whereas he could not make a better race than either Tom Hardwick or Jim Reed.

Hoke would have to turn an awful "summerset," to run as the vindicator of Hoover, as he has often declared his contempt for him.

In the senate, while Reed was excoriating Mr. Hoover, he said something about him being Smith's choice for president, whereupon, according to the Congressional Record, the following colloquy occurred:

Mr. Smith of Georgia: I was wondering if the senator thought that he would return to our democratic moorings by nominating Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Reed: That depends. If we adopt the league of nations he is the logical candidate of all persons indorsing that.

Mr. Smith of Georgia: And I wish to say that my question did not imply any committal of myself in any sense.

Mr. Reed: I am disappointed.

Mr. Smith of Georgia: I hate to disappoint the senator, but still I must continue to say that my question was to obtain information. I wanted to know something from the senator from Missouri, and I have learned part of what I expected to hear. (Laughter.)

Mr. Reed: If the senator will compose himself, I will contribute some more. (Laughter.)

Mr. Smith from Georgia: Mr. President, I will compose myself if the senator does not suggest again that I meant to indorse Mr. Hoover as my choice.

Discussing the question, the Savannah Press had the following to say:

"When the candidacy of Mr. Hoover was first mentioned, Hoke Smith is said to have exclaimed in Washington: 'Don't put me in the Hoover column.' He was even quoted as saying to the correspondent of The New York World that 'the suggestion of Hoover's name for the democratic nomination was preposterous and absurd.'"

COMMENDS STATE COMMITTEE.
(From The Covington News.)

The News commends the state committee for refusing to admit the candidacy of any man who is not a four-ply, thirty-third degree, rock-ribbed, hell-roaring democrat, for Georgia is a democratic state and the preferential primary is supposed to be a democratic primary. It is foolish to advocate the elimination of party lines and issues, for they cannot be eliminated. The republicans will vote as solid as Stone Mountain for the republican nominee; of that there can be no doubt. No candidate except an accepted republican need hope to receive the support of the republicans of any of the states in which there are a sufficient number to elect a justice of the peace.

"MIGHT AS WELL TAKE DOPE."
(From The Valdosta Times.)

The Times thinks a great deal of Herbert Hoover. It looks upon him as being patriotic, loyal and strong, but there is no sense in the democratic party running after him unless he is a democrat. We might as well indorse Senator Lodge or former Speaker Cannon. The mountain of democracy will not go to Mahomet, whether the latter appears in the guise of Mr. Hoover or some other republican.

REED—OR A REED" HAND-PICK."
(From The Athens Herald.)

The people of Georgia today are confronted with a grave political situation. A petition has been forwarded to the state democratic executive committee asking that the name of Jim Reed, obstructionist, copperhead, party traitor and yellow as the egg which bespattered his senatorial toga when he attempted to air his despicable views to the loyal Americans of Oklahoma, be placed on the democratic ticket.

Where was Jim Reed when millions of young Americans were offering their lives on the altar of freedom? Where was Jim Reed when the mothers of this land were gladly giving their sons to their country in order that the dream of a megalomaniac Kasier might not be realized and that millions of people might be freed from the yoke of bondage and be at last set free?

Was he lending his support to the party and the administration and the constitution which he had sworn to support? Was he spending his energy and time to the end that his country might be successful in the war? Not on your life. He was using the influence of his office to aid the Hun in their campaign against his own government! That's Jim Reed. That is the loyal democrat he is. He is the man that now has the audacity to allow his name to appear on the democratic ticket in Georgia when he knows that his own state would turn its back to him, and by doing so win the applause of all right-thinking men.

Mitchell Palmer may come from a hopelessly republican state. He may not be the best man for his party to nominate, but the people of this state at least can be assured that he stands for the ideals of democracy and the accomplishments of his nation and his party during the most trying period of its history. Although it is the honest opinion of some of the leading and most respected democrats in the state that Herbert Hoover's name should go on the preferential primary ticket in Georgia, as the situation presents itself now it is believed that it would be a dangerous to insist that his name be placed on the ballot.

It is a well-known fact that Reed will run on an anti-administration ticket. It is equally well known that Mitchell Palmer is running on a pro-administration platform. The race in this state will be between Jim Reed, the obstructionist, and Mitchell Palmer, the democrat.

HOOVER MIGHT "MOVE ON."
(From The Maysville Enterprise.)

Hoover does not like the fundamentals of the democratic party. We suggest that he move on.

All the high-sounding eloquence about being liberal and breaking down party lines is the merest and silliest tommyrot. The man without a party in America today is either a disinterested citizen or an opportunist.

DON'T UNDERSTAND IT.
(From The Macon News.)

Georgians should cast their ballots for a man who will pledge himself to abide by the results of the democratic convention and make his race on the platform that shall be adopted at San Francisco. We shall have no feud with those who support Mr. Hoover, against his "approval," but we are unable to figure out why we should force these honors upon him when he does not promise to become a democrat.

PALMER A STRAIGHT FIGHTER.
(From The Valdosta Times.)

There is one thing about Attorney General Palmer. He has not shown the white feather in dealing with those who try "to take the law in their own hands." He has dealt as firmly with the I. W. W. thugs as he has with the less numerous "big business" trespassers.

REED WASTING RAILFARE.
(From The Ocilla Star.)

Senator Jim Reed, who wants to be president, is to make some speeches in Georgia before the primary. We take it that he is wasting railroad fare.

NO PATIENCE.
(From The Albany Herald.)

We haven't much patience with those critics of the state democratic executive committee whose criticisms seem to be inspired by partisan animus.

COLD COMFORT FOR REED.
(From The Albany Herald.)

Senator Reed's candidacy will not be popular in Georgia. He will get a respectful hearing, but no convention delegates.

Men and Business

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Unless the cotton industry has a good many years of exceptional prosperity, it would appear that there will be a smash in Lancashire one of these fine days that will shock Great Britain.

The frantic buying and merging of mills by syndicates and their flotation on greatly increased capitalization continues.

Unquestionably many of these mills were undercapitalized and unquestionably they could not be replaced for anything near what they cost to build and equip, but the purchasers seem to have let their imaginations run riot in their estimates of what the earnings of the future are to be.

Here are two sales reported in one day that are typical. The Ash Spinning mill, of Shaw, Lancashire, capital 37,500 pounds, was purchased by H. Scott Butterworth and Wilfred Hall for 393,750 pounds, or ten and one-half times its capitalization.

The Anchor Spinning Mill company, capital 15,000 pounds, was purchased by a syndicate for 162,000 pounds, or nearly 11 times its old rating. In addition, the purchasers are to compensate the directors for the loss of their offices.

Hundreds of mills have been taken over at from five to fifteen times their capitalization. Meanwhile, labor asks where it comes in.

Conservative Britishers inveigh against the riot of speculation in mill shares and say the idea has been spread by the exploiters that Lancashire is an El Dorado. As a matter of fact, England is experiencing practically the same kind of attack of amalgamation and stock watering that America did after the Spanish-American war, only in the British case it seems to be more aggravated than it was in this country.

It took the United States ten years to digest what it swallowed at that time and once, in 1904, and again in 1907, it seemed as if it couldn't be done, but in the long run everything came out all right.

It may be so in Britain, but, meantime, some of the persons now in the financial clouds may walk the floor many nights and wonder if they were sane when they saw only a golden stream coming from the spindle and the loom.

It pays to have trained men on the job whatever the job. The Baldwin locomotive people have reason to know this. Last fall they sent Wallace Lee and Alfred D. Chandler, Jr., to Buenos Aires to represent them there, Lee as manager and Chandler as assistant. They are getting results. One evidence is an order for locomotives that means about $1,000,000 worth of business.

But why shouldn't they get business if there is business to get? They are exactly fitted for their duties. Lee was graduated at the University of Pennsylvania in 1899 in engineering. He went at once into the Baldiwn plant and stayed there six years. Then, in 1905, they sent him to Japan. After two years in Japan he went to the Argentine, Uruguay and Chile for the company, remaining until 1911. Then for five or six years he was in Cuba.

He speaks Spanish like a native. He knows a locomotive from the headlight to the tender end.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

THE HIGH COST OF SICKNESS—12.
Mr. Miller Has an Abscess.

Soon after the strike was settled Mr. Miller developed a boil. Mrs. Miller had some Valley Salve in which she placed great faith, and she applied a generous dose of it "on a rag." Miller became more and more uncomfortable. Then it happened one of the neighbors who prescribed a poultice. The neighbor gave explicit instructions that the flaxseed meal was to go next the skin. Miller endured it two more days, then began to feel pretty sick. He managed, poor fellow, to navigate somehow to the doctor's office.

"Pretty ugly abscess," said the doctor, examining the lesion.

"Why, we thought it was a boil," said Miller.

"Well, a boil is an abscess. An abscess is an accumulation of pus—matter, anywhere, in any quantity. A boil is a small abscess. You have here a plain boil, in a situation where the subcutaneous tissue is loose, and that permits the infection to spread in all directions, making a rather large subcutaneous abscess in a few days. I see you have been applying filthy poultices—felt kinda sorry for the poor, hungry pus-germs, eh? Thought you'd feed 'em and keep 'em nice and warm and moist so they could multiply and thrive and be happy? You're a kind hearted man, Miller."

The abscess was opened by a mere puncture. The doctor soaked manifold pieces of clean cheesecloths (cheesecloth which had been boiled five minutes) in a hot solution and placed them thickly upon the abcess and applied a bandage to retain the dressing. He gave Miller a pint of the same solution and instructed him to have a few spoonfuls poured on the dressing every hour or often enough to keep it constantly moist, and to apply fresh clean cheesecloth folds as often as the discharge soiled the dressing.

The patient returned three days later feeling no better. On examination the doctor found a piece of dry, non-absorbent flannel on the dry, sore, swollen abscess. Miller explained that he had run out of cheesecloth, and, it being Sunday, he couldn't get any. So he had omitted the wet dressing since Saturday morning!

Miller hasn't much money but he could afford to consult a doctor and then ignore the doctor's orders. Expensive amusement.

The solution the doctor applied, and the one he applies for all similar inflamed or infected wounds or regions, is this:

Common salt, 4 heaping teaspoonfuls.

Citrate of soda, 4 heaping teaspoonfuls.

Boiled water, 1 pint.

This, if kept constantly applied in the form of a hot wet gauze dressing on a local skin infection which throbs or pains or swells and threatens to suppurate or develop "blood poison," favors drainage, relief of pain and healing. It does all a poultice can do, without doing any harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A Weak Heart.

Is a weak heart hereditary? My baby died from some valve trouble when a few weeks old. Four or five months before the baby was born I had a fainting spell. Would that affect the baby's heart? (Mrs. L. R. F.)

ANSWER—Weak heart is not hereditary. The fainting had nothing to do with the baby's condition. Fainting is usually not due to any weakness of the heart.

Cotton in the Ear.

For years I have worked in a forge shop, where the noise and racket is fearful. I have always worn absorbent cotton in my ears when at work, and I still have good hearing. Most of the men wear nothing of the kind and are very deaf. Yet they tell me it is harmful to wear anything in the ears. I'd appreciate your opinion about that. (W.)

ANSWER—The objection to wearing cotton in the ears is that cotton of other packing tends to obstruct normal draining and ventilation when there is infection or inflammation present. The objection scarcely applies in your case, and I should think your habit is a wise one. Of course, you remove the cotton when you leave the shop.

Catarrh.

Kindly tell me whether there is any cure for lung catarrh. My brother has been sick for three months with it, in bed part of the time. He has some fever. (Mrs. C. B.)

ANSWER—There is no such disease. Either you are being deceived or your brother is. If a doctor perpetrates what purports to be a diagnosis of "catarrh" he is either at sea or deliberately deceiving the patient.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. Brady, in care of The Constitution.

Many Lands on This Old Globe Where Every Year Is Leap Year

"Once again, with 1920, women have a chance to take the initial step toward providing themselves with an introduction to the heavenly kingdom, a boon which marriage brings to them, according to Mormon philospoy. The return of a year which leaps forward a day, bringing to them a privilege monopolized by man three years out of four, has no significance for women of many lands, since they enjoy that liberty all the time," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society, issued today from its Washington headquarters.

"The women of no race possess more freedom in this matter than the Hopi Indians of Arizona," the bulletin continues. "A maiden does not woo the man of her choice, but simply and forcibly states her proposition to his mother, without any encouragement on his part. Her only preliminary proceeding is to do her hair in two gigantic whorls, one over each ear. This is her announcement that she is going a-courting. These peculiar knots are intended to represent the blossoms of a squash vine, symbol of virginity, but to those untutored in their meaning, thy resemble huge door knobs set at a rather violent angle. When some debutantes thus announce that they are out on the carpet, it is said that as many as six or eight of the eligible young men of the tribe literally take to the woods.

"After this aggressive young lady has selected her victim, and his mother has agreed that he shall be sacrificed, she serves in the house of her future mother-in-law for thirty days, grinding meal, very much after the fashion that Jacob of old served fourteen years for Rachel. The poor youth, in the meanwhile, does not sit idly by, but weaves her wedding garments.

"Among the Batus of the Uganda protectorate of Africa, if a girl is not fortunate enogh to be asked in marriage in her home town, she goes to anoher village and offers herself to seme man there. Though not honored in her own country, she at least receives consideration in that of her neighbor, for a woman is an excellent agricultural laborer, and a man is not likely to refuse such a business asset.

"The Galla woman of the eastern coast of Africa has the rare privilege among savage and half-cilillzed people of refusing to marry a man who is undesirable to her.

"Little is known of the marriage customs of the ancient Egyptians, but we can easily believe that women had at least the privilege of expressing a preference, if they did not actually do the proposing, for, if we trust the historian, Diodorus, a man promised his wife to grant her complete control over him and, to offer no objection to her commands.

"Some survival of this liberty of Egyptian women must have permeated other portions of Africa, for princesses on the west coast of that continent, whose children may become future rulers, choose their own husbands. Nor is a princess limited in her choice to unmarried men. She may just as easily decide upon one who has already entered the marriage state, and the poor fellow has to put away his other wives and become her slave. Moreover, she has the power of life and death over him. He sometimes has only one consolation—he inherits all her property if he is fortunate enough to be spared until her death.

"In the Tyrol a girl may express her preference for a man by presenting him with a bottle of spirits. If she is afraid that her procedure has not the indorsement of her parents, she may contrive to lower the precious fluid at night from her chamber window.

"In north Transylvania, a young peasant woman may give a particular swain a tip that he is the 'apple of her eye' by going with him in his cart at the time of the harvesting of the oats to help him carry in his crop. It is said that at this sason one sometimes sees a procession of gaily-decorated carts going afield, a willing maid seated in each.

"One of the obligations of a father in Rumania and Bosnia is to provide so well for his marriageable daughter that when she is presented with a list informing her of the means and qualifications of the eligible young men in the vicinity she will not be hampered by a lack of worldly goods on her own part in making her choice.

"In bygone days in India, women were sometimes allowed to choose their own husbands. One of their old fairy tales tells of a fair princess who, after a tournament, placed a garland around the neck of a knight who had won her heart.

"Among the Eskimos of the east coast of Greenland, a man captures the girl he wants, but from that time on the usual order of things is reversed. He has to exercise the greatest vigilance to prevent her from eloping with any other man whom she may prefer, as this seems to be her privilege. In the northern New Hebrides, a bride who is unhappy seeks the earliest opportunity of running away from her husband and seeking a home with some man she likes better. If her parents cannot induce her to return to the injured husband, they usually send him a pig to soothe his wounded feelings."

Says the Bible Solves the Problem

Editor Constitution: The times are critical, not here alone, but all over the world. Prospering in purely material interests, as I fully believe the people-at-large have never done before, the elements to bring on the gravest moral changes are simultaneously at work everywhere.

The problems now lavishly presented for agitation touch the very foundation of religious faith, of moral philosophy, of civil government and even of human society. New forms of power are developing themselves, seriously menacing the solidity of all established institutions. Even that great conviction, ever cherished as the apple of your eye, and which is really the rock upon which the political edifice rests, the durability of representative government, bids fair to be, sooner or later, drawn into question on solid grounds.

The collision between the forces of associated capital and those of associated labor is likely to make itself felt throughout the wide extent of human civilization.

Has the whole world gone mad? Are there no quacking geese to sound an alarm? Is Babylon feasting while the river is being turned aside? Is it her last great feast? To all these questions, I refer you to the Bible, which alone gives satisfactory answers.

What glorious answers to these seemingly hard questions. The prophets answer in the following scriptures: Please read carefully these: Psalms, 96:10-13; Isaiah, 11:1-10; 61:4-11; 65:17-25; Jeremiah, 31:31-40; Ezekiel, 16:48 to end; 28:25 and 26; 34:24-31; Hosea, 2:14-23; Revelations, 21:3-5.

The restoration of the world to their "former estate" (life on earth) is a doctrine held by few Christians through lack of seeing the glorious "plan" of "salvation" God has revealed to us in His word. When once you get hold of restitution as a starting point, you will soon find that God has a plan, and diligent study of scripture will open your eyes to see God's love and wisdom, if you will only believe what God says, and not human tradition. Few, indeed, can see that God is smiting the whole earth with all manner of troubles, just before "times of restitution of all things." Watch Jehovah do His strange work.—Acts. 3:19-21. WM. B. BATES.

MORGENTHAU NAMED U. S. ENVOY TO MEXICO

Washington, March 23.—Henry Morgenthau, of New York, former ambassador to Turkey, was nominated today by President Wilson to be ambassador to Mexifco. He will succeed Henry P. Fletcher, who resigned recently because he did not agree with the administration's Mexican policy.

ADMIRAL SIMS STIRS WAR DEPARTMENT

American sentiment," which led the presiding officer, M. Clemenceau, to declare that "this point was settled," and nothing was heard thereafter on the subject.

In General Pershing's original orders, as commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces, it was specifically provided that American troops were to operate as individual units.

Admiral Sims' statement Monday concerning General Bliss' alleged recommendation was made in discussion by the admiral of the most effective manner in which the United States forces abroad could have aided the allied cause. Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, read from an unsigned letter found in Admiral Sims' file urging that American troops passing through Great Britain be brigaded with the British forces. He called the document "British propaganda," and said it was part of an organized effort to prevent the formation of a separate American army. Admiral Sims replied that while he had not written the letter, he objected to having it called propaganda, and said it was "pretty good military reasoning and what Bliss recommended."

Urged Complete Divisions.

General Bliss said that all British military and political men, during his visit to London with the house commission, urged the sending of complete American divisions for the purpose of having in Europe an American national army. He said he informed them that this country hoped to have in France twelve complete divisions by June 1, 1918, and was told that that effort must be doubled. French military men later making the same demand.

"The idea of brigading complete divisions with other groups is an absurdity," General Bliss wrote. "During the battle our divisions were at times used to meet an emergency in connection with either British or French divisions; but in the same way French divisions were used with our troops. At no time during the American mission's visit to Europe did I hear even the suggestion that our troops should be brigaded either in large or small bodies with foreign troops.

"Never did I ever make such a suggestion, much less a recommendation.

"The first suggestion as to the temporary use of any American troops with those of our allies was made at the time when they apprehended the near approach of the German drive of March 31.

"In the very crisis of the battle the military representatives recommended that the American government send to Europe American infantry and machine gun units; that the use, in principle, of those units with allied troops be permitted. Before acting on it I took this recommendation to you and General Pershing, at the latter's house, where you dictated to the president an approval of the recommendation, based upon 'the present emergency,' but making it perfectly clear that the training and use of these troops was to be in the discretion of the American commander-in-chief."

Pittman Scores Sims.

Cross-examination of Admiral Sims was concluded today.

Admiral Sims was charged by Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, with a desire to "turn over the whole American navy to the British during the war regardless of protection of the coasts of the United States," and with having "favored the French or British policy, certainly not the American policy, of sending raw, untrained troops to France."

"The testimony before this committee proves to my satisfaction that you relied very largely on the British admiralty for your opinions and recommendations," declared Senator Pittman. "You talked freely to Americans abroad during the war of your belief that the American expeditionary force transport system had broken down and on November 9, 1918, you still thought General Pershing's supply arrangements behind the Argonne front had broken and you never expected him to succeed there."

"That is the veriest kind of rot," retorted the admiral. "No officer of my experience, not to say record, would allow himself to be governed by any such policies."

The hearing today was confined largely to technical questions regarding the placing of responsibility for alleged failure to adopt the convoy system earlier in the war. Senator Pittman asserted that the blame did not rest entirely with the United States and asserted that Admiral Sims had been "hot-headed" in charging the "murder of 500,000 men to the navy department," because of the alleged lack of prompt co-operation by the United States.

Frequent heated verbal clashes between Senator Pittman and the witness enlivened the hearing for the spectators. At one point the senator shook his finger at the officer.

Don't Shake Finger, Says Sims.

"Don't shake your finger at me," admonished the admiral. "It won't do any good."

"You are not on the bridge of a ship," retorted the senator. "We will follow senate procedure, not navy methods, here."

Well, you don't need to use police court methods," replied Admiral Sims.

Captain Horace Lanning, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation during the war and for a time acting head of the bureau, is expected to testify tomorrow.

Admiral Sims said adoption of the convoy system marked the turning-point of the war, and that the allies had to wait for United States co-operation before the plan could be made effective.

"The convoy was adopted by the allies experimentally about May 21, 1917," the officer said. "The United States was asked to furnish 14 cruisers for escorts. No cruisers were furnished for many weeks, and then only seven. I take the attitude that the American system was very effective when finally offered, but that our delay was extremely costly."

"Of course, we might say that if the United States had entered the war a year earlier, many lives and much property could have been saved," said Senator Trammell. "That involves a government policy."

Should Have Sailed at Once.

"What I mean is that our destroyers and other ships should have sailed the night we declared war, and there was no good reason why they should not have done so," replied Admiral Sims. "If they had 2,500,000 tons of shipping would have been saved, the convoy system would have been effective much earlier and the United States would have had an army of 1,000,000 men in France by May 1, 1918. The fact that after we declared war, many American ships had to be placed in dry dock and repaired before they could be sent to the war zone."

Senator Pittman and Admiral Sims clashed several times again today, particularly when the senator, in asking quesitons, pointed his finger at the officer.

The Nevada senator told the admiral he had not presented any evidece to support his assertion that failure of the navy to properly cooperate during the war had prolonged the struggle at a cost of 500,000 lives and a great amount of ship tonnnage and cash.

"Unless you can produce evidence to support that assertion, it falls flat," said the senator. "I notify you, here and now, that at the proper time, evidence will be introduced to show that the army did not ask for ocean transport that it did not get."

"If you do, you will have to disprove General Pershing's own report, in which he said he could not get troops to France when he wanted them," returned the admiral. "I think I have proved that the navy's full co-operation in the early war would have reduced the sinking of merchant ships, thus providing tonnage to take American troops abroad and thus ended the war sooner and saved 500,000 lives and great treasure," replied the officer.

"There never was a time when ships weren't provided to carry to France any American soldiers who were properly trained and ready to go," replied Senator Pittman.

sion of the North Carolina legislature to be held in June to ratify the amendment, he would have his hands filled with the question in this state.

Suffrage Opinion by Hughes.

New York, March 23.—Claims of anti-suffragists that the Anthony amendment to the constitution, if ratified, would be ineffective in states where state constitutions restrict suffrage to "male" citizens until such constitutions had been amended, are erroneous, according to an opinion obtained from Charles E. Hughes, former justice of the United States supreme court, by the National American Woman Suffrage association. Judge Hughes also advised the association that in his opinion claims that the amendment in any case would confer only the right to vote for senators and representatives was equally erroneous.

No Alabama Extra Session.

Montgomery, Ala., March 23.—Governor Kilby this afternoon set at rest rumors that he intended calling an extra session of the legislature to enact sufirage laws under which women of the state would be permitted to vote in the event the Susan B. Anthony amendment is ratified by thirty-six states, and so proclaimed by the secretary of state for the United States.

"I do not care to cross any bridges before I reach them," the governor said, "and right now I have enough to occupy my thoughts and time without going into the suffrage question before it is an established fact that the proposed amendment will become part of the federal constitution."

Two suits attacking the validity of revenue laws of the state are now before the supreme court, and an adverse decision on either, it is ponted out, will necessitate an extra session before fall, and in that event suffrage legislation deemed necessary would be enacted then.

SALVATION ARMY SINGING PLEASES

first by its rendition by the choir alone, then by the congregation, and as he was looking around for a new method of producing the hymn and of reaching novel tonal results, his eyes suddenly lighted upon the five trim uniforms of the Salvationists in seats somewhere near the roof.

"You sing it!" he shouted, "you Salvation Army people in the balcony!"

There was someconfusion at first because of the lack of books in that high place, and perhaps because of the shock which the unexpected request produced on those Christian soldiers, but the delay lasted for half a minute only. Then they sang, clearly and sweetly and strongly for such a little band, three or four feminine voices carrying the air, and one or two masculine throats singling out the bass with melody and true precision.

Two verses went by and they ended, and then a roundof applause deafened the ears of the people who had come to listen, but not to entertain.

Mrs. Beam Sings.

After the Salvationists had finished, Mrs. Fred Beam sang the melody over, while the choir hummed, and teh organ soothed and lulled the listeners into delght by its delicate accompaniment.

Then thehouse wase darkened, and Mrs. Beam and Mrs. Roy Walraven sang, as a duet, the "Holy Night," during which chimes were added to the choir's humming and the organ's undertone. With its conclusion, one of the most restful and diverting intermezzos of the Bible conference came to an end. People had been tthrilled by Dr. Evans' dramatic appeal; they were to be thrilled again by Dr. Morgan; their nerves and milnds were tense and alert, and teh complete change and relaxation of this musical interlude brought refreshment and a sense of charm.

The day's program had been carried out according to the conference's previous announcements, and was brought to a close by Dr. Morgan's sermon on the text contained in John xvi: 8-11: "And He, when He is come, will convict the world in respect of sin, and of righteousness and of judgment...."

"The text is so often misquoted that Dr. Morgan said he intends to write a book on the misquotations of the Scriptures when he has nothing else to do, which will probably be never, ut he said it would be a very big book, and he ought to know.

Three Big Matters.

"Sin and righteousness and judgment," said the doctor, "are the three matters that constitute the consciousness of every man when he is brought to the realization of his own spiritual nature; for Paul said: 'God hath made of one, every nation.' And He did not make the nations one blood, as some translations have it, but one spirit, for man is a spirit.'

"And you stop calling a man an animal," continued the speaker, "for he is no more an animal than a dog is a potato. The potato, a vegetable, and the dog, an animal, are infinitely separated, and science can never bridge the gulf between them. Likewise the dog, an animal, and man, the spirit, are infinitely separted and science has never bridged that chasm.

"The spiritual nature of a man wakes up in a departure from the ordinary course of life and events; in a storm, as of the sailors at sea, in a cataclysm, or away in nature, as in the contemplation of beautiful flowers."

The speaker made the statement that even the scientists, from Darwin and Spencer down, had everywhere and in all times found a principle in the universe making for righteousness, although he admonished his hearers that those men spoke a dead language, for the scientists of today are speaking in a different tongue. He went on to define and illustrate the conviction of the world "in respect of sin, in respect of righteousness, and in respect of judgment."

Sin of Unbelief.

"The easily besetting sin," he explained, quoting another portion of the Scripture, "is, translated, 'the sin that is in good standing around,' meaning the sin of unbelief because it is not thought to be disgraceful such as the sins of dishonesty or murder and the like, but this sin of unbelief is is the unpardonable one."

The program will be continued tomorrow as heretofore, with Dr. Evans at 10, Dr. Morgan at 11, Dr. Paul at 2, Dr. McPherson at 3, Dr. Broughton at 3:30, Dr. Evans at 7, and Dr. Morgan at 8.

Rev. Mr. Ham stated from the platform that a conference of the members of the Tabernacle would be called tonight after the services to receive the financial report for February and for the appointment of a committee to arrange for the ordaining of a young man into the ministry a week from tonight. He also announced that a revival would be inaugurated a week from next Sunday with the engagement of Gypsy Smith, and would run throughout the month.

Jameson Questions Survey of Church Conditions Here

With particular reference to the members of the Baptist denomination in the State of Georgia, Dr. S. Y. Jameson, superintendent of enlistment in the Baptist campaign for $75,000,000, takes mild exception in the state of Georgia, Dr. S. vey of church conditions in Georgia, saying that the conditions are not as bad as have been claimed.

Dr. Jameson particularly points to the statement "that only one person in four is a nominal church member and that the total contributions for pastoral support was 57 cents per member, with 18 cents for home and foreign missions.

Then, in a brief survey of some of the activity of the Baptists of Georgia, Dr. Jameson said:

"There are more than 700,000 Baptists in Georgia. There, therefore, would be a member of the Baptist church out of each four of the 2,800,000 inhabitants. The survey therefore must be incorrect with respect to church membership.

"With regard to contributions I can only speak for the white Baptist of Georgia. Last year they gave more than $2.00 per member for pastorial support, and more than $4.50 for pastoral and church support including church building, and approximately $7.00 per member for pastoral, church support, missions, education and benevolence.

"The distinguished gentlemen who are making the survey in Georgia are not securing all of the facts. They no doubt are honest and sincere but all the same they are mistaken.

"Georgia is far from perfect but she has made great progress each year and will continue to do so provided the people, however distinguished, who know little about us will attend strictly to the concern of their own territory and allow the citizens of Georgia to prosecute their own work in their own way."

MONEY IS ALLOTTED TO BAPTIST COLLEGES

Birmingham, Ala., March 23.—The Southern Baptist educational board today authorized the following appropriations to be made from the $15,000,000 fund recently raised for educational purposes:

Southern Baptist assembly, Ridgecrest, N. C., $100,000; John B. Stetson university, Deland, Fla., $100,000; Montezuma Baptist college, East Las Vegas, N. M., $50,000.

The board was expected to act late this afternoon on the request of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary at Louisville for $100,000.

NO TRAINING THIS YEAR FOR RESERVE OFFICERS

Washington, March 23.—The officers' reserve corps and regular army reserve will not be called for training this year, the war department announced today, but individual officers or reservists may take training voluntarily. Department commanders were authorized to assign inactive reserve officers, at their request but without pay, to regular army organizations for target practice.

NO SPECIAL RATES FOR YOUNG SCOUTS TO MACON RALLY

By the ruling that the Boy Scouts of Atlanta will not be allowed special rates to the big rally to be held in Macon in May upheld by the southern passenger traffic committee, many scouts will be prevented from attending according to Scout executive A. A Jameson. Mr. Jameson states that many of the scouts are dependent on the money that they can save between now and the time for the rally and if they can not obtain rates, they will be forced to forego the trip.

Mr. Jameson is of the opinion that the scouts should come under at least two of the classifications organizations entitled to special rates and that the scouts have been unjustly discriminated against. "The rules as I understand them," states Mr. Jameson, "say that any orders of an educational, fraternal, religious, charitable or military nature can secure fares and I can not understand why they do not group the Boy Scouts under at least two of these heads—educational and fraternal and perhaps religious."

W. H. Howard, chairman of the Southern Passenger Traffic association, said he did not think that any further action could be taken regarding the matter but that he would do all in his power to have it brought up before the executive committee, which meets next week.

PLAN FOR THE RETURN OF AMERICAN DEAD

Washington, March 23. — An agreement under which American dead in France, whether within or behind the battle zone, may be removed to the United States as soon as arrangements have been completed has been reached at a conference between representatives of the French and American governments. The agreement awaits the approval of the French government.

The conference decision as transmitted by Ambassador Wallace was sent today to Chairman Porter, of the house foreign affairs committee, by the state department.

Secretary Baker recently wrote congress that about 50,000 of the American dead would be brought home at the request of the nearest of kin and that the remainder, about 20,000 would be concentrated in major cemeteries in France which would be maintained by the war department.

The Biggest Hit

MEDITATION CIGARS

Are you suffering from over fatigue?

FEW people realize the tremendous fatigue that comes from standing or walking all day on hard leather heels. See what Dr. A. F. Currier of the New York Globe says, in the clipping reproduced above, to a man who has to stand on his feet all day. Every moment you stand, every step you take on hard pavements and floors, is a tax levied on your energy.

What Dr. Currier says, applies to nearly every worker. Even though you work at a desk all day, you suffer from the jolts and jars of pounding around on hard floors and pavements.

You can protect yourself from these useless shocks. You can cushion your steps against the daily jolts and jars. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out.

It is not just the rubber that gives O'Sullivan's Heels their springiness and wearing qualities.

Rubber, as you know, can be made hard and brittle as in fountain pens, or soft and crumbly as in pencil erasers. To secure the resiliency and durability of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are "compounded" with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

By this special process the greatest resiliency is combined with the utmost durability.

It is this special process that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are made in black, white and tan. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes. 75c attached.

O'Sullivan's Heels

Absorb the shocks that tire you out

When you try your first O'Sullivan's Heels, note their great resiliency. It is their resiliency that prevents you from pounding away your energy.

Mr. Albert N. Barnett Weds Miss Marcellus Hallman

Mrs. Albert Nunnally Barnett, who was Miss Marcellus Hallman, the marriage taking place last night.

Beauty and simplicity marked the wedding last night of Miss Marcellus Hallman to Mr. Albert Nunnally Barnett, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. F. Hallman, on North avenue.

The ceremony at 8:30 o'clock was performed by Rev. R. O. Flinn, of North Avenue Presbyterian church, and the attendants were the bride's sisters, Miss Margaret Hallman and Miss Susie Hallman, as bridesmaids, and Mr. Ernest Barnett, the groom's brother, as best man. Miss Laura Cole and Miss Gladys Payne stretched the ribbons that formed an aisle for the bridal party to pass through from the stairway to the drawing room.

The wedding company included the families and a few close friends.

The bride was lovely in her wedding costume, the gown of white Chantilly lace and the tulle veil also forming the train. Her bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Margaret Hallman was gowned in blue satin brocaded in silver. Miss Susie Hallman wore orchid satin trimmed with silver lace, and both carried bouquets of sweet peas in their paler colors.

A reception followed the ceremony, the bridal pair standing to receive congratulations before the altar of palms and Easter lilies at which the marriage was solemnized. Cathedral candelabra contributed their churchly effect.

Throughout the house there was tasteful decoration in spring flowers, jonquils predominating. Punch was served from a bowl imbedded in jonquils and ferns, Miss Harriet Haynes and Miss Jeanette Pomeroy presiding there, and in the dining room, where a buffet supper was served, pink was the decorative color. The table centerpiece was a basket of roses and snapdragons, and candle shades, heart-shaped mints and other details were pink. The music of a string orchestra was an appropriate feature of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett went to Florida on their wedding trip, and returning they will make their home at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

The bride is one of Atlanta's prettiest and most winsome young women, the daughter of the late Marcellus Hallman. Her school days were spent at Washington seminary, Atlanta, and National Park seminary, Washington, D. C., and during her young ladyhood she has divided her time between the social pastimes and a substantial part in the more serious activities of the younger set. Mr. Barnett is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Barnett, of Fairburn, Ga., and is representative of families prominent in Mississippi and Alabama. One of Atlanta's most capable young business men, he is assistant manager of the Georgian Terrace.

STUDY CHILD DIET.

Many young mothers find themselves trying to steer a straight dietary course without chart or compass after the children are off a strict infants' diet. They are apt to confuse a "good" appetite with an all inclusive one.

A big New York clinic has given its sanction to the following:

Healthy children between 12 and 18 months may have fresh bottled milk, beef juice, orange juice, chicken, mutton and veal broths; jellies of well-cooked and well-strained cereals. If the child is not subject to sore throats, colds and fevers—showing its digestion is not good—one or two pieces of toast or zwieback may be given daily and one soft-cooked egg.

From four to thirteen years we have to deal chiefly with the "forbidden fruits." Such children may have a good, light diet which does not include, for those up to thirteen, any food between meals. Neither may they have tea, coffee, pies, rich sweets or candy.

Articles forbidden children under seven yeras: All those mentioned above, and pork, ham, sausage, salt fish, dried beef, game, kidneys, beets, cucumbers, raw vegetables (except lettuce and celery), friend vegetables, hot breads or griddle cakes.

Articles forbidden children under four years: All those mentioned above and in addition corned beef, bacon, meat stews, tomatoes, sweet cakes, berries, bananas, cherries, and in very hot weather no fruit except orange juice.

MOTHERHOOD WOMAN'S RIGHT

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps to Make Women Normal.

Washington, Ind.—"I was in such a condition that I never expected to have children, and my aunt advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It improved my health and restored a normal condition of my system so that I now have a fine baby. Until she was about a year old I was very nervous, and all the time thinking something terrible was going to happen. If I heard any one coming, my heart would beat fast and I wanted to run. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and it helped me wonderfully. You may publish my letter, as the medicine is surely great."—Mrs. Iva Banta, R. R. No. 4, Box 24, Washington, Ind.

Among the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its ability to correct sterility in many cases. This fact is well established as evidenced by the above letter and hundreds of others we have published.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

HOW A BEAUTY CHORUS IS KEPT FIT

Mr. Gordon Saunders, assistant stage manager at the Adelphi, in London, is exceedingly proud of his athletic actresses, and to have one's manager as a gymnast instructor is quite unique in its way. These girls, apart from doing all their various exercises quite seriously, thoroughly enjoy it, especially when one of the beauty chorus scores heavily off Mr. Saunders, who instructs them in all—boxing, fencing, wrestling, &c.

ATLANTA DEALERS GET GUM SUPPLY THROUGH THE AIR

Two Atlanta concerns, the Capital City Tobacco company and Harry L. Schlesinger, the candy manufacturer, have received consignments of chewing gum via the air, the shipments being brought here by the William Wrigley fleet of airplanes which arrived in the city Monday. This is the first regular air delivery of a commodity which has ever been made in Atlanta.

The Wrigley fleet entertained thousands in the city with a thrilling exhibition of flying stunts on Tuesday, and the pilots also dropped many packages of gum from the clouds. Four were attached to parachutes and contained passes which entitled the finders to a free ride over the city.

Three skyships comprise the fleet which is piloted by Paul Milnor, Elmer Partridge and N. C. Black, all famous as exhibition fliers. They are making an extensive tour of the country, delivering chewing gum by plane and attracting the attention of the populace by stunts and passenger-carrying. The fleet will remain in Atlanta until some time this afternoon. The Capital City Tobacco company was the first dealer in Atlanta to receive a consignment of gum by air.

Dr. Brown and his delegate will represent the First church here, returning to the city Thursday to conduct the funeral of Isaac Westmoreland, an aged member of the church. He will invite the Savannah brethren to Atlanta April 25, when he will be installed here. Dr. H. H. Proctor, the pastor for twenty-five years until January 1, will preachr the installation sermon.

GOVERNOR DENIES USING MAINE CASH FOR PROHIBITION

Augusta, Maine, March 23.—Governor Carl E. Milliken denied in the supreme court today that he had contracted in the name of the state any indebtedness for counsel fees to be paid from state of Maine funds in opposing the suit of the state of Rhode Island in the federal supreme court to test the validity of the national prihibition amendment.

The governor appeared in response to a bill in equity filed by Winfield Scott Reed, of Bangor, a representative in the legislature, to restrain him from contesting the Rhode Island suit. He testified that Charles E. Hughes, as counsel, was employed by Attorney General Guy Sturgis in conjunction with representatives of other states to appear as counsel, by virtue of authority vested in the attorney general.

Under cross examination he added he had communicated by mail and telegraph with the governors of other states asking them to join the state of Maine in contesting the Rhode Island suit. He said he did not mention the attorney general of Maine or the attorney generals of the other states in these communications.

The court reserved decisions.

Would She?

(From Ideas.)

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," said the conjuror with a wave of the hand, "this is the magic cabinet. I invite any lady in the audience to enter this cabinet. I will close the door, and when it shall be opened again the lady will have disappeared, leaving no trace."

There was an impressive silence until a little, under-sized man in the second row turned to an enormous woman, who sat by him, and breathed eagerly:

"Maria, dear, won't you oblige the gentleman?"

"Dime Day" Will Help to Swell Memorial Fund

Pretty Atlanta Girls, Armed With Tin Buckets, Will Fill Streets to Secure Small Contributions.

Just a dime from everybody who will give is all that will be asked of Atlantans on next Friday, "Dime Day." Small volunteer subscriptions—a dime each—will be asked of every patriotic and public-spirited Atlantan, to help swell the fund Atlanta will raise to assist the whole country in erecting the memorial on the bank of the Marne river to commemmorate the valor of the French armies.

Atlanta's school children are already vigorously taking hold of their end of the proposition, and pennies are just pouring in to the principals of the various schools of the city. Lee Staeet school was the first to report 100 per cent subscriptions.

Although the total amounts are not yet available, the following city schools, with the numbers of pupils in each have reported that every child has contributed to the fund: Lee Street, 580; Fair Street, 480; Milton Avenue, 214; Calhoun Street, 299; Ivy Street, 317; Adair, 461; Spring Street, 290; English Avenue, 966; and Tenth Street, 609.

Girls Take Streets.

"Dime Day" will find on Atlanta's streets a large number of Atlanta's prettiest girls with little tin buckets for dimes, to add even more pleasure to giving to the fund to erect the Macmonnies statue near the village of Meaux, France, hard by the River Marne, where the first German drive was stopped by the heroic French.

Robert E. Harvey, local chairman of the drive, announced on Tuesday that the services of the Girls' Overseas club, through Mrs. Perrin Nicholson, Jr., Mrs. Smith Pickett and Mrs. John Toler, had been secured to make Atlanta's Dime day a success by taking charge of all the plans and details of the work of procuring dime subscriptions from Atlantans on that day.

Quite a bit of comment was caused on Tuesday by the appearance of a new American flag and the tri-colored emblem of France on the monster flag pole at Five Points. This courtesy to America's ally comes in recognition of the fact that America is now doing for France what France did for America in the presentation of the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty which guards the entrance to New York harbor.

Every employee and official in the city hall will give 10 cents, and perhaps more, to the fund which is being collected there in addition to the general donation which has been promised from all the city employees and departments. The work of the campaign in the various departments of the city is in charge of Walker Lee, executive secretary of Mayor Key.

Small Subscriptions.

Every school child in France contributed his or her "cinq centimes," or half franc, to the fund that made possible the gift of the imposing statue to America. And the leaders of the present campaign to insure America's gift to France have expressed as the keynote in the present campaign that they are anxious to secure small subscriptions from every American who can be reached, rather than secure large subscriptions from a few.

The sentiment expressed in this is that the gift is to be presented to France from all of America, and the desire is paramount to have everyone contribute. The names of all the school children, and the names of every patriotic, civic and religious organization who contribute to the fund, will be preserved in the museum at the base of the monument, which will be conducted by the French government.

The statue itself, designed by Frederick Macmonnies, an American sculptor, will be of heroic size, and will represent the Spirit of Liberty struggling against her foes. Double significance is carried in the sentiment attached to the spot where the colossal memorial will be erected, because just at the village of Meaux, almost within a stone's throw of the place where the monument will stand, is the largest American burial ground in France.

Hard Work!

(From Ideas.)

Lazy Lorenzo and Dog-tired Dick were discussing something they knew little about—work! "I think," said Lazy Lorenzo, "that if they did away with work altogether it'd put an end to these 'ere strikes." "Yus," said Dog-tired Dick. "That'll be the time when everything's done by electricity. Only got to press a button and the job's done." A slow horror dawned in Lazy Lorenco's eyes. "That won't do!" he said emphatically. "Who's a-goin' to press the button?"

No Joke.

(From Ideas.)

A man with a funny story had visited a dozen newspaper offices, at all of which his joke has been declined. He plodded wearily homewards. "There is such a thing as carrying a joke too far," he said.

SANITARIUM HEARING WILL BE HELD TODAY

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the third public hearing by the hospitals and charities committee of council on the petition of Dr. W. W. Blackman, to be permitted to erect a sanitarium at Piedmont avenue and Tenth street, will be held.

It is unedrstood that in the place of opposition which the petition has heretofore met from the board of park commissioners a special committee, appointed with power to act, will submit a report at the hearing today indorsing erection of the proposed institution.

The committee is composed of Norman C. Harper, A. A. Craig and J. H. Porter. They met Tuesday afternoon and heard from the attorneys for Dr. Blackman. With Mr. Porter opposing the other two members of the committee voted to rescind their former action objecting to the sanitarium near Piedmont park, and will state that in their opinion such an institution as Dr. Blackman proposes to build will not in any way be detrimental to the park.

Aldine Chambers, W. Paul Carpenter and Palmer Blackburn are counsel for Dr. Blackman. A large delegation of protesting citizens is expected to appear at the hearing this afternoon.

Small Boy Run Over.

A small boy was run over by an automobile late Tuesday at the intersection of Gertrude place and Mason and Turner road. He was taken to the Atlanta hospital by an ambulance of the Awtry & Lowndes Co., and is under the care of Dr. W. A. White. The name or address of the boy could not be learned.

Worth the Waiting.

(From Ideas.)

The worst of a man who marries for love and thinks he is perfectly happy is that he always bores other people.

Older married men listen to him in sad silence, sorrowing for his lack of experience; his bachelor friends all regard him as an unmitigated ass.

So it was with Simpson. For the umpteenth time he was telling Jimpson how much better the married state was.

"Take my advice, old chap," he wound up, "and get married."

"No, thanks," replied Jimpson, stifling a yawn; "it' too risky!"

"Not if you can find a wife like mine," gushed Simpson. "She's so gentle, so affectionate, so devoted!"

"All right," Jimpson agreed wearily, "I'll wait till she's a widow."

Barrerre to Tour Europe With New York Orchestra.

The Trio de Lutece, famous chamber music organization, which was originally booked to appear at Egleston hall this evening, will give its concert on Friday evening instead, and all subscribers to the Series Intime of the Atlanta Music Study club are asked to note the revised date.

Atlanta is very fortunate in securing the appearance of these famous artists this season, in view of the fact that the famous leader of the trio, George Barrerre, is now busily engaged in plans for the European tour of the New York Symphony orchestra, of which he is the first flute player. This is the only southern appearance of the organization this spring, and the three players will come direct to Atlanta from New York especially for the local concert.

The Bureopean tour of the orchestra, which has been especially invited to give the music lovers of the continent an idea of the state of music in America, is of added interest to the residents of this city because John Powell, the southern pianist who played last season in Atlanta with the Cincinnati orchestra, will be the soloist on tour and will play his Rhapsodie Negre.

The sale of tickets to the concert will open on Thursday morning at Cable Piano company. Tickets are $2 and $1.50. The advance demand for seats has been heavy.

Little Miss Annie Fay Roberts entertained a group of little friends at her home on Copenhill avenue, Saturday afternoon, celebrating her sixth birthday. Miss Mary D. Upchurch found the prize egg in the Easter egg hunt and Miss Doris Doster cut the dime from the birthday cake. Many beautiful wishes were expressed for the happy little hostess as the candles on the birthday cake were extinguished.

Among the little guests were: Doris and Mildred Doster, Hazel and Frances Wright, Marguerite Rawlins, Mildred Bentley, Willie Mae Ashworth, Clara Ashley, Mary D. Keeps the Straightest, Unruliest Hair in Curl

You've never seen anything work such wonders for straight, lank, unruly hair as plain liquid silmerine. Nothing else will keep the hair in curl for so long a time—nor produce such beautifully lustrous, natural-looking curls and waves. Damp or windy weather has no terrors for the woman who uses it. And no one need hesitate to use it, for it is so easily applied with a brush and is so perfectly harmless. It leaves no greasy, sticky or streaky trace. The curliness can be acquired in three hours, though many prefer to apply the liquid at bedtime. When the hair is combed out it is delightfully soft and fluffy.

Anyone who will get a bottle of liquid silmerine from the druggist and follow the accompanying directions will have a most agreeable surprise. The liquid is also valued as a splendid dressing for the hair.—(adv.)

For Sure Results use Calumet. It stands highest in uniformity and leavening strength. There is no more chance for to fail than there is for sugar not to sweeten. That's one reason why there's more Calumet sold than any other brand on earth. Another reason is—because it's absolutely pure in the can and in the baking. And still another reason—it's the most economical to buy and to use—moderate in cost, goes further and prevents bake-day waste. Every reason why you should order a can on trial today.

You save when you buy it—you save when you use it.

HIGHEST QUALITY HIGHEST AWARDS

The Great Impersonation

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

For the first few tangled moments of nightmare, slowly developing into a live horror, Dominey fancied himself back in Africa, with the hand of an enemy upon his throat. Then a rush of awakened memories—the silence of the great house, the mysterious rustlings of the great hangings around the black oak four-poster on which he lay, the faint pricking of something deadly at his throat—these things rolled back the curtain of unreality, brought him acute and painful consciousness of a situation almost appalling. He opened his eyes, and although a brave and callous man he lay still, paralyzed with the fear which forbids motion. The dim light of a candle, recently lit, flashed upon the bodkin-like dagger held at his throat. He gazed at the thin line of gleaming, fascinated. Already his skin had been broken, a few drops of blood were upon the collar of his pajamas. The hand which held that deadly, assailing weapon—small, slim, very feminine, curving from somewhere behind the bed curtain—belonged to some unseen person. He tried to shrink further back upon the pillow. The hand followed him, displaying glimpses of a soft, white-sleeved arm. He lay quite still, the muscles of his right arm growing tenser as he prepared for a snatch at those cruel fingers. Then a voice came—a slow, feminine, and rather wonderful voice.

"If you move," it said, "you will die. Remain quite still."

Dominey was fully conscious now, his brain at work, calculating his chances with all the cunning of the trained hunter who seeks to avoid death. Reluctantly he was compelled to realize that no movement of his could be quick enough to prevent the driving of that slim stiletto into his throat, if his hidden assailant should keep her word. So he lay still.

"Why do you want to kill me?" he asked a little tensely.

There was no reply, yet somehow he knew that he was being watched. Ever so lightly those curtains around which the arm had come, were being parted. Through the chink someone was looking at him. The thought came that he might call out for help, and once more his unseen enemy read his thought.

"You must be very quiet," the voice said—that voice which it was difficult for him to believe was not the voice of a child. "If you even speak above a whisper, it will be the end. I wish to look at you."

A little wider the crack opened, and then he began to feel hope. The hand which held the stiletto was shaking, he heard something which sounded like a breathing from behind the curtains—the breathing of a woman astonished or terrified—and then, so suddenly that for several seconds he could not move or take advantage of the circumstance, the hand with its cruel weapon was withdrawn around the curtain and a woman began to laugh, softly at first, and then with a little hysterical sob thrusting its way through that incongruous note of mirth.

He lay upon the bed as though mesmerized, finding at first effort that his limbs refused to office, as might the limbs of one lying under the thrall of a nightmare. The laugh died away, there was a sign like a scraping upon the wall, the candle was suddenly blown out. Then his nerve began to return and with it his control over his limbs. He crawled to the side of the bed remote from the curtains, stole to the little table on which he had left his revolver and an electric torch, snatched at them, and, with the former in his right hand, flashed a little orb of light into the shadows of the great apartment. Once more something like terror seized him. The figure which had been standing by the side of his bed had vanished. There was no hiding place in view. Every inch of the room was lit up by the powerful torch he carried, and, save for himself, the room was empty. The first moment of realization was chill and unnerving. Then the slight smarting of the wound at his throat became convincing proof to him that there was nothing supernatural about this visit. He lit up half a dozen of the candles distributed about the place and laid down his torch. He was ashamed to find that his forehead was dripping with perspiration.

"One of the secret passages, of course," he muttered to himself, stooping for a moment to examine the locked, folding doors which separated his room from the adjoining one. "Perhaps, when one reflects, I have run unnecessary risks."

Dominey was standing at the window, looking out at the tumbled gray waters of the North sea when Parkins brought him hot water and tea in the morning. He thrust his feet into slippers and held out his arms for a dressing gown.

Home Cooking

BY MRS. M. A. WILSON

Queen Victoria's Former Cuisiniere

Copyright, 1920, for The Constitution.

Considering the increase in price of foods since 1916 and the little, if any, real increase in salary for the clerical and professional workers, the housewife is hard set to make her allowance for the budget of today. She must exercise care in the plannning of the menus, so that they will supply the needed nutrition and at the same time come within the allowance set aside for intelligent marketing and purchasing the food in a systematic manner and then utilizing these purchases so that ther be no waste. To purchase food that is only partly utilized and the balance is allowed to spoil, makes for waste and increases the cost of that dish. Do not purchase foods that the family do not care for, no matter how cheap they may be. Forcing one's family, through hunger, to eat foods they dislike, is poor economy. Remember that haphazard purchasing is fatal to success in keeping a family well fed. Don't be afraid that your dealer or neighbor will think you parsimonious because you are necessarily careful and conservative in selecting and marketing for your table.

Management in marketing is obviously not the long suit of some housewives, so do not hesitate to step ahead of the unpractical woman who philanders her own and the tradesman's time with uncertainty as to whether she should not purchase this or that, or whether Johnnie likes this or that. This woman will, frequently, use credit accounts and then, when the large bill is presented, send forth wails of distress and that so-and-so charge and overcharge her—so-and-so.

Don't let bills run or accumulate—whenever possible purchase for cash, and not only carefully investigate, but weigh with a pair of correctly balanced scales your meats, butter and all other foods purchased by weight.

Clerks in stores and markets are human, and frequently when rushed make mistakes, so check up—the proprietor will gladly correct this when called to his attention. The "pay-and-carry" system has many adherents. This system is surely a real mony-saver for those who can avail themselves of this opportunity. Never send children with a note to the store, depending upon the butcher to select your cut of meat. If you are unable to go personally, have some adult member of the family devote a short time to purchase the necessary supplies—this method alone will insure economy.

Quite recently a little housewife complained about some canned tomatoes because there was less than a cup of real tomato pulp in the can—the balance being liquid or juice. Upon inquiry of why she selected this package, she informed me that the beautiful lucious tomato on the label of the can was so very good-looking she just could not resist purchasing them. This was an expensive buy for her and one that she will long remember, for she must need husband her resources. Don't purchase food just because it is cheap. Look into the product carefully and then plan just how much this product will fit into your menu—and how it will compare with other goods of same kind.

Purchasing foods out of season is extravagant and destroys the appetite for them in their own season. Insist that the butcher deliver with meat purchased all bone fat and waste with meat at the time of weighing. Render fat and utilize for making soup. Utilize bone and trimmings for making stock for soups, gravies and sauces.

PORTER TO BEGIN SERMON SERIES ON AMERICANISM

Members of the local chapter of the D. A. R. have been invited to be present as guests of honor at the Second Baptist church on Washington street, opposite the state capitol next Sunday night, when the pastor, Dr. Henry Alford Porter, begins a series of sermons on "Americanism." Special seats will be reserved for the Daughters who attend. The theme of the opening sermon will be "The Hand of God in American History."

Considerable interest attaches to these sermons owing to the pertinence of the topics to be discussed to present-day problems in America. Dr. Porter will apply the lessons of Scripture and American history to the issues of the day in a most practical manner. It is anticipated that numbers of people who are not members of the Second Baptist church but who are interested in these problems will avail themselves of the opportunity to be present and hear them discussed.

The program of the whole series follows:

March 28—"The Hand of God in American History." Guests of honor, D. A. R.

April 4—"The Men Who Made America." Guests of honor, the American Legion.

April 11—"Patriotism in Song." Patriotic musical evening.

April 18—"The Ideals of America." Guests of honor, the Advertising Club of Atlanta.

April 25—"The Blossoms of Memorial Day." Memorial day service. Guests of honor, the U. D. C. and Confederate Veterans.

May 2—"The Perils of America." Guests of honor, the Old Guard.

May 9—"The Pilgrim Fathers After Three Centuries" (1620-1920. Guests of honor, the S. A. R.

May 16—"The Meaning of the Flag." Guests of honor, the Kiwanis club.

May 23—"The New Patriotism." Guests of honor, the Boy Scouts.

INVITATION CONCERT AT THE AUDITORIUM

Tuesday there is to be a scientific demonstration of unusual interest. One of the greatest pianists, Leo Ornstein, is to be here and a few numbers on his program are to be immediately reproduced on a Reproducing piano, which it is claimed will give his performance with every detail of tonal shading and even touch. This is something the pianists have always wanted and the value of such an invention can be easily seen.

Imagine the pleasure to be derived from such records and the educational value of such a perpetuating of the art of Chopin, Liszt, Rubinstein and other pianists of a by-gone day.

This joint recital of the invention and the living pianist to which Atlanta's music lovers and critics have been invited by the Ludden & Bates company is being looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation and in some quarters with a good deal of skepticism. The skepticism, however, is likely to be dispelled for Ornstein has appeared before critics and music lovers in other cities, and pianists and reproducing piano have risen triumphant.

Godowsky of the fleet fingers and international reputation has also submitted his art to a similar test of reproduction with the same triumphant success.

Approximately 650,000 persons throughout Germany are now drawing the unemployed benefit insurance. In Berlin forty-two out of every 1,000 are out of work.

CANDLER TO GIVE CHURCH $45,000

Will Cancel Mortgage, Which He Holds and Present Deed to $300,000 Wesley Memorial Plant to Trustes.

On Easter Sunday Asa G. Candler will present the trustees of Wesley Memroial church with the deed to the $300,000 plant now occupied by that institution at the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue, and the title to the property will be received by Bishop Warren A. Candler, who will dedicate the fine building on behalf of the Southern Methodist church.

In order to make the title of Wesley Memorial clear, Asa G. Candler cancelled a mortgage held by himself for $45,000, the last dollar of indebtedness on this fine church building, and this gift made by Mr. Candler brings the total of his donations to this institution up to a figure well between one hundred and two hundred thousand dollars.

The presentation exercises will take place on Easter morning, at 11 o'clock, the last day of a series of revival meetings that are to be conducted at Wesley Memorial church, beginning next Sunday. These services will be conducted by Bishop Warren A. Candler, who will preach every sermon, except on Sunday night, when Rev. B. F. Fraser, the pastor, will preach.

During this revival Bishop Candler, who is known as one of the most learned and forceful speakers in the Southern Methodist church, will deliver some of his finest sermons, and in addition to the addresses by Bishop Candler, there will be a special drive for the Wesley Memorrial Sunday school. Fine music during the revival is promised under the direction of Rev. J. D. Swaggerty, director of religious education at Wesley Memorial.

By presenting to Wesley Memorial church the mortgage that recorded its last dollar of indebtedness, Asa G. Candler has placed upon its financial feet one of the most important institutions of Atlanta. The building, which is located on the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue, is not only centrally located, but it is one of the largest and best appointed auditoriums in the city.

Mr. Candler recently sent the cancelled mortgage to Rev. B. F. Fraser, announcing that the debt no longer existed, and the records of the Fulton county superior court show that the indebtedness has been cancelled.

The celebration of the gift made by Mr. Candler will be impressive, but simple. Asa G. Candler will present the deed to the property to the trustees of the church and the paper will be received by Bishop Warren A. Candler, who will dedicate the edifice in the name of the Southern Methodist church.

AMUSEMENTS

"Going Up."

(Coming to the Atlanta.)

The theater-goers of Atlanta will be given another opportunity to see one of the best musical comedies offered in a very long time. "Going Up," which had a record-breaking run of nearly two years at the Liberty theater, New York city, and which was seen here by capacity and delighted audiences, will doubtless command more than ordinary interest at the Atlanta theater for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing next Thursday. It is mighty seldom that a musical comedy possesses such a combination as "Going Up." It is not only a hugely laughable and intensely exciting farce comedy, but its song hits have become so overwhelmingly popular that it stands in a class by itself. Nothing since the days of the "Merry Widow" waltz craze and "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning Of Its Own" has spread throughout the length and breadth of the country like the "Tickle Toe," and yet "Going Up" boasts of at least a dozen other song hits that are quite as interesting. Seats are now on sale.

Guy Bates Post.

(Coming to the Atlanta.)

Guy Bates Post and his excellent company are this season appearing in "The Masquerader," one of the most widely read novels of the decade, that has received a very satisfying and entertaining dramatization. This remarkable production will be seen at the Atlanta theater for four nights with matinee, commencing next Monday night, March 29. It is seldom that a popular novel makes a good play, for the action of years, numberless characters and hundreds of scenes generally lose tremendously by their simplification to two hours, three acts and a dozen or so players. But here is one that does not. Mr. Post has never been seen to better advantage than in his exacting problem of playing John Chilcote, M. P., decadent scion of a noble English family, a drug addict and a human wreck generally, and John Loder, his double in all earthly appearance, but with a master mind. It is perfectly fascinating the way Mr. Post handles it. The audience will be mystified as to the mechanics, for apparently before their very eyes, Mr. Post becomes the other man. Mail orders are now being received from local and out-of-town patrons. The box office sale will open Friday morning.

Snperior Vaudeville.

(At B. F. Keith's Lyric.)

Eva Shirley and her versatile musical boys, including Al Roth, famed jazz dancers, offer one of the greatest jazz acts in all of vaudeville as a feature of today's bill at B. F. Keith's Lyric. Every act on the bill is a winner. They include Dixon, Bowers and Dixon, "three country bumpkins;" Tim Kirby, Joe Quinn and pretty Lina Anger, in a fine bit of song, dance and patter; Chabot and Dixon, a pretty girl and exceptional man comedian in piano, music, songs and clever patter; also Ollie Young and April in "Bubbleland," a great novelty, in which the stage is literally filled with bubbles. On the picture program are the newest Topics of the Day, Pathe News and Pathe Scenic.

New Bill Today.

(At the Vaudette.)

An entirely new bill of pictures and songs will be offered at the Vaudette today. The Guiliani Quartet, one of the best singing acts that ever appeared in a local theater, will offer a number of the new popular and semi-classical airs. Dainty little Marguerite Clark will be seen as the feature attraction in her big Paramount picture, "A Girl Named Mary," while Fatty Arbuckle in his celebrated comedy, "The Sheriff," will furnish the comedy for the bill.

"Easy to Get."

(At the Rialto.)

Dainty little Marguerite Clark in her very newest Paramount-Artcraft production, "Easy to Get," is proving one of the most delightful pictures that has been seen at the Rialto this season. The story revolves around a young bride who, while on her honeymoon, overhears her husband say "Women are easy to get, if you use the right system," and from then on, she taught her new husband a thing or two about women that he never knew before. "Easy to Get" will be the attraction at the Rialto all this week.

"April Folly."

(At the Forsyth.)

Today marks the last appearance at the Forsyth of beautiful Marion Davies in her wonderful Cosmopolitan production, "April Folly," one of the best pictures this pretty young Paramount star ever gave the screen. It is really a story within a story, and is absolutely different from any picture ever shown here before. Record-breaking crowds have witnessed every appearance of Miss Davies in this picture since Monday.

"The River's End."

(At the Criterion.)

Marshall Neilan's first independent effort as a producer, "The River's End," is scoring an emphatic hit at the Criterion this week. The story was written by James Oliver Curwood and such well-known stars as Lewis Stone, Marjorie Daw and Jane Novak are in the cast. The action of the play revolves around an outlaw, his impersonation of the officer who captured him and died, and his struggle to find peace and happiness. An extraordinary love interest is woven into the play by the mutual attraction of the masquerader and the sister of the man whose name he has assumed. Fox News, a Mutt and Jeff comedy and the Criterion orchestra, Dave Love, conductor, are other features on the week's program.

"Movie" to Be Made Next Thursday of June Caprice's Visit

Marcus Loew and his party of movie stars, actors, actresses and noted celebraties were given an unusual ovation upon their arrival in Nashville Monday, where they journeyed for the opening of Loew's new vendome in that city.

One of the most fascinating and popular members of his party will be here Thursday, Friday and Saturday and will appear in person after each showing of "In Walked Mary," in which she appears in the leading role—June Caprice.

A big number of movie fans will be at the Union station Thursday morning at 8 o'clock to welcome the charming little star, and arrangements have been made to have a camera man on the job to make a motion picture of the star and the friends who are there to bid her welcome to Atlanta. This picture will be shown on the screen at Loew's Grand during the week if it is successful, and there is every reason to believe it will be, for the best camera man in the south has been engaged to make the picture.

If you would like to appear in the movies and meet June Caprice you have the opportunity Thursday morning at 8 o'clock at the Union station on her arrival from Nashville.

WELL-BALANCED BILL NOW AT LOEW'S GRAND

One of the best balanced and most interesting bills shown this season is that at Loew's Grand today, with Adolphus and company, dancers, being the headliners.

The Bimboes, in versatile bits of acrobatics, are not only amusing, but they throw a thrill that makes one gasp. Henry J. Kelly, the little Irish-American, sings popular songs and Irish melodies, while his stories in Irish dialect are irresistible. Jimmy Rosen and company in a little sketch, "Call Me Papa," is one of the most amusing features of the big bill, while Frank Walmsley and Mae Keating pull a stunt in comedy that is unusual and very pleasing. The bill is a good one and justifies the splendid houses being attracted to the Grand.

"Nothing But the Truth," the big feature picture, is also an unusual attraction.

FIGHTING IS HEAVY ON THE POLISH FRONT

Warsaw, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Extremely heavy fighting is reported on the Polish front. "After a sharp engagement," says the dispatch, "the Polish troops launched a counter attack with bayonets and hand grenades, driving the enemy from the Polish line."

ONLY 300 LOCOMOTIVES FOR ALL SOVIET RUSSIA

Warsaw, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The report of Russian technical experts to the alliedd representaitevs at aWrsaw on transportation conditions in Russia, shows there are approximately 300 serviceable locomotives throughout the country, as compared with 16,000 before the war. Russia at present is building about twenty-five locomotives yearly, whereas, before the war, she built from 800 to 1,000.

The railways are from 2 to 2 per cent efficient, instead of 28 per cent, as reported to the allies by the bolsheviki. The rails eevrywhere are thoroughly worn, and no rails are being manufactured. Thes rail plates in many places have disappeared; the ties are rotten and there is great shotage of waste for cleaning and grease, so that the axle boxes, often made of wood, catch fire after a few miles. The estimated cost of restoring the railways is 2,500,000,000 gold rubles.

Sports — Jack Lawler Clearly Outpoints Benny Valger

Edited by Cliff Wheatley

Omaha Feather Gives "French Flash" a Neat Licking For 10 Rounds

Joe Levy's Protege Showed Up in Wonderful Style Last Night at the Auditorium and Was Easily the Master of the New Yorker All the Way—Card One of Best Ever Seen Here.

BY GENE HINTON

If Benny Valger, the "French Flash," was fighting his best at the Auditorium last night, and there would be few, if any, dissenting votes on that score, and if he decisively defeated World Champion Johnny Kilbane some weeks ago, as published, then, without the shadow of a doubt, Jack Lawler, of Omaha, is the next holder of that same featherweight title, for in their ten-round bout last night, the little Nebraska boy clearly outpointed the New York featherweight in at least five of the ten rounds and earned a clean-cut decision.

There should be no quibble about the verdict of a victory handed out by Referee McDonald. The latter gave the decision just as he saw it, which happened to coincide exactly with the thoughts of the some four or five thousand people who packed the big edifice.

Benny Valger had been heralded far and wide as the "French Flash." Last night, for some reason or other, he flashed very spasmodically, his sparking system seeming to be very much on the blink, and those very few times that he showed anything like class were not frequent enough to hear any great weight on the final verdict, as Lawler piled up point after point by the use of his strong and wicked left hand.

Valger's Infighting.

The only element of the game in which Valger seemed to be even fighting on even terms with Lawler was in the gentle art of in-fighting. In this one department, where skill is the only factor in the success of the pugilist, Valger probably had a slight advantage over the Omaha boy, but the number of clean blows that Jack landed in the open were decidedly enough to overbalance any slight edge that the New Yorker might have had in the clinches. It is true that Lawler missed quite a few swings, no doubt aimed at Valger's jaw, but when he did land on the aforesaid Frenchman, oh boy! The only real blows landed during the progress of the bout, with the exception of the final session, all came from the two mitts of the little westerner.

Valger and Lawler about split fifty-fifty in carrying the fight to each other, but which ever method Lawler pursued, he usually managed to land a clean blow without a return. In speed, with the hands and feet, Valger failed to live up to his reputation. His blows were not particularly well-timed, and time and again when Lawler was lying on the ropes, seemingly wide open, Valger's vaunted left would dart out only to batter the air into fragments.

Very little damage was done to either boy during the entire bout. At the end, both were as fresh as ever, and were really putting up a faster fight than was seen in the middle of the bout, when the thickest and hottest fighting is usually in progress. In the early part of the fight, Valger opened up a small place on Lawler's lip, doing no damage, however, to the Nebraska whirlwind. At the end, Valger's face bore no mark of the fighting, except for an unwonted redness, and a slight abrasion underneath the left eye, the result of a wicked right hook.

Blows Not Timed.

If Lawler had timed his punches with a little more accuracy last night, and had his aim been a little more sure, there would have been a different story to tell now. Several times during the bout, Lawler started swings, which if they had landed on any part of the New Yorker's face, would have given him a ticket to that sweet land of slumber where he was so fondly hoping to send young Jack.

Valger failed to show anything startling with either hand. His night except when embracing Jack in a clinch was practically useless, while his left, although launched at Lawler many a time during the mill, failed in its very first mission to find a landing place on some part of Lawler's anatomy. The little Omaha boy ducked around in a most bewildering manner, that is, to the Frenchman, and the latter seemed unable to land any punches on the fast westerner with any regularity.

Lawler richly deserved the decision, and he demonstrated one other thing to the Atlanta public, which is that he can now be considered as a real contender for the crown now worn, albeit unsteadily, by the fast-fading Kilbane. He showed more last night than he has ever shown in a local ring, and there seems to be no stopping this irrepressible young man. Youth will be served they say. Lawler is waiting for his helping now, and there seems to be but little doubt that he will get it before long.

Semi-Windup Fast.

The semi-mindup was a fast, thrilling event, and for actual speed and excitement was every bit the equal of the main bout. The contestants were Battling Barnett and Stanley Meeghan, of this city, and the mill was declared a dra wby our good and true friend Les Rawlings. There is plenty of room for argument concerning this verdict. In the opinion of the writer, Barnett had, without question, the first four rounds. During this period, almost half of the fight, Meeghan was taking the fight to Barnett and was being met with rights and lefts by the score. He seemed to be in a bad condition several times during the first part of the fight, but possessing great recuperative powers, he started a campaign in the fifth round that really earned him a draw, although if anybody had to have the decision, it would have gone to Barnett. The fifty-fifty break hurt neither fighter, and taking everything into consideration, it was perfectly just.

McDonald and Mike Cantwell, oldtimers and great friends, dug up the hatchet and tore into each other for three 30-second rounds, the event proving a scream, ending with both the "fighters" in an embrace on the floor, after the referee had been knocked to the ropes by a mighty swing from the mitt of Cantwell. It was declared a draw, as neither fighter was able to arise at the finish.

Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach, was introduced to the audience, and received a great hand. His modesty prevented his appearance as a referee, and he was excused from that duty, must to the evident regret of everyone present. The great ball player was recognized as soon as he entered the doors and he was greeted by a big ovation.

Two colored boys started the festivities off, with one taking the count at the end of the fifth round. The card as a whole was one of the greatest ever seen here, and was worthy of the fine house that greeted it.

"KID" CLAY'S SCRUBS AGAIN BEAT VARSITY

Administer Bitter Pill of 4-to-1 Defeat to the Regulars.

By Keller Melton.

For the second time in as many days, Coach "Kid' Clay's bunch of baseball Yannigans have led the Tech varsity a merry chase on Grant field, getting the better of their big brothers in close games on both Monday and Tuesday afternoon's practices. While the game on Tuesday was cut short at the end of the fifth inning, when the score stood 4 to 1 in favor of the scrubs, the affair Monday was a full-fledged game, lasting eight innings and resulting in a 2 to 0 score with Coach Clay's scrubs holding the big end.

Due to misunderstanding, it was announced in The Constitution some days back that Tech's opening game was to be played with the Mercer Baptists in Macon during the coming week-end. This brace of games with Mercer does not come until the following week-end and the Tech Yellow Jacket nine will officially open its schedule on Friday and Saturday of this week when they meet the fast aggregation from Erskine college.

With the close proximity of these games, Coach Joe Bean has tightened down on the squad, and practices on Monday and Tuesday were of the strenuous nature. In the game Monday, Levy, a member of Coach Clay's pitching staff, piloted the scrubs to victory and allowed the varsity not a single hit.

Tuesday afternoon Coach Bean used three pitchers against the scrubs in the brief space of five innings. Pruitt, Murphy and Dan O'Leary were sent in to stop the onslaughts of the Yannigans. The varsity, with the exception of the pitchers, remained the same throughout the five-inning game and lined us as follows: Captain Wheeler, catcher; Webb, first; Flowers, second; Turner, third; Cobb, short; Edwards, Settle and Barron, outfield.

The game was pretty even with the exception of a brief space in the fourth inning when the scrubs bunched three hits and pushed as many runs across the plate. The playing of the varsity was marred by several wild throws but few errors were committed on fielded balls.

The stands were nearly half filled with members of the student body who turned out to see how the 1920 team would stack up in their coming games. The feature of the game, so far as the stands were concerned, was the officiating of Manager "Ham" Dowling.

The teams lined up as follows:

Bengals And Braves Play Here

Game to Take Place Between Detroiters and "Beanboys" at Camp Gordon, 3 O'Clock Sunday Afternoon.

By Sgt. Major Frank L. Metiver.

Hughie Jennings, famous leader of the Detroit Tigers, with his troupe of Bengals, and George Stallings, the "Miracle Man" of baseball with his tribe of Boston Braves, will arrive in the city next Saturday afternoon. The two teams of these men will stage a game at Camp Gordon on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the big league contest to take place on Sage field.

Although quite a lot of interest will of course be taken in the renowned "Ee-e-Ya" Jennings, the fiery leader of the Tigers, who by his vociferous noise-making on the coaching lines has shattered many a good pitcher's record, the figure around whom much of the attention of the fans will be centered is none other than Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the "Georgia Peach," and "the" baseball player of the country. Ty is, as everybody knows, the greatest natural hitter in baseball, and it is expected that his part in Sunday's program will be a great drawing card.

Ira Flagstead, who is right fielding for the Tiger clan, made his first real bid for fame in our own Southern association. aLst year, Ira, making the third party in the wonderful outfield composed of Bobby Veach, Tyrus Raymond Cobb and himself, slammed the apple most unmercifully, and for quite a while during the bitter campaign of last summer slammed his way up among the leaders of the league. When the final summing up of the batting averages was taken, Flagstead was found to have a mark that placed him comfortably within the .300-mark. His work will be watched with a great deal of interest, as the fans of the Southern circuit have not had a chance to watch his work since blossoming out as a full-fledged major leaguer.

Boland Old Vol.

Another Bengal who is a one-time Southern pastimer and who is now considered one of the most valuable pitchers in the younger organization is Bernie Boland, the little right-hander who a few years ago, with the Nashville Vols, set the league afire with his brilliant work. As a relief twirler, Bennie is in a class by himself, but he has not been used exclusively in this role. Last year with the Tigers, Boland was just about the most effective twirler in Ban's organization, and he bore his brunt of the heavy burden throughout the year. Hughie Jennings has never been noted for any great development of twirlers, but he surely plucked a plum from the Southern league pie when he grabbed young Bernie.

Few familiar faces will be seen among the Braves next Sunday afternoon. Fans heard with exceeding regret of the passing from Beantown of J. Carlisle Smith, commonly known as "Red," an Atlanta boy, and in his prime one of the greatest third basemen in the business. "Red" was shunted by the Braves during the winter to the New York Yankee, who in turn asked waivers on the sorrel-topped third sacker. The Washington Senators claimed Smith at the waiver price, and at last reports he was still with the Griffithites. "Red" Smith was one of the most popular boys that ever played ball in this city, and it is to be regretted that Father Time, the greatest two-handed fighter that ever lived, has at last slowed this very illustrious player up. "Red's" recuperative powers are great, however, and he should have several fruitful years in the nation's capital.

Scott Another Vol.

Jack Scott, who not more than two or three years ago was a very prominent member of the Nashville Volunteers' squad, and who was considered one of the premier twirlers in this neck of the timber is a regular hurler with the Braves, and takes his turn in the box with as great regularity as Dick Rudolph ever did. Scott proved his worth with the Braves when he was first taken on by them, when he bolstered up the fast-faltering Brave staff in wonderful fashion. He was a great pitcher with Nashville a couple of years ago. He should be a world-beater now.

Possibly the only other member of the old Braves who has seen service under southern skies is Walter Tragressor, who for the past two or three years has done yeoman service with the big mitt. Walter was never much of a hitter, and in this direction he has taken not many long strides since leaving the Southern, but he is a fine catcher in all other departments. He was a member of the Birmingham Barons for several years, and the Braves were very lucky to grasp this valuable young receiver.

George Stallings, himself, will be the center of quite a lot of attention during the game, for the Braves' leader is a Georgian, born and bred, and makes his home in a little south Georgia village. Stallings made baseball history a few years ago, when with a wonderful pitching staff, a fine catcher, and one or two other outstanding stars, he, or at least, his team, staged one of the most remarkable and amazing spurts ever recorded in the annals of the game.

Had Been Foot-Mats.

The Braves had always, up until the year 1914, served as foot-mats for the other seven teams in the league. In the aforesaid year, Stallings gathered together a fine group of twirlers, and from the bottom of the league went to the top in something like a month and a half, winning the pennant in the National league, and subsequently the world's series from the last of the famous White Elephants. George has never repeated since hthat year, but in the next year his great pitching staff was shot to pieces and was never fully welded together again.

Last year at Camp Gordon, these two outfits staged a similar contest, and although it was a success in every way, that success was only achieved by the support of the Atlanta contingent of baseball fans, who turned out for the game about five thousand strong. It is hoped by the camp athletic committee, through whose efforts the two clubs were brought here, that the baseball bugs of 1920 will attend this game in as large numbers as they did last year, as they will be assured a real game of big-league baseball played between two teams of fine caliber.

All persons arriving at the camp in motor vehicles are assured a parking place, and are also assured that their machines will be entirely safe in every particular.

TECH HIGH-PETREL GAME OF TUESDAY WAS CALLED OFF

The practice game between Coach Anderson's Petrel scrub team and the Tech High nine, which was to be played Tuesday afternoon, was called off. No reason is given for the postponement, but it is supposed that the reason lies in the fact that the scrubs have not had enough practice so far and are not in shape to play. The scrubs, however, played the Oglethorpe varsity a few innnigs.

After it was found that the Oglethorpe team was not coming out to play the Tech High nine, Coach Fancher and Cochran lined their respective teams up and had a little combat all their own, in which the regulars won by a very small score.

Crackers Think Little Town of Bay St. Louis Greatest Camp Ever

Although Having But 3,000 Inhabitants, Mississippi Town Is Overflowing With Civic Pride and Interest in the Community—To Hold Southern Olympic Tryouts There—Monte Prieste Shows Up for Light Workout—Gordon Powell Nursing Injured Foot.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., March 23.—(Special)—The Crackers entered the second week of their training season Monday plus the services of Monte Prieste, twirler par-excellence, who blew into Mayor Webb's city a few minutes after the boys had finished a few hundred of "Zeb's" best eggs, ready to give Prexy Frank a summer of hard work in exchange for a goodly number of silver smackers.

Monte looks great and declares he is in the pink of condition. This will be his first appearance in professional baseball since 1918, when he left the organized pastime to grab his lunch ticket from the semi-professional outfits around Memphis. He's ready now, however, to take his place with the others of the Cracker clan, and Monte received an ovation when he stalked into the hotel Monday.

At the ten o'clock practice Monte worked out for a few minutes, but Manager Bob Higgins sent him to the bathhouse after he had pitched one or two slow ones. The new arrival is a right-hander and wields a mighty wing. He was formerly a member of the Memphis Chicks, playing there during 1918.

RESIDENTS OF CITY DOING MUCH FOR THE CRACKERS.

The Frankmen are unanimous in voting Bay St. Louis the best trainings camp in which any baseball club has ever knocked off the effects of winter. Responsible for this feeling are the inhabitants of this little city, nestled at the head of a wide bay that stretches inland from the Gulf of Mexico. And among the more prominent that are doing everything they can for the 1920 representatives of the Gate City in the Southern league pennant chase, we recall Mayor R. W. Webb, Charles G. Moreau, president of the Banderet Oil company of Bay St. Louis, and editor of The Seacoast Echo; Walter J. Gex, president of Bay St. Louis Athletic association, and George J. Toca, financial secretary of the athletic association. In the first place these gentlemen were instrumental in inducing Charlie Frank to bring the Crackers to the bay for the spring workouts, and having gained the Dutchman's consent, immediately set in to make things as pleasant as possible for the players.

Bay St. Louis is a small place, but the citizens of the town possess a civic pride that won't allow the capital city of Hancock county, Mississippi, stay very much longer in the bush league of community development. They believe there is a berth awaiting the city in the majors, and all of them are working with that idea in view. Down here there is no such thing as covetousness of a neighbor's possessions. Everybody is pulling for the welfare of the community.

This athletic association is something that was a complete surprise to everybody connected with the Atlanta baseball club, excepting Charlie Frank, until we arrived here. Five minutes afterward, we knew all about it. For instance, we learned that George Toca, as financial secretary, needs exactly thirty minutes to raise a thousand dollars for any athletic purpose, and that Walter Gex needs about half that time to prove that Bay St. Louis is the best place on earth to hold athletic events.

As an illustration of this, when the officials of the Athletic Amateur union were trying to arrive

Cincinnati and St. Louis are off in the lead in dope, with Brooklyn and Boston close up and the rest scattering.

The amazing thing to me in the study of the dope on the first base position value in the two major leagues is not so much in the slump of several of the stalwarts of previous doping seasons, but the great disparity of strength between the two leagues.

The National league, a league which we believed and hoped, was coming back and at last going to revive and fill with new blood, shows about the worst bunch of first basemen ever assembled in major league uniforms. The American league first sackers while not quite up to the standard of previous years, outclass the old leaguers.

With Chase gone, deposed at last from his supremacy as king of the first basemen, the National presents a very ordinary lot.

The fact that ancient Jake Daubert holds the undisputed lead in the National, is of itself sufficient commentary. Of course Jake came back strong last season and played far above the form he has shown in recent years, and I am timorous about giving him credit for everything his figures claim for him. Last year we were misled woefully in the dope, because, on the figures of the preceding season no one could refuse to put Fred Merkle close to the top. He had hit at terrific clip the preceding year, and batted the Cubs into a championship and last year he hit about the size of his hat, slowed to nothing and looked bad. It is to be hoped that Daubert, having regained his place among the top-notchers, does not slip. Moran is fairly well supplied with subs, but Daubert is needed badly.

George Sisler, of course, shows the top class in dope in the American league, with Stuffy McInnis close up and with Cleveland and Boston tied in first base strength.

Harris is a whale of a man and has batted his way up to top honors. Last year an accident in France delayed his return to Cleveland for many weeks, and when he did get back into harness he was not right for a long time.

Thousands of men who have known the name of Brunswick for years, realize that a Brunswick Tire has to be the best—for a mediocre product could never bear this historic name.

H. Damrau Reports To Crackers

Great Guardian of Hot Corner in 1919 Turns Up in Greatest Shape of His Life.

By Cliff Wheatley.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., March 23.—(Special.)—Harry Damrau, third baseman on the victorious Cracker aggregation of last year, reached the training camp this morning, and a few minutes later reported at Mayer field for his first workout since the chill winds of Jack Frost put an end to the pastime in 1919.

Harry declares he is in fine shape for the season's going, and if he is half as good as he looks, the infield problem is solved for Chaley Frank. When Harry reported for duty last year he was the unfortunate possessor of several pounds of avoirdupois that would have been better a good distance from Damrau's form. As a consequence, fans will recall it took Harry some little time to get into his true form, but this year there's a different tale to tell.

Harry comes for his training period with all that fat gone. He weighs 170 pounds, about 25 less than he tipped the scales at this time last year, and is ready to get right into the game. His hardest work during the morning was hitting out a few, and Harry stepped into the slow ones in his old-time manner.

Manager Robert Higgins told the writer Tuesday morning that Harry was in better condition than he had ever seen him, and would probably be permitted to assume an infield position within the next day or two.

During the afternoon workout, Harry picked up some grounders and there was no hint of a bobble on his part. Damrau reported late because his home was damaged to no smal ldegree by fire a few days before he was scheduled to leave Staten Island for the training camp. He asked time to arrange his affairs with the insurance company and the request was granted. Harry stated shortly after his arrival that he had spent the entire winter in training and expected few of the sore spots usually so prevalent during the spring practices.

Tuesday workouts for the Crackers were both tame affairs. Higgins and Sammy Meyer in command of the clan announced the crew would take it in easy stages for the next few days. Most of the fielding practice came during the morning, when a picked team took its place for the first hour's work. After an hour spent in picking up speedy grounders and chasing clouts from Bob Higgins' bat, the men were called in, and the remainder of the morning was spent in batting practice. This feature of the Crackers' activity shows improvement every day. At first there was a tendency, especially among the recruits, to draw away from the plate and trust to luck on connecting with the ball. Under careful tutelage, however, this evil of the candidates has been corrected and the lads step into the oncoming pellet with a savage determination to lace out a bingle. The infield continues to do good work, and with the addition of Harry Damrau it ought to develop at a faster clip. Every man of the infield the writer has seen in action shows good features that will make the final selection of successful contenders a difficult job.

Two Bay St. Louis boys, Joe Parilla and Theo Tudery, both infielders, show up especially well, and will wage an awful battle for places on the team that will carry Atlanta's colors during the approaching pennant chase.

Parilla is holding forth at the shortfield just now and he is a little wonder at the station, built just like an underslung racer and so small that he might conveniently use a stepladder in climbing to his seat at the dinner table. Friend Joe is one of the speediest boys on the diamond and the way he steps onto the pellet while at bat leads us to think that Hancock, Miss., will have at least one representative on the Cracker team, when they jump for another bunting in 1920.

Parilla, when he first started out, showed little inclination to stick at the plate when a fast one approached, but after a few lessons at the hands of Bob and Sammy, the little shortstop's batting average jumped like a new millionaire's social position, and since that time Joe has been one of the big-stick artists.

Tudery, the other Bay St. Louis star is working out at first base and while he has not been out long enough to get any real action the port-sided sacker looks mighty good to the scribes and other camp followers. Its a well known fact that Bob Higgins is a sort of stickler for a left-handed performer on the initial bag, and Tudery might yet receive very careful consideration in the final selection.

According to a statement by Dr. H. D. Lewis, a physiican of Bay St. Louis, who is looking after the invalids in the Cracker camp, Gordon Powell, of Winder, Georgia, a candidate for the backstop berth and promising in every way, will be ready to take his place in the lineup by Saturday. Gordon has been out of harness for several days following infection that set in on a badly blistered foot during Saturday's game with the local collegians. It was feared at first that Gordon would be knocked out for the remainder of the training period, and the doctors assertion today was hailed with joy in the Cracker camp.

After the examination of Dan Boone, sturdy twirler of the Frankmen, Dr. Lewis announced that there was little cause for fear that the big boy would not get in shape before the first seat cushion is thrown at Dan Preniger, his honorable umps. Boone had his little say with the surgtons sometime ago, when he extracted the fabled pound of flesh from his huge frame and as result Dan has been doing little since the pioneers arrived on the scene. Dr. Lewis would make no prediction about how soon the hurler would be permitted to start training, but he intimated Boone's period of idleness would end at an early date.

Several Liked Players.

The outfield is a makeshift affair but there are several likely looking players cavorting in the outer works of the Crackers. Joe Guyon, "heap big Injun," has been transferred from the infield to the right garden and the "Chief" is doing things to a fine "brown" at that station. Joe is showing great work with the willow and the critics have long since had it proven to their complete satisfaction that Joe Guyons' athletic abilities endeth not on the gridiron. The Indian puts every ounce of his strength into the wallops and every time he connects there's breakers in sight for the hurlers and a Marathon race for the outfielders.

On our list of Bay St. Louis residents who are doing all they can for the Crackers and for the newspaper men who are covering the daily doings of the Frankmen, we, desire to add the name of Mrs. G. H. Blaize, representative of the Western Union Telegraph company at this place. When the newspaper men arrived not a typewriter was brought along and the scribes were in the well known pickle in viewing the situation. Mrs. Blaize came to the rescue and found a machine for their dope.

Mrs. Blaize sends out about six thousand words a day of baseball information and will be one of the strongest supporters of the Crackers when they stroll out for the coming chase.

She has arranged a dinner party for the visiting scribes which event will be pulled off a short time before Chief of Police Albert Jones decides we have been here long enough.

J. Wilde Created Much Interest In 107-lb. Class

Up to Time of Briton's Arrival, Flyweight Division Had Never Been Taken Seriously by American Fight Fans.

If Jimmy Wilde has done nothing else by his visit to this country, he has created gobs of interest in the flyweight pugilistic class, according to Ad Q. Thatcher, Toledo fight promoter, who staged the Wilde-Mason scrap at Toledo reecntly.

"American fight fans have never given any consideration to any of the pugilistic classes below the bantam weight," said Thatcher, "but Wilde's visit has proved there is plenty of opportunity for some of the little fellows to make a showing, and I personally believe there will be a great awakening of interest in that particular division."

Wilde has everywhere been accepted as a master workman with the padded mittens. Not only has he always displayed a burst of speed wholly unexpected, but he has also shown that little fellows can pack a wallop and present fully as much action as some of the larger boys who have been monopolizing the spotlight for years.

It is exceedingly difficult, however, to find lads who can scale as low as 105 or even 107, who are old enough to box. In nearly all communities where the boxing game is permitted, there is a rule—unwritten in some communities—which bars boys under 16 years. In this country there have been very few lads over 16 years of age who could do 107 pounds.

Promoter Thatcher points out that the new remunerative fly-weight class will soon be without a champion of class. Wilde is the undisputed king of the brigade, and he is past 28 years old. His days of activity in the ring are nearing an end. Frankie Mason, the only legitimate flyweight of class in th is country, is past 30 years of age, and can hardly be expected to go on for more than a couple of years, at least as a topliner.

The Toledo show proved to be a money-maker. The gross receipts were slightly over the $32,000 mark, and Promoter Thratcher believes he will clear about $8,000 on the effort after all obligations are cleaned up. The bout proved to be a better drawing card than even Thatcher thought it would be. He admitted he felt somewhat uneasy about the popularity of the show up unti la week before the date of the fight when the ticket sales took a decided spurt.

Carpentier Bout With Dempsey Not To Come Off Soon

French Champion Has Three Contracts That Will Take Him Well Into August, With Still No Fight With Jack.

New York, March 23.—The arrival here today of Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion, caused the proposed match with Jack Dempsey to flame afresh, but after several hours of mysterious conferences with various promoters, there was little evidence to indicate that the French pugilist would meet the world's titleholder in the near future.

The abandon with which Carpentier and his manager, Descamps, signed contracts recently, here and abroad, stunned American promoters, and left them in doubt as to the possibility of bringing Carpentier and Dempsey together within the next twelve months.

A close analysis of the situation disclosed the fact that the Frenchman was under contract with three different promoters which bound him to performm certain services which are closely related and which apparently prevent him from actually boxing Dempsey for some months, providing he is so inclined. The English promoter, Cochran, has first option on Carpentier's ring services, providing he can obtain Dempsey's signature for a match, the option extending to December 31, according to one report, and to July, 1921, according to another statement.

In addition, Jack Curley, the wrestling promoter, has Carpentier booked for a ten-week vaudeville tour, beginning May 3, with another five-weeks' extension if he desires to exercise it. Curley said he expected to tour the country with the French pugilist, the latter giving exhibitions with his own sparring partners. Some of these will be French boxers, with the possible addition of one or more American pugilists hired for the work.

Has Third Contract.

A third contract is with a moving picture concern which has booked Carpentier for two seven-reel films in which he will take the part of a college youth combined with a boxing role. The possibility of a match with a French or English heavyweight in France in August was also mentioned and local fight followers are puzzled as to when Carpentier will find time to box Dempsey.

Manager Descamps, through an interpreter, stated flatly that Carpentier has no intention of engaging to box Dempsey until the latter's "military affairs" had been cleared up. A somewhat similar statement was credited to Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, according to one of the interested parties, who said he had received a letter from Kearns to the effect that Dempsey would not consider a match of any description until his name had been cleared of the draft evasion charge.

Tex Rickard, who was closeted with Carpentier and his manager for several hours, was noncommittal after the conference and refused to give any definite idea of his plans in regard to staging a bout between the French boxer and Dempsey. His only comment was to the effect that it did not appear such a match could be arranged for the summer or fall.

Carpentier Greeted Impressively.

Notwithstanding the uncertainty of such a conflict, Carpentier was greeted in impressive fashion and will be the guest at several semi-public functions during the next few days. Chief among these will be a dinner tendered to the pugilist's party Thursday night by the officers of the International Sporting club, at which a number of prominent personages will formally welcome Carpentier to America.

Several important announcements are expected to be made at the dinner which will be of interest to followers of sport. The formation of a league to represent various professional sport organizations will probably be made public as well as a statement from former Champion Jess Willard, provided the latter can reach this city in time to attend the banquet.

Carpentier is expected to give a demonstration of his skill if a suitable opponent can be obtained to oppose him. The affair will not extend beyond a two or three round exhibition and hinges upon consent being obtained from those promotors who hold contracts with Carpentier.

A prominent amateur with an A. E. F. boxing record has been mentioned as Carpentier's opponent but the question of the resultant effect upon his amateur status may prevent his appearance.

Carpentier's bride was not in evidence during the afternoon when the French boxer's hotel suite was besieged by a host of newspaper men and fighters. The rooms were filled with gifts in the form of flowers, fruit and candy, many of which were addressed to Mme. Georges Carpentier. The pugilist granted the reporters a few mintues' interview, appearing in a gaily flowered bath robe heavily trimmed with maroon silk, which contrasted sharply with his blonde hair and fair complexion. He smiled continually but did not attempt to converse in English, answering all questions through an interpreter, much to the confusion of the interviewers.

PETRELS ARE GETTING INTO FINE SHAPE

Oglethorpe to Open Season in Athens in a Week.

By Bob Nicholes.

The Oglethorpe Petrels are fast rounding into form for the opening of the 1920 season, under the master hand of Frank Anderson. It is only one week now until the proteges of Anderson meet the University of Georgia in Athens to pry off the lid of the college season.

To date the ePtrels have looked good at two practice games with Camp Gordon teams, winning them both. Today they will journey out to Fort McPherson to meet the local post team. The game is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

While Coach Anderson has not yet definitely picked his varsity lineup, he is gradually lining the men up for the various positions he thinks the yare suited to fill.

A rough survey would be somewhat as follows: As previously stated, Lucian Hope will handle the catching duties. No worry here. The pitching burden will be borne largely by Captain Turk and Smith. Little is another man who has a good looking for a varsity berth in the hurling line. "Kid" Simms, of the 1917 team, is also a first-class pitcher, but is having some trouble getting his arm into shape.

However, Sims may be used in the outfield, as he is a good fielder and a splendid lead-off man. He has an uncanny ability to get on via the bunting route, but is also a dependable slugger.

At first base are found three men who stil bust be given serious consideration. All three are football mainstays, namely, "Foxey" Knox, Cecil Lemon and "Coop" Cooper. Knox has handled the bag more, to date, but Anderson is also trying Lemon at the sack.

Lemon played the bag last summer to perfection with a south Georgia team. Either Knox or Lemon will make a dependable first sacker, but whoever finally gets the call. Coach Anderson will probably play the other in the outfield. Cooper has sprung into the limelight recently and will bear watching.

At second base "Cree" Davenport has the call and can lay the big in jam-up style. The same thing applies to "Chess" Chestnut at shortstop. Chess is a "pepper box" and the life of the team.

"Battle Ax" Walton has the upper hand at third. 'Battle" should take care of the hot corner in great shape as he is a afir fielder, a good batter and has one of the best arms of any player in college baseball today.

In the outfield are found six men struggling for places. These are Knox, Lemon, Nicholes, Carlisle, Willis and Simms. As stated above either Knox or Lemon will be used at first base, while the one who fails to land the initial sack will find rest in one of the three fields. Simms may be called on to do some pitching, but he is such an excellent lead off man Coach Anderson will hardly keep him ont of the line-up at any time.

Carlisle and Willis are both working hard for a berth and each has showed that he knows how to use the stick. Either will moke a first-class gardener.

The scrub team will journey up to Locust Grove today to play the local preps. The following men will make the trip: Simpson, catcher; Little, pitcher; Cooper, first base; Cody, second base; Durham, short; Price, J. J., third base; Turner, de Jarnette and Hill, outfielders.

CRACKERS THINK LITTLE BAY ST. LOUIS FINE CAMP

at some decision about the best place to hold the southern field meets in May, the Big Four of Bay St. Louis, Mayor Webb, Editor Moreau, President Gex and Secretary Toca, explained the virtues of the town to the national directors, with the result that Bay St. Louis will be the meeting place of the southern athletes seeking the opportunity to represent the United States in the Olympic games at Antwerp.

"Pep," we call it, when a town of possibly three thousand inhabitants gets the call over big cities in such a far-reaching athletic meet.

Mr. Moreau, editor of The Echo, is one of the best-known political writers of southern Mississippi, and is always in attendance at Jackson when the legislature convenes every year. He is a native of New Orleans, but after a short career as a newspaper man in the Crescent City, he removed to Bay St. Louis, establishing The Echo a few weeks later. When oil was first discovered in Texas, Mr. Moreau and his associates secured a lease on three thousand acres of land in the oil district, and a company was formed. All the stock is owned by citizens of Bay St. Louis, and a native of this city is managing the affairs of the company on the field.

Mr. Gex is an attorney of Bay St. Louis, and has always taken a deep interest in all the activities of the Crackers. Not a day passes that Mr. Gex fails to come out to Mayer park and talk things over with Sir Robert and Captain Sammy. He is a great friend of Charlie Frank's, and the two are almost inseparable.

Mr. Toca, financial secretary of the athletic association, is a resident of New Orleans, where he is at the head of a large insurance agency. The fact that he is an Orlenian has little effect on the almost daily visits to the lair of the Cracker boys, and Mr. Toca is a frequent visitor at the Klock hotel, where the Atlanta players are quartered.

Mayor Webb is the warm friend of every wearer of the "A" at Bay St. Louis. One could travel all around this mortal coil and find few beings that could match the mayor's jovial air and magnetic personality. He and the chief of police, Albert Jones, know every Cracker by the first handle of his name. "It's Sammy this, and Bobbie that," when these friends of the diamond aspirants pay their respects to the mighty Frankmen.

CATCHER POWELL IS OUT FOR A WHILE.

Gordon Powell, promising backstop from that part of the Empire State known as Winder, is nursing an injured foot that might keep him off the bases for several days. Gordon did duty behind the willow in Saturday's game with the St. Stanislaus collegians, but at that time he was complaining of blistered tootsies. Sunday he was forced to play solitaire, while his comrades strolled along the sanded beaches of the bay, due to an inflammation that might prove serious.

Sir Robert, while he is not uneasy about Powell's condition, declares the boy must rest for several days. In the meanwhile, the club physician has taken charge of Gordon's case, and hopes to have the receiver in working order early enough for Gordon to get in some action before the end of the training season. In the workouts so far Powell has shown worlds of stuff, and the writer will miss his wager a long way if Powell needs any more seasoning for a place on the Atlanta club.

Built solidly, and holding a peg that kills every attempt at base stealing that has been tried on Mayer field, Gordon was going like a house afire until old man Jinx stepped in. Let's hope that the boy with a million freckles will get back soon. He's a comer, all right, and under Bob Higgins' guidance, Powell should go far before he begins to see the scrawl of "finish" written over his diamond career.

St. Louis Browns Are Dark Horses Of the American

Jimmy Burke Has Five Stars in Lister, Jacobson, Tobin, Williams and Mullen, the Latter a Young Recruit.

By Al Spink.

There is one team in the American league today touted a dark horse and liableto fool all hands, just as the Cincinnati Reds fooled everyone last year in the National league.

That team is the St. Louis Browns.

This year the Browns have several young players who are just reaching the top crest of their playing powers and who promise to make that team a dangerous contender all the way.

Last year Jimmy Burke, the Browns' manager, developed several players who are now considered as good as any in the American league, and who are strong enough to make that team a match for almost any other in the junior major organization.

The Browns now have five crackerjacks on their batting list—Sisler, Jacobson, Tobin, Williams and Mullen.

The latter is the young St. Louis player who has been selected to play at third base for the Browns this year, the place filled so long by the veteran Jimmy Austin.

In the first game at Fort Worth, Burke sent in Mullen to lead off for the Browns, and in four times at bat in that game he scored four clean hits, a phenomenal record for anyone at this time of the year.

That Kenneth Williams will also do some good hitting for the Browns this year was proven in the opening game of this training season against the university team at Taylor, Texas. On that occasion Williams got three slashing hits, one of them a homer.

With these two newcomers and the three great batsmen, Sisler, Tobin and Baby Doll Jacobson, the Browns will surely give the Chicago White Sox a great battle at the very opening of the season.

Burke, although a veteran in the managing line, is inaugurating an entirely new system with the Browns this year.

First of all, he has given Trainer Bierhalter complete control of the training of the players. Each man is placed in Bierhalter's hands, and when word comes from him that the player is in first-class condition, he is set to work.

To Lefty Leifield Burke has assigned the task of instructing young and old players in the new rules adopted by the major leagues at their recent meeting in Chicago.

To Bill Friel Burke has given the assignment of developing the rookies, teaching them the fine points of the game, and then advancing them to the regular squad.

With these details off his hands, Burke puts in all his time in looking after the general work of the men, selecting the best team from a fielding standpoint and also deciding on his batting order.

As his chief lieutenant, Burke has Jimmy Austin, one of the most active players and quickest thinkers in the game, so that Burke needs nothing more in that direction.

Although the Browns have lost Davenport, once their crack pitcher, Burke has secured several younger men to take the place of the veteran, among them Burwell, late of the Joplin team, who has done very well in the early games.

Like Pat Moran, the manager of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, Burke is a veteran of veterans, having managed and directed professional teams for years.

When the Robinsons owned the St. Louis Cardinals, Burke managed them. A couple of years ago he was chief lieutenant to Hughey Jennings on the Detroit team.

In the management of the Cardinals Burke had a varied and often thrilling experience, for, beside managing, he played ball and did other things. That was the time when the Robinson family handed Jimmy a bunch of joke ball players, and he nearly went crazy trying to win games with them.

Jimmy was the regular third baseman of the Cards in those days, but the responsibility of managing the team and the steady way it lost worried him so that he forgot how to play the bag, and then the knockers in the left field bleachers got after him with all their might.

The way they guyed Jiminy was something awful. They would start guying, joshing and kidding him as soon as he came on the field.

Making Sure.

Little Alan (whose mother was in bed with lumbago) was playing with the trinkets on the dressing table. She warned him to leave them alonel or she would have to punish him, when he looked at her with wide open eyes and said, "Can you move?"

Worth Following.

(From Ideas.)

"Are you of the opinion that Dr. Smith's medicine does any good?"

"Not unless you follow the directions."

"What are the directions?"

"Keep the bottle tightly corked."

A "Plane" Fact.

(From Ideas.)

Two Irish laborers were watching an aeroplane which was flying at a very great height.

"Begorra!" said Pat, pointing to the plane, "Oi wouldnt' like to be up with that!"

"And faith," replied Mike, "I wouldn't loike to be up without it!"

Cotton Sets New Mark; Closes 110 Points Higher

Price on March Advances to 43.18 in Forenoon Trading—Reversal Brings Figure Back to 42.80.

SHORTS ARE SQUEEZED

March shorts were severely squeezed on the cotton exchange Tuesday. Atlanta spot cotton went to 42.60, a new high record. Tuesday of last week it was 41.65 and on the same day in 1918 it went to 34.90

During the forenoon Tuesday, based on New York market reports, Atlanta spot was worth 42.95.

Further gains are predicted in near months and shorts on May and July contracts are expected to be squeezed. The new crop situation is regarded as bad owing to the excessive rains, lack of farm labor, high wages and the scarcity of fertilizer. The lateness of the crop lays it libale to ravages of the boll weevil .

New York, March 23.—There was renewed covering by March shorts in the cotton market today which sent the price up to 43.18, or 148 points above the closing quotations of yesterday. On this advance a few hundred bales were sold by spot house brokers against which tenders are expected, and the price later eased off to 42.80, closing at that level. Later months were influenced by the March strength during the earlier trading, but reacted quite sharply, with later fluctuations extremely irregular. The close was firm at an advance of 110 points on March, while May and later months were net 30 points higher to 30 points lower. New crop positions were relatively easy owing to prospects for better weather.

The market opened firm at an advance of 125 points on March and of 5 to 20 points on the later months. There was some scattered selling on the weather outlook, but the strength of March stimulated covering by May and July shorts and there was also trade buying to fix prices. May sold up to 38.99 and October to 32.92 during the middle of the morning, making net advances of about 32 to 59 points and new high records for the season on all months except July. The easing of the March tension was quickly reflected in the later positions, however, with May selling off to 34.85, or within 5 points of last night's close, while October touched 32.30, or 62 points from the early high, and 30 points net lower. Prices then steadied on renewed covering owing to the steady tone of exchange and the steadier late tone of the stock market. There was one March notice today said to be against cotton coming here from Boston for delivery, and three or four lots of May were sold, believed to be against cotton in the local certificated stock, which has increased by 589 bales since last Wednesday.

ADVANCE SCORED ON NEW ORLEANS MARKET

New Orleans, March 23.—Wide advances were scored in the morning session cotton today, but later the market softened somewhat and all months went to small net declines, October leading the way on the down trend. Closing prices were irregular, 19 points up to 15 points down, compared with the final prices of yesterday.

The early strength was mainly in sympathy with the strong rise made by March in the New York market. March here displayed very little activity at any time and at its best stood only 35 points up at 39.70. It acted well liquidated. Shorts in May and July were nervous over threatened bullish activity in the old crop and covered from the opening. For a while the strength of sterling exchange was a buying feature, but gradually realizing increased from the long side and short selling reached important proportions in the new crop months. At the highest of the day the trading months were 26 to 55 points over yesterday's close; from this they reacted to levels 5 to 27 points below. Toward the close a somewhat steadier tone was assmed.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, March 23.—(Special.)—A further advance took place in our market today during the first hour in sympathy with some short covering in March and a good demand from large spot houses, especially for May and July. This buying was thought to have been against sales in Liverpool. After that market closed the south turned free sellers, the market easing quickly as stop-loss orders were uncovered. The weather in the eastern belt is very much improved, though some rain is needed in Texas to improve the badly packed soil. Crop preparations are undoubtedly late, but a continuation of favorable weather would mean a decided improvement. The trade are not disposed to follow any advance at these levels and while not looking for any permanent decline are expecting some reaction of considerable size to develop at any moment. HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New Orleans, La., March 23.—(Special.) The strength of the March position carried other months to higher levels today, but in the afternoon too much selling came from the long side to allow the market to hold well. For a while there was heavy pressure against October, part of which appeared to be coming from short sellers. The weather was considered more favorable by many traders and the squeeze in March in the New York market has made sellers wary of all old crop months and naturally October offerings increased until March is liquidated. The advantage will rest with the long side. DUGGAN & BOUDEN.

New Orleans, La., March 23.—(Special.) The squeeze in the March position in New York continued to be the dominant feature of the cotton situation today in sympathy with the strength of the near positions in New York, our market advanced to new high levels during the early trading, when July contracts here sold as high as 36.10 and October as high as 32.70. Around that level however, the market met heavy profit taking, which checked the upward tendency, and later in the day the market broke sharply on a report that the bulk of the short interest in March in New York had liquidated the selling pressure was especially noted in the new crop months. Favorable weather conditions over the belt encouraging both local and outside selling of October and December contracts. On the afternoon break, July contracts sold as low as 35.50 and October as low as 32.22. There was some slight recovery before the close, which was steady, with final prices showing a net gain for the day of 18 points on May, 9 points on July and a net loss of 10 points on October. Spots locally ruled steady, and 25 points lower on all grades. It appears as if the forced liquidation in the March position in New York, which has been the sole cause of the recent advance, has about run its course. Weather conditions over the belt continued favorable and spots are pressing for sale, as evidenced by the decline in this market of a quarter of a cent. The foreign political news is far from encouraging, and if legitimate influences are permitted to control the situation the market is likely to work temporarily lower, particularly on the new crop months. NORMAN MAYER & CO.

New York, March 23.—(Special.)—Today's market was again dominated in the early trading by March contracts, which made a sensational advance to 43.18, but considerable profit taking came in the market in view of more favorable reports being received from the south and reports of a somewhat easier spot situation. Extreme weakness in Italian lire brought forth considerable comment and indicated that unsettled foreign condition might still be a market factor for the immediate future. The March option will probably dominate the market, although more of a tendency has been recently shown to liquidate at the present level. JOHNSTON BROS.

GENERAL MOTORS AGAIN IS FEATURE

Net Gain of 26 Points Scored—Stutz, Crucible Steel and Baldwin Comprise Other Active Industrials.

New York, March 23.—Trading on the stock exchange today was marked by intervals of dullness and uncertain price changes, affording a striking contrast to the feverish activity and irregularly higher levels of the previous session.

General Motors was again the star performer, rising from its early low of 371 to 401 in the final hour and closing within easy range of its maximum at a net gain of 26 points. Stutz Motor rose 20 points to the new high record of 245 and Crucible Steel and Baldwin Locomotive at advances of 5 and 2 points, respectively, comprised the other, most active and strong features.

Occasional strength was displayed by other motors and allied specialties, also equipments, tobaccos and miscellaneous shares, but this was neutralized by pressure against oils, coppers, leathers and minor issues of no especial description.

Considerable criticism was leveled against the future operations of pools in the more speculative shares. This feeling, together with the unsettled state of foreign exchange combined to encourage selling pressure.

British remittances were steady to firm, but French rates weakened, the latter falling to a greater point of description than in the violent decline of last month.

The money market was not visibly disturbed, despite heavy withdrawals of government deposits. Call money opened at seven per cent and most of the day's loans were made at that figure, although 8 per cent was quoted later.

Some of the Liberty issues were inclined to ease, but the general bond market, including standard rails and industrials, was steady at nominal changes. Total sales, par value, $14,225,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

CURB SECURITIES

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1920.)

New York, March 23.—The market for outside securities today opened with a display of strength, but in the first few minutes when there was no indications of a further advance, bear pressure carried prices to lower levels. Selling was not general, but confined to those few issues which have been the market leaders in recent sessions. After mid-day the market acted in a better manner, but the tone was irregular during most of the remainder of the trading.

RUMOR OF PROBE DEPRESSES CORN

Federal Investigation of Report That Market Is "Cornered" Sends Grain to Lower Levels After Recent Gains.

Chicago, March 23.—Corn underwent a decided setback in price today chiefly owing to talk of federal investigation of reports that the market had been cornered by speculators. The close was heavy, 1⅜ to 3⅜ cents net lower, with May $1.55⅝ to $1.55⅞ and July $1.50⅛ to $1.50¼. Oats lost ¾ to 1⅜ cents. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 12 cents lower.

Although the likelihood of an artificial squeeze was generally ridiculed by corn traders, the talk of an investigation had an immediate wet-blanket effect on bullish sentiment. Many longs displayed anxiety to unload and there was much selling on the part of commission houses. Numerous rallies ensued, but the only important demand came from shorts who were taking profits. Increasing weakness in the last half of the session was due to evidence that eastern dealers were cancelling recent shipment purchases. Gossip in such cases said the sellers could not make delivery failed to act as an offset.

nsssE q" r$5ac Hfon nsxmp fl

Oats gave way in sympathy with corn. It was also said that eastern road were not able to furnish the liberal supply of cars which had lately been promised.

Provisions ruled weak, notwithstanding an advance in quotations on hogs. The down turns in provisions were ascribed almost wholly to the depression of grains.

Sugar.

New York, March 23.—There was another advance in the local market for raw sugar today, with prices selling into new high ground for the movement on continued buying by local refiners, and reports of further purchasing by Europe in the Cuban market on an f.o.b. basis. There was no confirmation of yesterday's reports of reduced crop estimates and the latest advices from Cuba said that heavy rains were falling in many parts, which were more beneficial than otherwise, as recently there have been some complaints of a lack of moisture in some sections. The sales included 40,000 bags of Cubas to outport refiners for March-April shipment and 25,000 bags to a local refiner at 12 cents, cost and freight, equal to 13.04 for centrifugal. There were sales of 40,000 bags of Porto Ricos to a local refiner at 12.50, c.i.f. delivered. The market closed firm at 12 cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 13.04 for centrifugal.

In refined there was no change locally and prices remain on the basis of 14 to 18 cents for fine granulated, with the undertone firm. Deliveries were increasing and refiners were said to be making pretty fair allotments, with a good inquiry reported.

There was a fair business in sugar futures, total transactions amounting to 700 tons. Prices were firmer, reflecting the advance in raws and closing bids were 15 to 27 points net higher.

RELIGIOUS BLOODSHED EXPECTED IN SYRIA

New York, March 23.—Sanguinary troubles between Christians and Moslems in Syria are expected as a result of the boycott declared against France and England by of Syria, according to a cable Emir Feisal, newly elected king despatch from Paris to the Sprian-Lebanese League of North America signed by three influential leaders in the Syrian movement and made public here today. The dispatch said:

"Committee of greater Lebanon telegraphs that by act of violence Feisal convened the self-appointed assembly which proclaime dhim king asks France to protect their rights, announcing its determination to repulse encroachment by arms. Sanguinary troubles between Christians and Moslems are expected.

"A later telegram says the Nuseirish section and the Druses of Houran and Lebanon have joined the Christian proclamation. The persecution of Christians in the zone of occupation by the Hedjaz contingent surpasses Turkish regime.

"Beirut complains that American missionary activities are encouraging Feisal to the detriment of Christian interests."

The dispatch was signed by Emir Tawfik Arslan, who was delegated the Druses of Lebanon to represent them in Paris during settlement of the Turkish question: Chucri Ganem, who was head of the Syrian peace delegation in Paris and Dr. E. G. Tabet, until recently president of the Syrian Lebanese League of North America.

The program of the league provides for the establishment in Syria of autonomous governments—Mount Lebanon with its ancient boundariet (greater Lebanon), Damascus, Aleppo, etc.,— nder the guidance and protection of France and the "independence of the Syrian question from the Hedjaz movement under the formula of Pan-Arabian, Arabic-speaking peoples, or otherwise."

ANTHRACITE MINERS GIVE AN ULTIMATUM

New York, March 23.—The anthracite mine operators notified the mine workers late tonight that they would reply tomorrow night to the proposal of the coal diggers to remain at work after April 1, pending negotiations of a new wage agreement, "providing the operators agree to make any wage award retroactive to that date."

Unless a new wage agreement is reached by April 1, when the present contract expires, the reply of the anthracite operators will determine whether there will be a suspension of work in the hard coal region after that date. The general scale committee of the miners, by virtually unanimous vote today decided that they would not remain in the mines at the expiration of the present agreement unless the employers agreed to make any wage award retroactive.

CONTRIBUTIONS MADE TO FRENCH MEMORIAL

Bags Passed Around and Large Sum Subscribed at Auditorium Last Night.

In the campaign to garner Georgia's quota towards the memorial to the French people to be placed on the banks of the River Meuse, a fair percentage of the part of the funds to be raised in this state has rolled in and additional amounts are coming in every day. At the Auditorium last night, at the prize fight, speeches were made inspiring interest in the memorial and the people of Georgia and Atlanta were urged to contribute.

As a result, bags were passed around and a large sum was subscribed. A wholehearted campaign has been made to put over this big project for a memorial to reciprocate the honor conferred on this country by the donation of the statue of liberty. The memorial will be a fitting tribute to the bravery and friendship of our ally and will be placed at the highwater mark of the invasion of France by the Huns in their "On to Paris" drive, when they were within 23 miles of the French capital at the little village of Meaux.

The drive for subscriptions for this national tribute to France is being conducted in every state and each has been assessed its quota.

The statue will be an impressive appearing piece of statuary. It has already been designed by one of the most noted sculptors of this country. The site for the location has not been definitely chosen but will be placed on some spot denoted by Marshal Foch. It will adorn a spot not far remote from the village of Meaux and will grace the bank of the River Meuse.

Women of superior education need not hesitate about entering telephone work. Their advancement and remuneration will be measured by their ability, as is attested by the many college women now in Bell telephone service.

The rest rooms are attractive and comfortable. The dining rooms are bright spots of cleanliness, and the kitchens are among the most sanitary in Atlanta.

Help Wanted—Female

WOMEN who enter telephone work are not limited to the actual work of operating at the switchboard. Those who are ambitious and display energy and ability may advance rapidly to positions paying salaries of $150 per month and more.

One out of every nine young women in the telephone service occupies a supervisory position and in Atlanta the salaries for such positions are from $65 per month and up.

A number of high-grade young women are needed in Atlanta to augment the operating force. From these will be selected many for supervisory positions at attractive salaries, as required by growth and improvements.

Women of superior education need not hesitate about entering telephone work. Their advancement and remuneration will be measured by their ability, as is attested by the many college women now in Bell telephone service.

The conditions under which telephone work is done are ideal. The operating rooms are clean, well ventilated, well lighted and well heated.

The rest rooms are attractive and comfortable. The dining rooms are bright spots of cleanliness, and the kitchens are among the most sanitary in Atlanta.

The food is of the best quality, daintily served at actual cost.

Well-known and experienced women act as matrons and devote their effort toward safeguarding the health and comfort of the young women.

Annual vacations are given with full pay, and there is protection from financial loss in case of sickness.

Twelve dollars per week is paid when you enter the training class.

Visit one of the exchanges with your mother or friends and investigate the work and surroundings and then apply to Miss Bell, 25 Auburn avenue, for enrollment in our next training course.

TWO AUTO ACCIDENTS ON TUESDAY EVENING

Eddie Deantignac, colored, aged 13, of 241 Butler street, was run down by an automobile at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the corner of Auburn avenue and Butler street. He was taken to Grady hospital, where it was found he had sustained a double fracture of his right ankle and other injuries of a more minor nature.

Less than 10 minutes later at the corner of Ivy street and Exchange place, only a few blocks away, Otis Glass, colored, aged 14, of 282 Terry street, was run over by an automobile, which fractured his left leg. He was taken to Grady hospital by the driver of the car which struck him, but the driver left the hospital without giving a name or address.

BUSINESS INCOME PROPERTY

Combines Good Net Income With Future Enhanced Value.

We call your attention to the substantial two-story brick building situated on the northwest corner of Edgewood avenue and Boulevard; lot is 55x98, divided into three stores. Present rentals are as follows:

No. 390 (Corner Drug Store) rents for..... $60
No. 388 (Grocery Store) rents for..... $50
No. 386 and upstairs (Bakery) $90
No. 390½ (office) $35

Total monthly rent $235
Annual rent $2,820

Leases extend to September, 1922, except the bakery, which is leased to 1923 with an additional two-year privilege. This building now yields over $2,400 per year net income; with the White Motor Co. service station going up within one block and the general development of that section, it is certain to yield a much larger income after 1922, when most of the leases expire.

We can sell this property for $30,000. It is now paying over 8 per cent net; the building is of the very best construction, and is in first-class condition, requiring practically no repairs.

WE now have in our shop one of the best platinum designers in the country, enabling us to submit without delay original sketches of platinum and diamond jewelry and to make the desired article in our own workrooms. We believe our patrons will find this much more satisfactory than the customary plan of waiting for the drawings to be made in New York, and then waiting again for the work to be executed after the design has been approved.

FEDERAL

Confidence to the Tune of Fifty Thousand Dollars

Short hauls, long hauls — live weight, dead weight—rain or shine—winter or summer—the Federal Truck for 10 years has builded a reputation for dependability. That dependability has been appreciated by the truck-purchasing public by a $50,000,000 vote of confidence.

We are proud of the part we have played in bringing Federal sales up to this high level.

This 1½-ton Federal just delivered to the Standard Gas Products Company, successors to the Bird-Wilcox Co., is small evidence of the great confidence the public has in Federal Trucks.

This is one of the many trucks which we have recently delivered to users in Atlanta, many of whom are just beginning to completely "Federalize" their local transportation, as many older Federal users have already done.
